World War Dead Fitly Honored

Land Lands Express Joy in Services Symbolizing Dawn of Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The nation today paid its annual Armistice Day tribute to the dead of the World War.

From Maine to California, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf the nation's hills in gratitude over the sacrifice of the great struggle were observed by Americans without regard to creed or station in life.

Those on the list of those dead to whom reverence was paid was the Unknown Soldier, lying in Arlington National Cemetery. The tomb of the hero became the mecca toward which patriotic pilgrimages turned to homage.

COOLIDGE LEADS

President Coolidge led the American people in rendering honor to the world's symbol of all the dead of war. Without ostentation he proceeded to Arlington and placed a wreath on the impressive tomb. Mrs. Coolidge had a single white rose before her. A short distance away the Premier of Canada presented to the Premier of America a cross of sacrifice made by a group of American boys who served in Canadian uniforms before the United States entered the war. Only because the bond of friendship between the two countries, 200 American soldiers were permitted to march through Washington streets with arms, marking the first time Americans have so paraded here since the War of 1812.

From the high hill where Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral overlooks Woodrow Wilson, the dead statesman, was accorded his share of honors by those who annually pause on Armistice Day to hold memorial services at his tomb.

BUSINESS HALTS

Even the wild aspects of the Armistice Day, the ceremonies in many American cities were missing. In New York, Chicago, Boston, and many other places, the traditional two minutes' halt of all activities was ordered at 11 o'clock. Chicago's celebration surpassed nothing except the spontaneous outburst when the armistice was signed. There were parades in the streets of the city, and buglers sounded the downtown area from time to time when the memorable hour was reached.

Throughout the period of silence that was observed generally throughout the land, there were memorial services in many cities. A special light in New York marked the setting for a ceremony at which Mayor Walker spoke and children sang patriotic hymns.

In Boston, a wreath enveloped the bronze statue of the day in flood-swept England. Although in Vermont, Armistice Day is normally a holiday, the crowded population could give no attention to its observance, as it was in the midst of a struggle for rehabilitation.

Almost every large city in the nation were held and floral tributes laid, with veterans' organizations leading in the arrangement of the ceremonies.

Will Rogers Remarks:

TOPEKA (Kan.) Nov. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Been a coming through Kansas corn field all day. This country is so busy gathering corn they can't get 'em to town to holler for relief. Down South the boll weevil eat enough cotton to keep it high priced. Cattle couldn't wait for election year to go up in price. If Cal can give 'em one more year of rain and boll weevil, I'll cop William Hearst's $10,000.

What other man has the Republicans got that can control the weather and insects like that? John Roach Straton and his divine healing is the only one I can think of off hand.

Loose Ends in Teapot Case Tampering Inquiry Now Being Gathered Up

Startling Disclosures Will be Made Next Week by Government's Men

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Stray ends of the skein of evidence in the Fall-Sinclair oil trial jury tangle were gathered together today by the grand jury, while prosecuting officers prepared for presentation of what they describe as a startling disclosure in the case.

The officers say the new angle will be developed Monday or Tuesday, and that meantime they can not even hint at its nature as premature announcement might result in a checkmating of their carefully laid plans to piece this into the whole fabric.

The grand jury will conclude its second week of work with a two hours' session tomorrow, and those directing the investigation hope to complete the presentation of evidence by Tuesday. Then the grand jury will decide whether it is to make a presentment on which indictments will be based.

MANY INDICTMENTS DUE

While no one can tell what is in the mind of the grand jury, the expectation now is that there will be many indictments or a single indict-

IOWA JOYS RECALLED

Hoover Tells of Boyhood Days

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Members of the Iowa Society got an X-ray of the human qualities of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, last night when he made an address to some of his old neighbors. He was born in Iowa August 10, 1874, at West Branch, and the blaze of revelation of his life in Iowa as a 10-year-old boy surprised his hearers who always have thought of him as a great engineer, a human dynamo, a financial wizard and a handy man in any emergency at home or abroad.

None of the Iowans who listened to him last night had realized that he is so human and had his troubles and joys in the Hawkeye State just like all other youngsters. They expected to hear about his vast public service in the United States and abroad but he talked more about his childhood trials and pleasures. The demand for copies of this speech has exhausted the supply and people all over the city are begging for copies to send to their friends over the United States.

OH, THOSE DINNERS

It was Herbert Hoover, the boy, who mingled with the people of his native State, and he regaled them with recollections of his youth there—of Aunt Millie's Sunday dinners, of rabbit catching with a figure-four trap made of a cracker box, of prairie-chicken hunting, of catching sunfish with a willow pole and a penny hook when fish "used to bite instead of strike," of running errands for a gum drop, and, perish the thought, of stepping on a red-hot iron chip in his father's blacksmith shop.

It was a human story that the Cabinet officer told of his early life in Iowa, of its hardships and happiness, and he lightly touched the transformation that has come there in the years since he left that State. He pointed out that in those days 60 per cent of the farmers' needs were raised and consumed right on the place, so that the price brought in the city by the remaining 20 per cent was not all important. Today the farmer consumes but 20 per cent of his own products on the farm, so that if the other 80 per cent reaches the market in a slump he is in immediate danger.

"As the head of the Department of Commerce," began Mr. Hoover, "I am presumed to deal on all public occasions with heavy economic discussions, with terrific volleys of statistics, diatribes on national delinquencies, or sovereign remedies for national economic woes, or solemn assurances as to the progress of national welfare.

IMPRESSED BY NATURE

"I suppose I could talk about Iowa in this fashion. But I prefer to think of Iowa as I saw it through the eyes of a 10-year-old boy—and the eyes of all 10-year-old Iowa boys are or should be filled with the wonders of Iowa streams and woods, of the mystery of growing crops.

"I was told that when I went back everything would have shrunk up and become small and ordinary. For instance, there was Cook's Hill—that great long hill where on winter nights we slid down at terrific speed with our tummies tight to home-made sleds.

"I've seen it several times since: it's a good hill and except for the older method of thawing out frozen toes with ice water the operation needs no modern improvement. The old swimming hole under the willows down by the railroad bridge is still operating efficiently, albeit modern mothers probably compel their youngsters to take a bath to get rid of clean and healthy mud when they come home. The hole still needs to be deepened, however.

TOO MUCH MUD

"It is hard to keep from pounding the mud with your hands and feet when you shove off for the thirty feet of a cross-channel swim.

"And there were the woods down the Burlington track. The denudation of our forest hasn't reached them even yet, and I know there are rabbits still being trapped in cracker boxes held open by a figure four at the behest of small boys at this very time. I suspect, however, that the conservationists have invented some kind of a closed season before now.

"There also were at times pigeons in this great forest and prarie chickens in the fields. With the efficient instruction of a real live American Indian boy from a neighboring Indian school on the subject of bows and arrows, we sometimes, by firing volleys in battalions, were able to bring down a pigeon or a chicken. The Ritz Hotel has never yet provided game of such wondrous flavor as this bird plucked and half-cooked over the small boy's camp fire.

"In those days there were sun and catfish to be had. Nor did we possess the modern equipment in artificial lures, tackle assembled from the steel of Damascus, the bamboos of Siam, tin of Bangkok, the lacquer of China or silver of Colorado.

WORMS CAUGHT FISH

"We still were in that rude but highly social condition of using a willow pole with a butcher string line and hooks ten for a dime. Our compelling lure was a segment of an angle worm and our incantation was to spit on the bait. We lived in the time when fish used to bite instead of strike and we knew it bit when the cork bobbed. Moreover, we ate the fish.

"In the matter of eating, my recol-

Wattersons in Court Monday

Brothers Convicted on All Charges of Embezzlement Will Ask Probation

Owens Valley Almost Solid in Approving Verdict as Everyone Discusses It

BY CHESTER G. HANSON
"Times" Staff Correspondent

BISHOP, Nov. 11.—The Owens Valley today celebrated its most memorable armistice since the close of the World War by heaving sighs of relief over the conclusion of the trial of the Watterson brothers on charges of embezzlement, and by commenting on the verdict of guilty on all thirty-six counts charged against them.

Up and down the valley expressions of approval of the verdict are general, the approval in many instances coming from quarters generally conceded to be pro-Watterson. Expressions of sympathy for the Watterson families also are heard on every side. Here is a typical comment on the verdict from a man who up until the very opening of the trial believed in the innocence of the Wattersons, a man who had some thousands of dollars, his life savings, in the bank when it closed:

"Well, if the jury of twelve men and women from this county sat there and heard all the evidence that was put in and voted guilty against them, I guess there's no doubt about it. Don't hardly seem possible to me. It isn't the money I lost so much as the faith in men that I have lost. Why, I trusted those men like they were brothers of mine."

FEW CRITICISMS

Even in Bishop, known as the center of the pro-Watterson sentiment, there seems to be but few people who express disapproval of the verdict. What criticism is heard is along the line that the Wattersons were not permitted to put in all of their evidence. Those taking the opposite view point out that the Wattersons can appeal their case and if any errors were committed the Supreme Court can point them out and give them another trial. Groups of men, many of them in habiliments of cowboys, or men of ranch and mountain stand about the street corners here today discussing the verdict; here and there, too, a group of women, meeting downtown on the holiday. With everyone the conviction of the Wattersons on the charges of embezzlement and falsifying their bank statement, is the topic for discussion.

Along with the comment on the verdict there is considerable speculation on the possibility of the Wattersons receiving probation. The brothers will appear before Judge Lambert at Independence Monday afternoon for sentence. At that time they will make their motion for a new trial, apply for probation and give notice of appeal, if an appeal is to be taken.

BROTHERS SILENT

Attorneys Phil Carey and Marvin Sherwin for the defense will support their application for probation with a number of character witnesses. It was learned today. If given the time it is understood they also may circulate a petition for signatures of persons supporting the application for probation. Dist.-Atty. Hession has not stated his attitude on the question of probation. On the matter of probation the natives here do not seem to be agreed. Some are against it and some are for it.

Taking up another line of comment, it generally is agreed that the disposal of the Watterson case paves the way for "peace in the valley." The oft-expressed hope is "now let us all try to get together and work toward a common goal."

W. W. Watterson, the elder brother, drove over to Keeler today. It is there that the Natural Soda Products Company, one of the Watterson commercial enterprises, is located. M. Q. Watterson at his home said he has no comment to make at this time.

CHICAGO HIT BY WINTER'S VANGUARD

Several Injured, Damage Heavy in Wind and Rain Ushering in Cold Wave

CHICAGO, Nov. 11. (AP)—As a forerunner to the cold wave predicted for the week-end, a severe wind and rainstorm swept through the Southwestern Chicago district late today, injuring several persons, none seriously, and devastating several thousand dollars' worth of property along the Illinois Central suburban tracks.

The wind and rainstorm, weather forecasters said, were the vanguard of the first real winter weather, which is due to hit Chicago by Sunday. A temperature of as low as 15 deg. above zero with snow was predicted in the offing.

The storm, which broke with unusual suddenness, also hit Niles Center and other Northeastern Chicago suburbs.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11. (AP)—Indian summer fled from the Middle West tonight before a fast-moving cold wave borne down from the snowy peaks of the Canadian Rockies by a stiff and icy wind. The advance of the first real winter weather of the season was heralded by snowfall in parts of Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa and by tumbling temperatures from the Canadian border to Oklahoma.

Cold-wave warnings were issued for the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with near-zero temperatures forecast for the northern belt. States eastward from the Mississippi River also were in for lower temperatures.

North May Get Rainfall Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—With a storm centering off the Oregon and Washington coasts of sufficient intensity to call for southeast warnings, Forecaster Bowie tonight predicted that Northern California probably will get some more rain tomorrow. The presence of the low-pressure area in the Pacific and another just east of the Rockies led to the opinion by Bowie that, if it rains, it will be early in the day, clearing in the afternoon for football contests.

PRESIDENT SELECTED FOR CHURCH SCHOOL

CHICAGO, Nov. 11. (AP)—Dr. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, has been chosen persident of McCormick Theological Seminary, a Presbyterian school here, it was announced today.

BISHOP HENDRIX SUCCUMBS

Was Leader in Methodist Missionary Service and President of Federal Church Council

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11. (AP)—Dr. Eugene Russell Hendrix, retired senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, died at his home here tonight. He was 80 years of age.

Bishop Eugene Russell Hendrix was a leader in virtually every great movement undertaken by his denomination for more than half a century.

He filled the office of president for thirty-six years.

Bishop Hendrix's outstanding achievement was recognized as his leadership in the missionary interests of the church. In his early ministry he accompanied Bishop Marvin on his episcopal visit to China. He paid official visits later to the mission fields of Japan, Mexico, Korea and Brazil, and is considered to have been largely instrumental in establishing missions of the Southern Methodist Church in those centers. Throughout the church he is credited with being the founder of the Methodist mission in Korea.

FAVORED BIBLE SCHOOL

Bishop Hendrix was a leading advocate of establishing Scarritt Bible and Training School when the question of opening a school to train workers for the home and the foreign fields was agitated in the church in 1889-90. He was made president of the board of trust of the school, established at Kansas City, and held the position until reorganization of the college and its removal to Nashville in 1924. He then was made president emeritus of the board.

In June of the same year Bishop and Mrs. Hendrix celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Kansas City.

Bishop Hendrix was elevated to the episcopacy by the general conference at Richmond, Va., in 1886. He served as a member of the ecumenical conferences of 1891 and 1911 and was fraternal messenger to the British conference in 1900.

In 1906 Bishop Hendrix was made first president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, considered one of the highest offices in the gift of the combined Protestant denominations of America. He filled this position until 1912.

His counsel on the matter of unification of the northern and the southern branches of the Methodist Church, which he advocated, was recognized as authoritative by both branches of the church.

AUTHOR OF BOOKS

An author of note, Bishop Hendrix wrote several books that have been widely read in religious circles. His best known publications are "Around the World," published in 1878; "Skilled Labor for the Master," 1901; "Personality of the Holy Spirit," 1903; "Religion of the Incarnation," 1903, and "If I Had Not Come," 1916.

Bishop Hendrix, the son of Adam and Isabel Murray Hendrix, was born at Fayette, Mo., May 17, 1847. He was graduated from the Union Theological Seminary in 1869, later taking his Bachelor's and Master's degrees at Wesleyan University.

He entered the ministry in 1869 and was ordained to preach in 1870. About two years later he married Miss Annie E. Scarritt. Mrs. Hendrix died November, 1922.

CAPT GILES DELAYS HIS HAWAII HOP

English Aviator Decides to Abandon Start Today Because of Sea Storms

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (AP)—Storm forecasts for Pacific Ocean areas tomorrow caused Capt. Frederick Giles to postpone his scheduled take-off on the Golden Gate-New Zealand flight tomorrow. He said he will make a further announcement after consultation with Weather Bureau officials tomorrow night.

The Weather Bureau reported a disturbance about 900 miles due west of the Oregon coast, with probability of low clouds and rain from San Francisco to the 140th meridian. The report cautioned aviators against attempting flights between San Francisco and Honolulu, Giles's first scheduled stop.

Giles had ordered the tanks of his Hess-Bluebird biplane, the Wanda, filled early tomorrow for the flight. Officials at Mills Field, the San Francisco municipal airport, were making preparations for the hop, although they doubted if the aviator would attempt the flight in view of unfavorable weather conditions. Later Giles issued to the Associated Press a written statement saying that he has determined to await favorable weather conditions.

RUTH ELDER LIONIZED

Atlantic Air Pilot Says She Prefers Fame's Fortune to Wife's Toil

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Two aviators who faced death fearlessly over the lonely wastes of the Atlantic were abashed today when they returned to the thunderous welcome New York accords its heroes.

Miss Ruth Elder and Capt. George Haldeman showed their trepidation when Mayor Walker, at City Hall, gave them an illuminated scroll lauding their courage and extolling their accomplishments.

Over Mayor Walker's signature the scroll extended to the "intrepid aviatrix of the American Girl the city's felicitations on your safe return and commendation for your brave attempt to cross the Atlantic by air."

Capt. Haldeman's war record came in for praise and congratulations were bestowed upon Miss Elder who, "still clinging to the qualities of femininity in her grim determination to be the first woman to fly from New York to France, displayed a brave spirit of adventure that won the admiration of her sex."

HEROINE BLUSHES

The girl flyer from Dixie, blushing like a schoolgirl, said with a choking voice, "My dear Mr. Mayor, I'm sorry you asked me to speak because I can't speak, especially in a crowded place like this. My heart sticks in my throat. But I want you to know how much I thank you. It is more than we expected."

Capt. Haldeman, who followed, said:

"When Miss Elder and I started our flight we wanted it to be a success for commercial aviation and for the interest of flying in general. Although we did not reach our goal, we hope that our trip will in some way be a benefit to flying in the future."

And both retired as fast as they could from the 10,000 persons who jammed the square in front of City Hall.

GREETED BY MATES

From the time the city tug Macom took them off the liner Aquitania they had heard the shouting crowds and the shrieking sirens that welcomed them home. Up Broadway to Miss Elder's hotel the cheers followed them.

"Hey, Ruth," the crowds called. "You'll make it next time, Ruth."

Lyle Womack, Miss Elder's husband, was one of the first to greet her, and as Capt. Haldeman clambered over the side of the Macom his wife was waiting with outstretched arms. At the formal reception at City Hall both were shy and obviously ill at ease.

"I have no intention of giving up flying," Miss Elder said, "and although I have made no plans for the future, I'll try again to fly across the ocean if no other woman beats me to it." Womack, who has expressed the hope that her flying days were over, only grinned.

PLAN ANOTHER GO

Capt. Haldeman, too, was enthusiastic over the prospects of another attempt. "If Miss Elder wants another go at it," he said, "and if she wants me as copilot, I'll be tickled to death."

But a second trial at the trans-Atlantic flight will not be made until next spring, Miss Elder indicated. Meantime, her plans are vague. She does not think she will be film actress, but no picture contracts have been offered her. She is certain, however, that she will not go back to Panama with her husband right away. Her press agent said she and Haldeman are considering offers which would bring them some $250,000.

"I've washed a lot of dishes in my time," she said, "and I don't intend

TEACHERS MAY STRIKE, TOO

Cudahy Instructors Threaten to Join Their Pupils in Protest on Superintendent's Ousting

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 11. (AP)—War clouds appeared on the horizon today to disturb further the peace of the city of Cudahy, Milwaukee suburb, with intimations by teachers that they may join their students in a strike against the ouster of Supt. Seifert.

Prospects of further strife developed at a meeting of teachers and prominent civic leaders at the high school this afternoon when spokesmen for the teachers sympathetic to the superintendent promised "drastic action" unless he is reinstated by the school board.

MEET WITH MAYOR

The meeting was followed by another session of the teachers with Mayor Lodka and the City Attorney, when the teachers made their dissatisfaction with the operation of the school system known. This action, together with the formation of the Cudahy Women's Club, at the first conference, pledged to work for the best interest of the children, constituted the major developments today.

Adults held the center of the stage while the 300 students who walked out Thursday morning remained passive. They refrained from demonstrations, but their lines held firm against returning until their demands are acceded to by the school board which ousted Seifert for what it termed "insubordination," "impudence," and "failure to co-operate." A decision to picket the school, where 157 students who refused to join

DUCE PLANS VOTE CURB

Italy to Have but One Party

Mussolini's Latest Reforms to Put End to Universal Suffrage in Nation

Tightening of Fascist Grip and Unity Seen as Aim of Movement

ROME, Nov. 11. (AP)—Parliamentary reform measures are announced by Premier Mussolini today which in effect do away with Democratic universal suffrage in Italy and make Italy a one-party nation in which only the Fascists will be directly represented.

The reform measures together with labor reform proposals also promulgated are felt here to constitute one of the most important changes introduced by Fascism into Italian political and economic life and to be one of the most audacious parliamentary reforms ever undertaken in the history of modern parliamentarism.

It is generally felt here that Parliament, as reduced in power before the advent of Fascism, no longer worked for the ideals for which it had been established originally. When Premier Mussolini reached power he was hailed, especially by the country districts, because his program called for reform of Parliament. Now, after five years of study, work and experiment, the Premier is undertaking a thorough change of the parliamentary institutions of Italy.

The Premier plans to reduce the number of members in the lower house of Parliament by more than one-fourth, proclaiming simultaneously that only one party exists in Italy, namely Fascism, and that therefore the only electoral ticket to be presented is that of his own party.

ELECTION SYSTEM

The mechanism through which the new members of Parliament will be elected is as follows: The thirteen Fascist "guilds" into which the entire population of the kingdom is divided, representing both employers and employees, will submit lists of candidates, the number of which has not yet been fixed, to the Grand Council of the party.

The latter will examine the lists having chiefly in view choosing those whose Fascist allegiance is absolutely sure and also having the necessary requisites to represent not only the interests of the categories from which they come but also the general supreme interests of the nation and the Fascist regime.

The grand council has therefore the right to eliminate whatever candidates it considers unfit, substituting others. As a result of this, the Fascist ticket will be evolved which will be submitted to the nation, which will form only one constituency and will vote thereon en bloc.

SUFFRAGE CURBED

Democratic universal suffrage will no longer exist, as the right to vote will be given only to those citizens who, from their contributions to work in the Fascist organizations, will have shown themselves to be active elements in the life of the nation. The grand council also reserves the right to establish what will be the specific task of the new Chamber of Deputies so elected.

Instead of reforms, the plan has as its object the keeping up, strengthening and making unshakable the economic, political and spiritual unity of the Fascist regime.

The first try-out of the new form of election will be made next year and will constitute a real experiment because, if successful, it will lead to a typical form of exclusive national representation of Fascist guilds.

Two modern states already operate under a one-party system, soviet Russia and Turkey. In soviet Russia only one political party is legal, the Communist, while in Turkey only the People's Republican party exists. In the case of Turkey power is even more centralized. President Mustapha Kemal Pasha has been given authority by the party to name each candidate for the Chamber of Deputies.

HOOVER TELLS OF IOWA JOYS

lections of Iowa food are of the most distinguished order. You may say that is the appetite of youth, but I have also checked this up. At later stages in my life I had opportunity to eat both of the presumably very best food in the world, as well of the very worst.

"When I ate the worst, my thoughts went back to Iowa, and when I ate of the best I was still sure that Aunt Millie was a better cook. Some time later in visiting Aunt Millie I challenged that dear old lady, then far along in years, to cook another dinner of the kind she provided on Sabbath days when we were both youthful.

"She produced that dinner and I am able to say now that if all the cooks of Iowa are up to Aunt Millie's standard then the gourmets of the world should leave Paris for Iowa, at least for Cedar county.

"I mentioned the Burlington tracks. It was a wonderful place. The track was ballasted with glacial gravels where on industrious search you discovered gems of agate and fossil coral which could with infinite backaches be polished on the grindstone. Their fine points came out wonderfully when wet and you had to lick them with your tongue before each exhibit. I suppose that engineering long since has destroyed this inspiration to young geologists by using mass production crushed rock.

"My earliest realization of the stir of national life was the torch parade at the Garfield election. I was not only allowed out that night—but I saw the lamps being filled and lighted.

"There was a man in our town who occasionally fell to the influence of liquor. He was a Democrat—the only one in town—and therefore in the esteem of our group represented all the forces of evil. At times he relapsed to goodness in the form of rations of a single gumdrop to the small boys who did errands at his store. He also bought the old iron from which the financial resources were provided for fire crackers on the Fourth of July. He was, therefore, tolerated and he served well and efficiently as a moral and political lesson.

"But Iowa through the eyes of a 10-year-old boy is not all adventure or high living. Iowa in those years, as in these years, was filled with days of school—and who does not remember with a glow that sweet-faced lady who with infinite patience and kindness drilled into us those foundations of all we know today.

"They were days of chores and labor. I am no supporter of factory labor for children but I have never joined with those who clamored against proper work of children on farms outside their school hours.

"I speak from the common experience of most Iowa children of my day in planting corn, hoeing gardens, learning to milk, sawing wood, and the other proper and normal occupations for boys.

"We had no need of Montessori schools to teach us application. But of more purpose I can bespeak for the strong and healthy bodies which come from it all."

NEW YORK DIN GREETS FLYER

to go back to that right away. Just what I will do I don't know yet."

TO ATTEND LUNCHEON

The knickers in which she flew toward Paris were in the one steamer trunk she brought back. Today her costume was a simple Parisian frock under a black satin coat. It was one of the few gowns she had bought in Paris.

Miss Elder is expected to lead a group of distinguished aviators at a luncheon at the White House in Washington Monday as the guests of President and Mrs. Coolidge.

The luncheon will precede the evening ceremonies at which the President will present to Charles A. Lindbergh the Hubbard Medal awarded by the National Geographic Society. Others invited to attend the luncheon and the presentation exercises include Commander Richard E. Byrd, Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlin.

HUSBAND "ALL RIGHT"

A husband, although "just wonderful" and "awfully broad-minded," should not interfere with his wife's career, "whether it be flying, writing or banking," Mrs. Elder said.

She dismissed all questions of the future with her husband, Lyle Womack, a Panama electrical accessories salesman, with the reply that she "didn't want to talk about that." The girl flyer made it clear, however, that she considered a vocation no blight to domesticity.

"My husband is just wonderful," she explained, "and he wouldn't do or say anything to influence me to give up flying, although I know he would like to have me give up the risk. He's awfully broad-minded.

"But I don't know what I am going to do, whether I'll go back to Panama with him or whether I'll stay here."

The same "I don't know" answered the question of whether Womack would stay in the North if his wife's vocation of flying kept her here.

SHIES AT "FEMINIST"

She asserted that she believed heartily in feminine independence, but shied from declaring herself a "feminist."

"Women can do lots of things, and husbands and homes and families should not interfere with them," proclaimed the first woman to succeed, even partly, in a trans-Atlantic flight.

"I think a woman can be a competent wife at the same time that she is successful in her chosen career, whether it be flying, writing or banking. And neither activity need interfere with the other.

"There is one thing I have learned, however, and that is that a woman cannot make a trans-Atlantic flight by herself, at least not yet. When planes are improved and are easier to handle then they will have the strength."

FLIGHT GREAT STRAIN

"During the first nine hours of our flight I did the piloting, but it was a terrible strain with all those five-gallon cans of gasoline weighting down the back end of the plane. If I hadn't had relief at the end of that time I don't believe I could have stood it.

"It takes an immense amount of sheer physical strength to handle a loaded plane and the average woman just doesn't have it. In every other respect she is as well fitted as any man to make the flight."

One small steamer trunk contained all the clothes that Ruth bought in Paris to replace the plus-fours she wore when she landed in the Atlantic Ocean.

She concentrated on sports costumes, bringing with her three ensemble outfits of different colors. A black and white jersey was the one she chose for her first day in New York. Two evening frocks and one afternoon gown of chiffon completed the wardrobe which she will use until she reaches her home in Anniston, Ala.

Illness prevented Miss Elder's mother from being in New York when her daughter arrived, but the flyer announced she would leave for Anniston next Wednesday to spend a day or two with her family.

Torpedo Vessel to Burn Up Sea

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—A new type of "torpedo ship," being built at Hamburg will cross the Atlantic Ocean in forty hours, it is asserted. The inventor, a well-known Hamburg ship constructor, Herrmann Boelk, says the ship attains a speed of ninety-four miles per hour, carrying ten passengers and a large quantity of mail.

The torpedo-shaped ship is 120 feet long and sixteen feet broad and entirely covered, offering a minimum resistance to wind. It has two powerful motors and activating wave-like propellers alongside. The crew consists of four men. The first full-sized ship will be called Wittstock and will start trials early in the spring.

of the programs. Gen. Pershing was a guest at Cleveland, where 2600 participants were gathered. Other prominent figures of the World War participated in exercises in various cities.

A feature of the day was the unveiling at Pittsburgh of a tablet in memory of President Wilson. Mrs. Wilson was present to see it received.

While business was not generally suspended throughout the country, there was an appreciable Memorial Day aspect hovering over the activities of the people, who wanted to express their gratitude at the ending of the war nine years ago.

MIND OF FRANCE TURNED BACK TO WAR

PARIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—All France turned back its thoughts to the war today and the armistice which put an end to the great struggle.

Along the great battle line from the channel to the foothills of the Alps, towns and villages that were wiped away by the holocaust of war stood resurrected, bright with flags and busy with the coming and going of civilian celebrants.

In the forest of Compiegne, at the very spot along the railway track, where the armistice was signed, the dining-car in which this event took place was the center of a ceremony at which Marshal Foch was the principal figure. The event was the dedication of a building, erected with funds from the United States, to shelter the car.

In Paris there were, of course, more French flags to be seen than any other kind, but the Stars and Stripes ran a close second. On this day last year there were not so many American flags to be seen in Paris, but since then Premier Poincare has steadied the franc, Lindbergh and Byrd have spanned the air from one republic to the other, the American Legion has held its convention in Paris, and the subject of war debts has been kept off the front pages—all of which has made a great difference in the feelings of M. Jean Dupont, as the man in the street is known in France.

To all the great military cemeteries that mark the hillsides and plains of Northern France, with thousands of white crosses, pious pilgrims brought flowers and stopped to remember and to pray. Under the spires of a myriad of churches and cathedrals in the nation there were special services in observance.

In Paris the tomb of the Unknown Soldier under the Arc De Triomphe was the scene of a procession of visitors all day long. The government paid its tribute to the sleeping warrior in the morning as soldiers and sailors from every branch of the French military and naval establishments marched up the Champs Elysee under war-torn flags to salute the tomb of the symbolic hero.

At Versailles representatives of millions who fought for France in those days of war gathered to discuss how best the promises made to the soldiers when the war ended may be fulfilled.

KING LEADS BRITONS IN HONORING WAR DEAD

LONDON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Once again the great silence of the Armistice hour fell on London and spread to the farthest corners of the empire as Britain paused today in a gesture of remembrance for her million dead of the World War.

Ceremonies at the Cenotaph with King George, his sons and high officers of state present, opened the day of commemoration and through the hazy afternoon and far into the night, a procession of those seeking to honor the war dead wound along Whitehall and through Westminster Abbey, where is the grave of Britain's Unknown Soldier.

The crowds which converged on the Cenotaph and Westminster Abbey from all parts of the city and surrounding country were estimated to be even larger than those of last year.

A great torchlight procession of 2000 veterans from Albert Hall to the Cenotaph made tonight's observance of the day spectacular.

The Prince of Wales, attending a song service at Albert Hall at which 10,000 persons were gathered, broadcast to the empire an Armistice Day message.

DAY ANTICLIMAX TO ITALIAN OBSERVANCE

ROME, Nov. 11. (AP)—Celebration of Armistice Day at Rome was less than that of any other capital of the Allied nations, inasmuch as Italy celebrated her own armistice on the 4th inst., and also because today is King Emmanuel's birthday, in whose honor busses, cars and public buildings were flying the Italian colors and bunting. During the day foreign diplomats called to sign the "Gold Book" at the palace.

INDEPENDENCE DAY CELEBRATED BY POLAND

WARSAW, Nov. 11. (AP)—Armistice Day, which also is the anniversary of the restoration of Polish independence, was a holiday all over Poland.

The day also is the anniversary of Marshal Pilsudski's return from Prussian captivity at Magdeburg and a military and police band serenaded him at Belvidere Palace.

WAR MEMORIAL GIFT DEDICATED

Secretary Davis Speaks on Enduring Friendship

Americans Who Enlisted in Dominion Lauded

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The young men of America who crossed the border and enlisted in the forces of Canada during the World War furnish "the latest and most precious offering upon the altar of our mutual friendship," Secretary Davis of the War Department said today in an address at exercises dedicating the Cross of Sacrifice, erected in Arlington Cemetery by the Canadian government as a memorial to Americans who died under the Canadian flag.

"Inspired by a high sense of duty," he said, "firm in their sense of right, the men in whose memory this monument is erected enlisted in the Canadian expeditionary forces to fight for humanity. Imbued with an undaunted courage, stimulated by an unswerving devotion to a cause and exalted by an unfaltering faith in their ideals—they are not restricted by national boundaries; they belong not to America alone, but to the whole English-speaking world."

TRIBUTE TO CANADIANS

Mr. Davis recalled the large number of Canadians who enlisted with the Union Army during the Civil War and "were mingled with the dead of every great battlefield of our Southland." The two circumstances, he said, had "consecrated and hallowed the ties of friendship that have united our two countries for more than a century."

With solemn ceremony the Canadian Minister of National Defense, Col. J. L. Ralston, C.M.G., D.S.O., presented the memorial cross to the men of the United States who died while serving in the Canadian army.

MORE THAN ALLIES

"Canada and the United States were allies in the war, but that was not all," he said. "We remember today that your brothers in blood, in our own forces, and shoulder to shoulder in the ranks with our men, endured the toil and conflict, and we from Canada, your northern neighbor, come with our nation's tribute to those who were in the truest sense our brothers in arms.

"Restless spirits, perhaps they thought them, running on regardless of the consequences, almost too eager to wait for considered action, keen to be in the thick of a fight which was not yet theirs, members of the company of adventurious souls who were ever pressing up the hill of life fearful that night might fall before they had reached the top and seen what laid beyond."

LEGION CHIEF TELLS REAL OUTCOME OF WAR

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—People of this country more and more are coming to a realization that the last war did not end war, Edward E. Spafford, national commander of the American Legion, declared here today in an Armistice Day address prepared for delivery at a luncheon given by American Legion posts of St. Louis.

"They realize," he added, "that as a matter of fact only an armistice was signed. With the exception of a very few in this nation the people are determined that when another war comes all of the resources of the nation shall be completely mobilized at the beginning of the war."

LABOR SECRETARY HITS BALLOT FRAUDS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11. (AP) — The "ballot-box stuffer" was termed the greatest enemy of the republic by Secretary of Labor Davis in an Armistice Day address here today.

Recounting the price that America paid to establish and maintain the principle of democracy, the Labor Secretary declared that "once the people come to believe that our elections are not honest, that the ballot boxes are in the hands of men who do not respect the ballot, our great experiment in democracy will speedily cease to be."

Mr. Davis's condemnation of election frauds was made at a time when more than 200 Pittsburgh election officials face prosecution.

Borah Would Repeal but Not Nullify Dry Law

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Senator Borah today urged repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment rather than its violation or nullification, in a letter to the Women's Committee for the Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The Senator commended the committee for openly advocating repeal, declaring that to be "the only honorable course for those who are opposed to the amendment." He urged that the proposal be made an issue in the 1928 election.

"I hope you will succeed," he wrote, "in bringing all those who are opposed to the amendment to the support of repeal rather than violation or nullification. The right to repeal is just as sacred as the right to adopt in the first instance."

Madrow's daughter, Evelyn, is one of the strikers whose ranks include all but thirteen members of the senior class, the entire football squad and prominent leaders in other activities.

False economy of the school board elected last spring with Paul Miller as president, was criticised by the ten teachers who attended the session. There are twenty-eight on the faculty of the school where both high school and grade school students attend. They charged the board's economy program has broken the morale of the school and expressed their loyal support of the ousted superintendent who has charged his discharge was due to "politics."

Homecoming is scheduled tomorrow at the school with the football game as the chief attraction. The strike has left the ardor of the striking football team undimmed and members said today they will play.

The school board has shown no disposition to recede from its opposition to continuing the regime of Seifert.

SERBS BECOME ALLY OF FRANCE

Jugo-Slavia Signs Treaty of Mutual Defense

All South Europe But Italy Now Linked Up

[Copyright, 1927, by The New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—France and Jugo-Slavia linked their political and military fortunes this afternoon when Foreign Minister Briand for the French and Foreign Minister Marnkovitch for Jugo-Slavia signed a treaty of co-operation and mutual defense. It was nine years and six hours after the Allied victory which brought into being the Serb-Groat-Slovene State. And thereby was completed the French system of alliances by which France, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia become one political, and in time of need, almost surely one military bloc.

By the terms of the treaty France and Jugo-Slavia engage themselves first, not to war with each other, unless conflicting with their duties as members of the League of Nations; secondly, to examine together all questions threatening their security or disturbing the status quo as fixed by peace treaties; thirdly, in case of attack against either of them, the two nations pledge themselves to act jointly to safeguard their interests; fourthly, they fix a ten-year limit to the treaty and engage themselves to work together for solution of all European problems.

A separate act provides for arbitration of all issues arising between the two countries not settled by ordinary diplomatic methods.

NOT ALLIANCE

Both France and Jugo-Slavia contend this does not constitute an alliance in the old sense of the word and that the treaty is directed against no third power.

But look at the practical side of the arrangement. If it means anything it means France and Jugo-Slavia will pursue common policies. It means the French promise to help Jugo-Slavia and Jugo-Slavia promises to help the French in peace and in war. One is bound to think of Italy. When one thinks of Italy and today's treaty one arrives at the conclusion that the French and Jugo-Slavia promise each other that if Italy attacks either to give mutual help. That is what one today's treaty. Perhaps it is no exaggeration to say France and Jugo-Slavia feel that the new treaty neutralizes Italy for each.

EFFECT ON ITALY

In other words, if one stretches one's imagination and imagines difficulties between Italy and Jugo-Slavia—and that does not take such an effort—one can see Italy must take the French position into account. On the other hand, if one stretches one's imagination further and imagines trouble between France and Italy, it stands to reason that Italy must think about the Serbs. It is true today's treaty in its relation to the League covenant is not directly and always firmly binding, but it does establish a community of interests between the two countries which naturally they intend to protect by all their means.

That is one side of the situation. There is another side. Both France and Jugo-Slavia will invite Italy to join in the arrangement they made today.

In other words, Italy may make up with them if she likes the agreement that none of the three will ever fight the other and all differences are arbitrated. This would be contrary to the policy of Mussolini recently followed but it is always possible that the signing of today's treaty, which he sought to prevent, may bring him to see the situation in a new light.

LARGER SCOPE HOPED

"We delayed our signature of the treaty because we hoped for something larger. I tried every means, but unfortunately, have not succeeded. I am, however, not without hope that what we did not get in the past we may obtain in the future and that the treaty we just signed will become the basis of a new Locarno in Southern Europe."

Marnkovitch said he approved Briand's sentiments. However, it is no secret that neither statesman hopes for an immediate agreement by Mussolini, to move which must mean the end of his Albanian and Balkan policy.

A glance at history of events leading to today's signature indicates it must be considered a diplomatic defeat for Italy. In August, 1923, Mussolini proposed to Paris a triparty treaty of amity and arbitration among Italy, France and Jugo-Slavia. France at that time refused, but six months later notified Mussolini she was ready to reconsider. Then Mussolini declined.

ACTION NEARS IN OIL INQUIRY

ment naming a number of persons, including some not heretofore identified with the naval oil lease scandal.

W. Sherman Burns, who was employed by Henry Mason Day, one of Harry F. Sinclair's most confidential associates, to assign detectives to shadow the oil trial jury, today presented additional records of his agency, showing the activities of his operatives after October 28, the last date in the records he produced yesterday.

Several more of the Burns operatives were examined on the basis of reports they made to their superiors and which went into the hands of Day and Sheldon Clark, another Sinclair associate who, with Day, now stands charged with conspiracy to influence the verdict of the jury.

NEW INFORMATION

The Day's investigation brought information that no such automobile licenses as some of those described in reports of the Burns men ever have been issued in the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Maggie Dodd, a boarding-house keeper on Four and a Half street in the southwest section of Washington, was called for checking up one report of operative Samuel Kirby that he rented a room in the Dodd establishment so he better could watch Juror Charles Holt.

Mrs. Dodd said Kirby rented the room, but never slept there. She added that he would come in during the morning and again in the evening, but would leave around or before midnight. Kirby lived at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Evidence received by the grand jury is regarded as intended to link counsel for Albert B. Fall with the operations of the Burns men. This evidence is that when Mark B. Thompson of New Mexico, one of Fall's lawyers, was informed by Dan R. Jackson, a special assistant to the Attorney-General, that Harris R. Lamb of the Justice Department was a special assistant to the Attorney-General, Thompson said his reports on Lamb apparently had been erroneous.

Lamb, or rather his automobile, was trailed for days by the private detectives and the belief of the prosecution is that Thompson called Jackson for information about Lamb after he had received the reports of the operatives.

Tomorrow the grand jury will pick up more loose ends of the case, examining records as to long-distance telephone calls emanating from Sinclair's apartment at the Mayflower Hotel and from other persons. The purpose is to establish with whom Sinclair or his agents talked over the long-distance telephone, while the trial was in progress.

SHELDON CLARK DEFENDS HIS STAND

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—"My friends may sleep soundly; they need not worry," is the attitude taken by Sheldon Clark, the Sinclair oil official charged with conspiracy in connection with the jury tampering investigation growing out of the Sinclair mistrial.

"I am conscious of the fact that when a man of even ordinary prominence in the business world seeks to stand on his constitutional rights even though it is merely a technical step, the public probably will get the impression that he has something to conceal," Clark said.

"I have not. As the proper time and in the proper manner that will be shown.

"Because of my position in the oil organization, I don't feel that it is fair to those with whom I am associated, regardless of my personal wishes, should at this time subject them to a barrage of questions that may or may not be pertinent to the inquiry."

PANCREAS SPIKES PIE SLO

Tests Show Pastry and Fried Potatoes Digest as Easily as Other Edibles

CHICAGO, Nov. 11. (AP)—The following item is dedicated by the University of Chicago physiology department to those dietetic pessimists who at the mention of fried potatoes and become apoplectic at the word pie.

Fried potatoes and pastry digest as rapidly as boiled food, the university noted in making public results of experiments conducted by A. C. Ivy of the department of physiology and Bessie Boggess of the home economics department.

Using French fried, pan-fried and boiled potatoes, the two workers tested each with pancreatic juice, finding that the starch in potatoes most easily is digested in the pan-fried potatoes, and that the French fried respond more readily to digestion than the boiled potatoes.

In a second experiment the movement of the food through the stomach was recorded with a fluoroscopic X-ray. It showed no difference in the gastric emptying time of boiled and fried potatoes.

When the potatoes were served with an excess of fat, however, or fried with butter or rich gravies, gastric disturbance resulted.

Similar experiments revealed pie, if well cooked, also to be easily digestible.

COOLIDGE READY FOR FARMER AID

Compromise Mood on Issue Disclosed

Hopeful McNary May Find Solution

Still Opposed to Plan of Vetoed Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—President Coolidge is ready to talk business with farm leaders in an effort to frame a relief program which would insure passage of a bill by Congress and signature by himself.

This compromise mood on the farm issue was disclosed today at the White House, where it was said the President is looking hopefully to the efforts of Senator McNary of Oregon, new chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, for a solution of the farm agricultural legislative tangle.

No doubt was left at the White House of Mr. Coolidge's unaltered opposition to the equalization-fee provision of the McNary-Haugen bill, which he vetoed last spring, but it was emphasized that he is of an open mind and ready to consider other proposals than those already advanced by the administration for meeting the surplus-crop problem.

ADVISES AGREEMENT

An agreement among the farm organizations themselves will go a long way toward bringing about legislation, in the opinion of the President, it was said that, while he has informed leaders of the major farm organizations of this view, he has not told them they have to get together, as they attempted unsuccessfully to do at a conference here this week.

Meanwhile, the farm issue brought renewed interest at the Capitol, where a statement was issued by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, on behalf of the Western independent Republican Senators, demanding that the President aid in putting through a farm relief program despite the disagreement between representatives of the farm organizations on the form of bill.

STECK CRITICAL

Senator Steck, Democrat, Iowa, at some time issued a statement assailing Senator Brookhart for not supporting the vetoed McNary-Haugen measure and questioning the interest of the western bloc in farm relief.

At the White House it was declared Mr. Coolidge is of an open mind on a farm bill except for his views on the equalization fee and regarding the advancement of a compromise he still favors the general plan for promotion of co-operative marketing, as set forth in his messages to Congress.

The export debenture proposal of the National Grange was put before him yesterday by L. J. Taber, master of the grange, but it was said the President had never given it much consideration because it seemed to have little support in Congress.

DESERVES STUDY

Mr. Coolidge believes, however, this plan, which would permit the use of tariff receipts for meeting the cost of marketing surplus crops, deserves study. While the proposal is not regarded favorably by Senator Norris of Nebraska, former chairman of the Agriculture Committee, it has been looked on with some favor of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, over the

BLINKING BEES BAMBOOZLED

"Spring is Here, Tra La," Shout Early Risers as Crafty Briton Casts Beam of Light at Hive, and Deluded Buzzers Hurry to Produce Record Honey Crop

LONDON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The busy bee has been hoaxed to make him busier, and the trick has netted a gain averaging seventeen pounds of honey to the hive.

Boriase Matthews, who long ago conceived the idea of waking hens up in the middle of the night with a flood of electric light so that they would eat more and lay more eggs, told the Electrical Association of Women the other day how he prepretrated a hoax on his bees. He wasn't aware how the hoax had worked until he harvested his summer honey crop.

LIGHT STIRS THEM

The experiment was tried early in the spring. A beam of light, he said, was thrown on the entrance of the hives from electric lamps. This had the same effect as a dinner gong in a boarding house and stirred the bees to action.

The sleepy bees rubbed their eyes in anticipation and hurried out into the open to greet what they thought was the first real sunny day of spring. Stimulated by the electric rays which the bees thought came from Old Sol himself, the early bees scampered back into the hive to tell the queen bee and all the fellow bees that spring had come. Then the work bees got busy, gave the hive a good airing by flapping their wings, and the queen bee began to lay eggs just as fast as she could.

FEAST PREPARED

Matthews said his artificial sun caused such a commotion that he could not bear the thought of deceiving the bees further, so he prepared a feast for them. Directly in front of the bees' home a table was set and the lights kept burning. There were plates of nice golden syrup seasoned with salt and vinegar, plates of artificial pollen and other dishes with plenty of nice pure water. Bees are always very thirsty early in the spring. On the table also was a great vase of flowers, to provide the bees with an admixture of real pollen and to complete the illusion.

In the end it was ascertained that the bees got out weeks earlier than they would have if they had waited for nature. They fertilized thoroughly the apple crop, which was a record-breaker, while a gain of seventeen pounds in honey was recorded this fall for each hive on which the hoax was worked.

Dry Chiefs to Map Out Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Chiefs of the prohibition secret service in New York, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco and Jacksonville districts have been called to Washington for a conference Monday with Federal prohibition officials to map out the winter campaign against liquor violators.

N. C. & O. RAILROAD SETS GOLDEN SPIKE

ALTURAS, Nov. 11. (AP)—The driving of a golden spike by S. H. McCartney, vice-president of the Nevada, California and Oregon Railroad, here today featured the celebration of the arrival of broad-gauge train service. Hundreds of people from various parts of the three States were present. A large group of Southern Pacific officials attended, including Paul Shoup, vice-president; T. Ahearn, assistant general manager, and F. C. Claton, superintendent of construction.

The black or house rat, a native of Southern Asia, began to spread over the world about 1200 A.D.

EX-WIFE OF DODGE QUIT BY MANNING

MANILA, Nov. 12. (AP)—When the liner President Cleveland arrived here from Shanghai it came without Lieut. Benjamin F. Manning, who had started out on a honeymoon tour with his bride, the former Mrs. Horace Dodge, Jr., from Honolulu recently. The record shows that Lieut. Manning left the ship at Shanghai. Mrs. Manning is making the trip accompanied only by a maid. She has booked passage as far as Geneva.

Passengers said that frequent quarrels were heard in the Manning suite before the President Cleveland reached Shanghai. These culminated when Mrs. Manning left the suite. The present whereabouts of Lieut. Manning is not known, but he probably is in Shanghai.

Mrs. Manning recently won a final decree of divorce from Horace Dodge, Jr., son of the Detroit automobile family. He recently visited his former wife at Honolulu to obtain custody of their children for six months as provided by court agreement.

WOMEN SHOVE FENCE SITTERS

Ten Million of Them Launch Law-Enforcing Drive

They Demand Strong Planks to Back Prohibition

National Series of Meetings Starts Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Ten million women are out to put the force in enforcement of law, and tomorrow they will have a meeting in New York City to tell the world how they feel about the prohibition amendment.

The meeting, which is under the auspices of the New York State branch of the National Woman's Committee for Law Enforcement, is the first gun in a campaign to compel the political parties to put a plank for law enforcement in their platforms strong enough to bear up under the weight of the candidates who will appeal for the votes of the women in the 1928 elections.

TIRED OF DODGING

"We want doers not dodgers," asserts Mrs. Samuel Bens, chairman of the New York State committee, while Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., national chairman, declares that the women are tired of "the shillyshallying of politicians on the issue of law enforcement" and are determined to compel its recognition as a national issue.

United States Senator Borah will be the chief speaker at a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall tomorrow evening. A monster prayer service in one of the New York churches will be conducted Sunday. Simultaneously 2000 prayer services will be conducted in churches and homes throughout the country.

OTHER MEETINGS

Following the New York meeting there will be a series of conferences at strategic points beginning on December 5 at New Haven, where President Angell has loaned Wolsey Hall at Yale University, and Newark on December 8, where 1000 Republican women party workers will co-operate with Democratic women in a meeting at the Masonic Temple. Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco and Los Angeles will follow.

The national committee is made up of nine affiliated women's organizations, with a combined membership of 10,000,000, and the State branch includes leagues in nearly every county.

MARY HAS BRICKS IN BOUQUETS

Miss Garden Confesses Singing "Star Spangled Banner" for Lindbergh, but Bill Tilden Couldn't Tell Her How it Went so She Looked It Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Mary Garden thinks a lot of Charles A. Lindbergh—enough to sing for him for nothing, which she terms her highest tribute—but she doesn't think so much of William Tilden's scholarship. So she said today when she arrived on the Aquitania.

Turning impatiently from the subject of nude bathing at midnight and kindred things, she related an incident of the Lindbergh reception in Paris.

"You must know I admire him when I would sing for him the 'Star Spangled Banner!' Ye Gods! The 'Star Spangled Banner,' of all songs!"

When asked if she knows the words to the national anthem she replied: "Of course I dont.' I asked Bill Tilden to give me the words and he went so far as to sing, 'O, say can you see,' then he 'a-da'ed the rest. What a scholar he is! I finally had to have the words looked up in a library."

Miss Garden said she has lost thirty pounds since leaving this country, using her usual methods of bathing in her "birthday suit at midnight."

One of the first questions Miss Garden asked her interviewers was: "Where is Gene Tunney? That boy is decidedly a bear."

When informed that Tunney is out of town, she declared herself distressed, but not so distressed as she was when he was on the canvas in the seventh round in the Chicago fight.

"Very lovely," was the opera star's opinion of Ruth Elder, and she boasted of having danced with George Haldeman in Paris. Commander Byrd she declared to be her favorite among the birdmen.

"Will you manage any more singers?" she was asked.

"I wouldn't manage singers again if I had to go hungry in the street instead," she replied.

She added as a parting shot: "Now listen: if you ask me any more about diet, marriage or my weight, your name is mud, so that's that."

CREW OF RUM SHIP RELEASED BY COURT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11. (AP)—The crew of the British rum ship Zany, seized last September with a $75,000 cargo of liquor on board, was ordered released from custody by Judge Burns in Federal court here today. Judge Burns instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

President Attends Dance of Americans

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Nov. 11. (AP) Reports of two clashes between outlaws and joint patrols of American marines and the Nicaraguan National Guard were brought to Managua today by American aviators returning from Ocotal.

The clashes were near Telepaneca and the outlaw losses were given as four killed, ten wounded and ten captured with no casualties among the marines and National Guard. The second engagement took place at San Luis Potosi and Santa Rita near the Honduran border where the outlaws were driven back. Details of this skirmish are lacking.

Last night the enlisted men of the Second Brigade of marines, under Col. Louis Gulick gave a supper-dance on the 152nd anniversary of the United States Marine Corps, which President Diaz, his Cabinet, the diplomatic party and Managua's society attended.

SOVIETS SAID TO SEEK LOAN HERE

New York Hears Rumors of Russian Proposals

Reds Assume Czarist Debt if Cash Forthcoming

'Authority,' However, Denies Knowledge of Plan

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—The New York Times says today it has learned from reliable Wall-street sources that soviet government representatives have approached American bankers within the last few weeks, seeking assistance to ameliorate the Russian financial situation.

Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank, was met by soviet agents in Paris, the Times says, but nothing came of the conversations, and Mr. Mitchell knew of no plans for a possible Russian loan in this market.

One report heard in the financial district concerning soviet conferences with American bankers was that the French government kept the Russian agents under surveillance while they were in France, and has informally notified the American banking interests that the conferences should be terminated, because of Franco-soviet relations.

The Times says that the informal Russian proposal was for the issuance of about $100,000,000 of 3½ per cent sixty-year bonds.

CHANGE URGED IN SURTAX LAW

Mills Would Exempt Bonds to Protect Individuals

Corporations Now Able to Fix Security Prices

Government at Disadvantage, Says Treasury Official

BOSTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Because of the surtax on government securities, corporations fix the price at which Treasury issues are marketed, Undersecretary asked. "The average rate of interest paid by all States on their total indebtedness during 1926 was about 4.14 per cent, while the man with an income of $25,000 will receive a net yield of only 3.02 per cent on a sixteen-twenty-year 3½-5 per cent United States government bond. Moreover, even after Federal taxes, he can receive approximately 4 per cent on the highest grade of public utility bonds.

AMENDMENT SUGGESTED

"These figures make it perfectly apparent that in so far as the individual investor is concerned, the United States government is at a serious disadvantage today in marketing its securities because of the provision in the Liberty Loan Act which limits the tax-exempt privilege to the normal tax. Under these circumstances, the Treasury Department believes that the Congress should give serious consideration to an amendment of the second Liberty Loan Act as amended, authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury in issuing securities in the future to make them exempt from the surtax as well as the normal tax.

"The enactment of such an amendment would not in any way interfere with the adoption of a constitutional amendment permitting the taxation of so-called tax-exempt securities, should Congress and the States deem this to be desirable. Taking the long-time view of the situation, I believe that the enactment of such a constitutional amendment is desirable, for I consider it inconsistent with our principles of democratic government that our laws be so framed as to permit any class of our citizens to escape their just tax obligations."

COOLIDGE REAFFIRMS TREASURY SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—While it was being reiterated at the White House today that President Coolidge will support the Treasury recommendations for tax reduction, the joint Congressional tax committee gave its attention to suggested changes in the administrative features of the present revenue law.

The report of the joint committee will be presented to the House Ways and Means Committee the first of the week, and Representative Green of Iowa, who heads both groups, said it probably would be made public tomorrow.

The White House announcement was somewhat similar to that earlier in the week, and it was emphasized again that Mr. Coolidge believes it will be unwise for Congress to attempt a reduction in revenue greater than the limiting figure of $225,000,000 set by Secretary Mellon.

It also was stressed at the White House that the prospective Treasury revenue for future fiscal years alone can be considered in effecting tax reduction, as the source of much current revenue is of a nonrecurring nature.

SAYING IT WITH CANDY COSTLY

British Jury Holds It Equal to Loves Letters and Awards Balm

LONDON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Saying it with chocolates is just as dangerous as writing love letters in England.

There was only one letter, and that not a very sweet one, introduced in court when Miss Edith May Batchelor sued Alfred Edmund Gibben for breach of promise.

But a jury, on which there were three women, decided that the sending of chocolates by the defendant to the plaintiff every week was evidence of Gibben's intentions and awarded Miss Batchelor £100 to solace her wounded affections.

FUNDS ASKED IN DISEASE BATTLE

Infantile Paralysis Serum Saves Thirty Lives

Year's Work of Foundation in California Reviewed

Blood Also Sought from Recovered Persons

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Dr. Karl F. Meyer, director of the Hooper Foundation, affiliated with the University of California medical school, revealed today that in the last year thirty lives have been saved and the condition of fifty others suffering from infantile paralysis has been improved by the use combative serum. Mr. Meyer issued his statement simultaneously with an appeal for funds lest the work of the foundation suffer in the future.

FUNDS NEEDED

"The great burden of providing this serum," Dr. Meyer reported, "has been centralized in the Hooper Foundation. Our service in this respect has been greatly curtailed by inability to obtain a sufficient supply of serum. To prevent such an unfortunate situation in the future it is necessary for us to have money and the volunteering of persons who have recovered from the disease. From these persons we draw the blood from which we make the serum."

Mr. Meyer declared the serum has been used successfully since 1915, following its discovery in New York, and has been in use in California since 1925. Its history shows that in virtually every case where its use has prevented death it also has prevented the patient from being crippled.

NO RESPECTER OF RANK

"Our experience so far," continued Dr. Meyer's report, "has shown that those who volunteer are from the less successful walks of life, economically. This is wrong, for the disease is no respecter of persons and the children of the rich are as likely to be besieged by it as are the children of the poor. It is, in part at least, for the purpose of prying where the financial condition of the convalescent justifies that we need money. If $5000 a year were assured, I think it would be sufficient."

There have been this year, he said, cases where appeals have been made for serum and none has been available. While the germ which causes the disease is so minute as to be undiscernible through a microscope, it is known to have its lodgement in the nasal passages. Except in rare instances adults are immune but can be unknowing carriers

HONOR PAID TO HARDING AS MARTYR

Memorial Address Made at His Temporary Tomb by Ohio Chief Justice

MARION (O.) Nov. 11. (AP)—The life of Warren G. Harding was sacrificed on the altar of service to his country, Chief Justice Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court said today in a memorial address at the temporary tomb of the late President and his wife in Marion cemetery.

Speaking before an audience which included 600 members of the Ohio Council of Republican Women, who made a pilgrimage to Marion from Columbus, where the council is meeting, to place a wreath on the Harding tomb, Justice Marshall declared Harding became President at one of the most critical periods of American history.

There existed then, he said, problems vastly greater than any faced by any other Chief Executive since Abraham Lincoln, and as a result "Warren G. Harding met the death of a martyr, his life sacrificed upon the altar of service to his country."

Following Justice Marshall's address the wreath was laid by Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Levan, Steubenville, Republican national committeewoman for Ohio.

Indian Rebels Quit in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11. (Exclusive) With Abundio Garcia, brother of former Gen. Silviano Garcia, who was executed by Federal troops, 200 heavily armed Indian soldiers, organized by the late rebels, have surrendered to Gen. Manuel Lugo in Ixtuacan, State of Vera Cruz, says a dispatch to El Universal received today.

Garcia and the other captives, according to the dispatch, said the Indians had been tricked by officers of the Serrano armed forces into service with them. Since Gomez became chief of military operations the process of arming the Indians had been in progress and many rifles and cartridges had been buried so as to be ready for use in the revolt. Garcia took the Federals to the scene of the hidden equipment and it was found as he had stated.

Pope Receives Briton Seeking Church Reunion

[Copyright, 1927, by the Chicago Tribune]

ROME, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Viscount Halifax, protagonist of British high churchmen who want a reunion with the Church of Rome, was received by Pope Pius yesterday in a semiprivate audience.

Viscount Halifax has been in Rome several days seeking a private parley with the head of the Roman Catholic Church. Pope Pius refused to grant this request, insisting that others of the Papal entourage be present.

No mention was made during the audience of the real purpose of the Viscount's visit, which was to sound out the Pope regarding the return of the Anglican church to the fold.

While it would be too much to call the Pope's refusal a rebuff to the Anglicans, Viscount Halifax was deeply disappointed.

Two Killed by Rival Gangster

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) Nov. 11. (AP) A masked executioner of the underworld entered a cafe here last night, slew two members of what police think was a rival bootleg gang, left two others wounded and escaped with a companion in an automobile.

The death sentence of the gangsters was carried out without ceremony by shotgun. Robert Aiello, 23 years of age, and Frank Aiello, 30, brothers, were shot and killed, as they sat playing cards. Vitto Lapacola, 28, and Lee Meacum, 26, their companions, were seriously wounded.

The slaying locale was within a block of the police station. Hearing shots, a detective ran to the restaurant in time to see the slayer and his companion disappear in an automobile carrying a Missouri license.

COLORADO STRIKERS MEET WITH REBUFF

DENVER, Nov. 11. (AP) — Striking Colorado coal miners who planned to circulate petitions to the State Industrial Commission, asking that body to intercede in the wage controversy, met with two rebuffs today. Chairman Annear of the Industrial Commission said that petitions signed by strikers cannot be considered by the commission, and Jesse F. Welbourn, president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, described the petitions as "a scheme of I.W.W. agitators to force coal operators into a conference with them."

BANDITS BEAT VICTIM

CHICO, Nov. 11. (AP)—Found unconscious in his home today, Guirino Sioravanti, aged resident of this city, told police an incoherent story of being tied and beaten by two young men this morning. He was robbed of $47. The victim, about 80 years of age, is in a serious condition in a hospital here.

Violinist Stills Hisses by Music

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—When the audience hisses, Fritz Kreisler soothes it with music.

Observing his silver wedding anniversary, the violinist said that a recent incident at Liege, Belgium, taught him how precarious footlight oratory is. He halted his program to acknowledge the applause. In a brief speech he said that he accepted it less for himself than as a tribute to the German race and German art. Hissing and other protests followed.

To save the situation, Kreisler tucked his violin under his chin, drew his bow across the strings and the audience again was good natured.

Newspaper Men of State Meet

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (AP)—Objectives, faults and advantages of newspaper advertising were stressed by speakers at the opening session today of the California Press Association's two-day meeting here. Editors and publishers to the number of 125 attended.

Among the speakers were Allen Griffin of the Monterey Herald, who condemned "high pressure" methods in selling newspaper advertising; Ben H. Read of Los Angeles, manager of the California Newspaper Men's Association, and Justus Craemm, vice-president of the Press Association.

OPERA SINGER CUTS ARTERY IN FILMING

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—Michael Bohnen, Metropolitan Opera baritone and husband of Mary Lewis, suffered a cut of the main artery of the left arm while he was playing in a motion-picture drama today. He was acting at the U.F.A. studios near Potsdam and in the course of the action of the play was required to open a glass panel door quickly. As he rushed through the door a pane of glass broke and fell on his arm, cutting a deep gash at the elbow. The singer was rushed to a hospital, where the cut was sewed together and he was then transferred to his home.

GOULD DESCENDANTS FLEE BURNING HOME

EASTHAMPTON (N. Y.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Stuyvesant and Caroline Wainwright, young grandchildren of the late George J. Gould, escaped from a fire that destroyed the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll L. Wainwright, late last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright were away when the fire started. While distracted servants and firemen searched the blazing structure in vain, the youngsters were found on the lawn of the estate, calmly watching the fire.

GANGSTER CONVICTED ON MURDER CHARGE

OKMULGEE (Okla.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Clyde Brandon was convicted of murder today, the jury agreeing upon a penalty of life imprisonment in the State penitentiary. Brandon's trial was the fourth on charges of murder growing out of the death of W. J. McAnally, Beggs Chief of Police, who was shot by bandits during the robbery of two banks there last May. All of the defendants were reputed to members of the Matthew Kimes gang.

Prince of Wales Looks for Whisky Bottle Bottom Inside Boston Bag

LONDON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The Prince of Wales knows his luggage. At an Armistice-week exhibition of the handicraft of disabled ex-service men last night he was shown a model of a Boston bag by Capt. James Scott of Sheffield.

"The Prince opened the bag," said the captain, "peered inside, then asked, 'Since the bag has an American name, where is the false bottom for the whisky bottle?'"

THRONE NOT AIM OF CAROL PLOT

Manoilescu Denies Prince Would Dethrone Son

Desires Only to be Named Regency Member

Accused Aide Thrills Trial Court With Eloquence

BUCHAREST (Rumania) Nov. 11. (AP)—Speaking with eloquence which held audience and judges spellbound for two hours, M. Manoilescu, former Undersecretary for Finance, who is on trial charged with complicity in a Carolist plot, today revealed that former Crown Prince Carol does not seek the throne he had renounced but only membership on the regency.

"The Prince is too loyal and decent to think of dethroning his own son," Manoilescu declared in highly emotional tones. With a courage that astonished even his own lawyers he lashed at the present government as a disaster to Rumania.

NO ISSUE OR HOPE

"We live in a state of political abnormality without issue or hope," he said. "The only solution is the return of Carol through the joint action of opposition leaders and persistent moral pressure on the country."

Manoilescu startled the courtroom by stating that Carol is firmly convinced there is a growing movement for a republic.

"Every day's events strengthens the Prince's convictions," Manoilescu asserted. "Hence his desire to return is merely an expression of his anxiety to strengthen the regency and thereby fortify his own family dynasty."

Manoilescu insisted that it is impossible to attribute to himself any intentions other than those entertained by Carol and, therefore, there never was any question in his mind of changing either the King or the constitution, as charged against him.

CHANGES NECESSARY

"The only change necessary to attain the end Carol and I had in mind was, first, a simple change in the law which forbids Carol to return to Rumania," said Manoilescu. "Second, it would be necessary for one member of the present regency to resign. The solution we had in mind was absolutely legal."

The former Undersecretary of Finance spoke in a tone of tenderness which moved even the judges of Carol's frustrated desire to see his dying father. Manoilescu said that Carol is sure the late King Ferdinand was ready to forgive his erring son.

Denying that there is any deep and unsolved mystery behind Carol's voluntary renunciation of the throne, Manoilescu insisted that the renunciation was due to a question of dignity and totally unconnected with stories circulated about the Prince's private life.

"But," he said, "when the Prince renounced the throne nobody could foresee the early and tragic death of King Ferdinand, which left Rumania in a state of helplessness."

Woman Postpones Celebration of Birthday Because It Falls on Friday

WINONA (Minn.) Nov. 11. (AP) Mrs. Jacob Schmitt is 100 years of age today, but because it is Friday and she is superstitious there was no celebration.

Friday has always been a jinx day for her, Mrs. Schmitt told her friends, asking them to pretend she is only 99, and postpone the celebration for next year, when her birthday falls on a "luckier" day.

FOUR KILLED IN PITCHED GUN BATTLE

Youth, Father and Two Alabama Officers Victims in Shoot-it-Out Duel

OPP (Ala.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Four men, two of them officers, were killed here tonight during a pitched battle on the main street which followed an attempt to arrest O. C. Dauphin, 18 years of age, a participant. Two bystanders were wounded.

The shooting, witnesses said, followed the attempt of Lee Clark and Edward Nix, patrolmen, to arrest Dauphin when he drove his automobile down the street at an excessive rate of speed and created a disturbance. When he failed to stop his car at the command of officers, they fired.

Dauphin outdistanced them and returned a few minutes later with his father, Cleve Dauphin. When the officers appeared, the father and son began firing, bystanders said. Clark and Nix returned the fire.

Clark and both of the Dauphins were killed instantly. Nix died shortly after being removed to a hospital.

Grady Paul, 17, and Miss Effie Davis of Andalusia, Ala., who were passing along the sidewalk as the firing began, suffered minor wounds.

The Dauphins are said by police to have been arrested recently on charges of violating the prohibition law.

Nix and Clark leave their widows and several children. Cleve Dauphin leaves his widow. The younger Dauphin, who was married at 14, leaves a divorced widow and child.

GAMBLERS IN ELECTION FLAREBACK

Bay City "Vote Peeping" Draws Attention to Open Defiance of Betting Law

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Betting commissioners who have thrived openly in this city for years and who have learned the art of publicizing their odds without molestation, came in for police attention today as an aftermath of the voting-machine peeping scandal uncovered by Registrar of Voters Zemansky.

One of the gamblers dignified by the name of "Commissioner," whose place of operation is known only as Corbett's, was raided by police and closed. Two others, operated by Tom Kyne and Frank Cator were placed under police surveillance but not molested. The three have handled the bulk of wagers in this city for years.

Police action followed the arrest of W. T. Henning, a temporary deputy registrar, who is charged with having opened a voting machine and supplying the figures of it to betting commissioners for the benefit of big-money, sure-fire, last-minute gamblers.

Henning's case will have the attention of the county grand jury Monday. Registrar Zemansky, who has been subpoenaed to appear, declared today that Henning opened several other machines in addition to the one which was first brought to his attention. Consequently, election officials of twenty-nine voting precincts in the district in question also have been summoned to appear before the grand jury. It is believed their appearance is for the purpose of establishing Henning as the man who peeped into the machines.

Credit Men Ask Large Tax Cut

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Credit executives representing 4000 manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers and bankers west of the Rockies, meeting in the annual convention of the western division, National Association of Credit Men, today passed a resolution urging prompt amendment of the Federal revenue laws by the next Congress and a tax reduction of at least $300,000,000, considerably more than that proposed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

"In the former amendment and tax concession, corporations did not share," reads the resolution in part, "and while individual incomes participated in the concessions and nuisance taxes were abated, the income tax of corporations was increased. It seems, therefore, that in the next concession granted, corporations should share generously, and if at all possible, the tax on corporations should be reduced to 10 per cent."

Wife's Temper Loses Alimony

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Because she could not restrain her anger and struck her husband, John M. Hoffman, in the presence of the court, Justice Hoehling today rescinded an order by which the husband had been directed to pay back alimony of $85 to Mrs. Marie A. Hoffman.

The court had ordered the payment of the arrears and the couple were leaving the courtroom when Mrs. Hoffman struck a backhanded blow at her husband with her pocket book, knocking his overcoat and hat from his arms.

Administration Chiefs Plan to Speed Up Work

Major Bills Aimed at Senate Before Christmas

Republican General Staff About Rounded Up

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Administration leaders in the House are prepared to step down on the legislative pedal as soon as Congress is organized for work.

Four major bills and possibly a fifth—taxes, alien property, a deficiency appropriation bill and one or two of the regular annual supply measures—will be sent, to the Senate before the Christmas recess if hopes of the leaders are realized.

The return today of Speaker Longworth completes with but one exception the rounding up of the Republican general staff in the House and all are of the opinion that there will be sufficient legislative material on hand to keep the wheels turning at full speed from the start.

TILSON ABSENT

The absentee, Representative Tilson, the Republican floor leader, was here for a few hours today, but left to make an Armistice Day address and will not return for the winter until some time next week.

Mr. Longworth said that he hopes the tax and alien property bills and probably two supply measures will be out of the way by Christmas. He added, however, that he has not had time to obtain a complete picture of the prospective legislation nor ascertain any views regarding the Treasury recommendation that tax reduction be limited to $225,000,000.

AS TO RIVER PROBLEM

Chairman Madden of the House Appropriations Committee will seek immediate action on a deficiency appropriation bill to care largely for projects left without funds as a result of the sidetracking in the Senate of a similar measure during the closing hours of the last session. He also hopes to have the House pass at least one regular supply bill before Christmas.

Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee says that body will be ready with a tax bill and a measure providing for settlement of alien property claims growing out of the war. He expects the latter bill to be along lines similar to the measure passed last year by the House but not acted upon by the Senate.

Speaker Longworth declares that he favors legislative action on the Colorado River development problem and that he believes that this can be done without the government becoming involved in the power business. He said he has no information, however, as to what may be in prospect for Muscle Shoals.

ABYSSINIAN DAM REPORT CLEARED UP

Envoy Tells British No Contract Entered Into With American Company

LONDON, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—The mystery of the Tsana Lake dam contract was cleared up today when Dr. W. C. Martin, the Abyssinian envoy, called at the Foreign Office and told Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, that there never was any contract with the J. G. White Engineering Company of New York.

All that happened was that Dr. Martin, when in America, asked for details on the engineering possibilities and costs with a view to future construction, and the Ethiopian government never had the slightest intention of making a contract without the knowledge and consent of the British government.

It is most likely that before other steps are taken British and other European engineers will be asked to bid.

Prince to Attend Bay City Schools

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—California schools are to get a Prince of the royal blood for the purpose of pounding American boyhood and education into him, it was announced here today. The Prince is Chakir Tongtikayou, who is 13 years of age and the nephew of the King of Siam. Intention of the Siamse royal family to let the boy learn his marbles and chalks here was announced by Malcolm Beranger, the Prince's guardian, who arrived tonight from Paris.

Beranger said Prince Chakir has completed three years in the schools of Paris. He is to be placed in the San Francisco grade and intermediate schools until he has attained college age. It is the present intention to have him attend the University of California.

Princess Fixes Marriage Date

COLOGNE (Germany) Nov. 11. (AP) Princess Victoria Zu Schambeg-Lippe, 61-year-old sister of the former Kaiser, and young Alexander Subkoff, her fiance, will be married the 24th inst., the Rheinische Zeitung says today.

The paper says that the couple will be married in the Russian chapel at Weisbaden by a Russian priest.

SHASTA LUMBERMAN DIES OF HOG'S BITE

REDDING, Nov. 11. (AP)—Matthew Wengler, pioneer lumberman and contractor of Shasta county, died today from blood poisoning resulting from his being bitten by a hog at his ranch at Inwood, thirty miles east of Redding, on August 20. He had been in a hospital ever since and surgeons prepared today to amputate his leg. He died while on the operating table.

AIR REGULATION LINDBERGH PLEA

Flyer Issues Statement for Associated Press

Menace of Improper Training Schools Set Forth

Full Control by Department of Commerce Urged

[Copyright, 1927, by the Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has responded to a request by the Associated Press that he write his impressions of aviation in America and its future, based upon his observations during his recent unique flying tour of the United States under the auspices of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

In Col. Lindbergh's statement he discusses the menace to aviation caused by improper training schools and the product of inexperienced flyers; urges the regulation of all flying activities by the Department of Commerce and further regulations to provide the factor of safety in the air.

His statement follows:

"One of the gravest problems facing the advance of aviation is that of personnel. Flying is safe today as it must be combined with training and experience. We have not yet reached the stage in the development of aircraft where the pilot plays a minor part in the operation of an airplane and until we progress to that stage it is essential to have trained and experienced operators for safe flying."

AMERICA'S RECORD

"Thousands of miles are flown each day over the airways of America with a record of which any ground transportation company might be proud. It has been strikingly demonstrated both in America and in Europe that there need be no fear for personal safety in traveling with modern equipment over organized airways.

"There is another phase of commercial aviation, however, which is in need of regulation. There are not enough experienced pilots to meet the rapidly increasing demand for flying services. New men must be trained and schools have been established for their training. In these schools lies the greatest menace confronting aviation.

"Young America wants to fly and is going to fly. Thousands of young men are entering and preparing to enter aviation schools. Most of them have limited finances and consequently must enter a school which has a small tuition fee.

"Unfortunately there are many of these institutions operating today and turning out graduating students with less than ten hours of flying training. These graduates must find some way to continue flying and, since they have not money enough to rent or own a plane, they also must earn at least their expenses as they fly.

LACK OF TRAINING PERIL

"The situation results in inexperienced pilots carrying passengers for hire, often under adverse conditions, in flights which really should be under supervision as part of their training. Even if an accident is averted during the first 100 or 200 hours, the pilot still lacks much of the knowledge and technique of the art of flying which should have been learned during the training period.

"We have surprisingly few accidents on our air lines with our experienced operators, but we read only too often of crashes which upon investigation are found in almost every instance to have resulted from inexperience and lack of judgment on the part of the pilot.

"Apparently the only method of alleviating the existing situation is through regulation of flying schools and second through regulation of the qualifications required of a pilot engaging in commercial flying and especially in passenger carrying.

"The Department of Commerce through the Bureau of Aeronautics is regulating interstate flying very successfully, but it has no control over flying activities within individual States and, of course, the student pilot confines himself to the laws of his own State during his period dangerous period.

REGULATION FORECAST

"During the two and a half decades of its existence aviation has progressed toward ever-increasing safety.

"The next advance will come through regulation of air activities, including certain minimum requirements of flying-school courses, but more extensive regulation can be effective the Department of Commerce must be given the right to regulate all flying activities instead of interstate traffic only.

"We are in need of uniform flying regulations throughout the Union either through Federal or individual State action.

"A number of States have adopted the Department of Commerce regulations, but the majority have either no regulation whatsoever or have enacted special rules which in the end will only serve to retard aeronautical development. I say this in the interest of the safety of the men who want to be pilots and of those of our people who want to fly."

Cincinnati Man Meets Death in Brothers' Feud

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11. (AP)—Years of enmity between two brothers was ended here today, when Joseph Wise, 34 years of age, was beaten with a baseball bat and then shot to death by his brother, Samuel Wise, 30, when they met in the office of L. Wise and Brothers Company.

Samuel Wise, the police said, had dragged the body of his brother into a rear store room and had placed it in a trunk when they arrived. The Wise Brothers Company is a prominent Cincinnati leather and hide firm. Samuel Wise told the police he had killed his brother because Joseph had threatened to kill him.

MILITARY INSTITUTE TO ABANDON HAZING

LEXINGTON (Va.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Virginia Military Institute will have no further hazing of first-year men if the upper classmen are able to prevent it. A statement prepared by the students and given to Superintendent Cocke, declares that in the future the cadet code "will prohibit any striking of new cadets by old cadets." For violation of that code it is promised that the penalty will be immediate dismissal, and violations will be reported to the superintendent by the cadets themselves.

FARMER EXILED FROM STATE

Mississippian Deeds Property to Man He Maimed and Departs Forever

RIPLEY (Miss.) Nov. 11. (AP) George Dees, Mississippi farmer, attentively listened while Circuit Judge Pegram exiled him from his native State, bowed his head and then walked out of court for an unannounced destination.

Dees was banished from Mississippi forever because he shot and maimed for life Zack Massey, a well-known citizen. Under an agreement reached between Dees and the man he crippled which Judge Pegram agreed to, Dees deeded to Massey his farm, offered to plead guilty to a charge of carrying a pistol and then leave the State.

FILIPINOS ASKED TO MOVE ON

Antagonism Grows as Orientals Seek Work in Yakima Valley

YAKIMA (Wash.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Growing antagonism to Filipino workers who recently, upon the cessation of cannery work in Alaska, flocked into the Yakima Valley in larger numbers than usual, has resulted in demands being made by white workers to groups of Filipinos to leave the valley.

Organized bands of white workers, most of whom were transients, called at bunkhouses occupied by the Filipinos and advised them to leave or disorder would follow. No overt acts of violence have been reported to authorities. About fifty Filipinos are reported to have left during the last few days from the McKinley, Buena and Toppenish districts, with sixteen going in one group from Buena. About fifteen left Wapato, going by stage to Yakima and from here to the coast.

Groups of farm workers, angered by the number of Filipinos underbidding them for jobs, are said to have been leaders in the move to get rid of the orientals. Reports from Toppenish and Wapato are that the protest groups were organized entirely by the transients, but there was a growing sentiment on the part of the many residents against the Filipinos.

The asserted practice of some of the Filipinos of striking up acquaintances with white girls is reported to have added to the antagonism. The movement against the Filipinos has been quiet and many persons living in the valley knew nothing about it.

New Charges by Communists in Party Row

MOSCOW, Nov. 11. (AP)—The opposition is breaking its last ties with the Communist party and seeking the help of nonpoletarian forces, the central committee of the Communist party declares today in a communique addressed to all party organizations and published in the newspapers.

Leon Trotzky, Gregory Vinovieff, Leon Kameneff and others are charged with antisoviet actions at the revolutionary anniversary celebration in Moscow and Leningrad in their seizure of the Moscow Technical College for an antiparty meeting and in their rough handling of Communists at illegal opposition meetings.

Play Presents Mimic Kaiser

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—Protests of the former Kaiser from his exile at Doorn went for naught and a mimic Emperor William II of Germany addressed his troops on the stage of the Communist Theater last night at the opening of Alexei Tolstoy's drama "Rasputin."

The scene depicting the Kaiser is one interpolated in the original manuscript by Erwin Piscator, founder of the theater, with the permission of the author. Through his attorney the former Kaiser threatened court action if the scene were not withdrawn.

One of the original characters in the play, however, successfully invoked this law and obtained an injunction forbidding his impersonation. Dimitri Rubenstein, a Russian emigre, now a wealthy capitalist in Paris, was superseded in the produced version by a character described as Dimitri Orenstein, war profiteer and German spy.

Thousands Seek Dry Agent Tests

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—While there may be a difference of opinion on the subject of prohibition, there appears to be a degree of unanimity of desire throughout the country to obtain positions as enforcement officers under the forthcoming civil service reorganization.

The Civil Service Commission has received 15,000 applications for the 150 administrative positions carrying salaries of $3000 to $6000 annually and 33,000 for the 3500 subordinate jobs paying $1800, to $4000.

The Treasury reiterated today that because of the impending transfer of personnel to civil service status it does not feel justified in asking Congress to appropriate for the next fiscal year more than the $13,000,000 for enforcement this year.

CAROLINE V. KERR EXPIRES IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—Caroline V. Kerr, American newspaper woman, died here today. For more than twenty years Miss Kerr was Central European correspondent of the Paris edition of the New York Herald and of leading American musical journals.

EX-WAR CHIEF IN PEACE PLEA

Newton D. Baker Addresses Good-Will Congress

Resolutions to Banish World Strife Passed

International Sessions at St. Louis Closed

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Outlawing war by international agreement, diminution of armament, further consideration by the United States of a permanent World Court, and "cooperation," not necessarily entailing "organic membership," in the League of Nations, were urged in resolutions adopted here today at the closing sessions of the International Good-Will Congress.

Delegates unanimously adopted twelve resolutions which epitomize the congress's efforts to banish international strife and to prolong peace times.

They placed taboo on militarism in educational institutions except those specifically founded for military instruction.

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in President Wilson's Cabinet, recommended three measures for progress toward world peace in a closing Armistice Day speech. They are:

A declaration by the President and Senate, as part of the fixed policy of the United States, that this country will not exercise its legal right to trade with a nation declared by the League of Nations to have been the aggressor in war.

SAME AS RESOLUTION THEMES

Resumption of negotiations for American participation in the World Court by appointment of a commission to meet with a similar commission of present members of the court.

Negotiations by the United States with other nations of treaties similar to the Locarno treaties, which bind their signatories not to go to war, whatever the provocation.

Baker's three recommendations were almost identical, with three resolutions adopted by delegates to the congress.

Answering the question "must we have war?" his announced topic, Baker said, "yes, unless we do something to prevent it."

"Everything is international except peace," said Baker. "We have international finance, trade, science and education. The only international instrument for peace is the League of Nations and we chose to stay out of that, but staying out, we can at least indicate sympathy with the purposes of the League."

"I am in favor of conferences for disarmament," he continued. "I only suggest that we must not rely too much on their efficacy."

PEACE PLEA SOUNDS

Picturing a shattered Christianity in event of another World War, the World Alliance for International Friendship, which sponsored the good-will congress, issued an Armistice Day statement declaring co-operative methods must replace "mutual slaughter" if civilization is to survive.

"Nothing else that we do, as Christian churches, matters much if another world war shatters civilization altogether," says the document which bears signature of leaders in many walks of life.

Styled "an appeal to American Christians," the document reads in part:

"Convinced that the creation of international substitutes for war is the most critical problem of our time, we appeal to our fellow-Christians of America to put foremost in their interest and thought this crucial matter.

"Under no illusions as to the difficulties which face those who would be peacemakers in this generation, we yet plead that all which we hold dear and all that we work for as Christians is at stake. The gospel of the prince of peace cannot be reconciled with war. Another international conflict would be a devastating blow not only to the institutions but to the spirit of Christianity.

MERRILL RE-ELECTED

"Whatever may be the different opinions as to ways and means which we, as individuals, hold, as Christians we owe it to our consciences, our nation, our civilization, and our Christ to put the peace question foremost in our thought and effort. Never in history did the Christian churches have a clearer call to withstand the paganism which worships Caesar and to claim Christ as the rightful Lord of all human relationships."

Dr. William P. Merrill, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, New York, was re-elected president of the alliance. Dr. Henry A. Atkinson of New York was re-elected general secretary and Fred B. Smith of New York was re-elected chairman of the executive committee.

Belgian Flight Comes to Grief

CHAUMONT (France) Nov. 11. (AP) Flight Lieutenants George Medaets and Jean Verhaegen, Belgian aviators who started on a nonstop flight to the Belgian Congo from Courtrai this morning, were forced down by bad weather at La Ferte-Sur-Aube, France.

The plane, Queen Elizabeth, flying low under a ceiling of clouds, struck on a hillside near Ferte-Sur-Aube shortly before 10 o'clock and smashed. Villagers removed Medaets and Verhaegen from the wreckage and conveyed them to a military hospital at Chaumont, where their conditions were found to be serious. Gen. Pershing had his wartime headquarters at Chaumont.

THREE SHOT TO DEATH ON FARM IN MISSOURI

KING CITY (Mo.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Allen and their son, Lloyd Allen, 25 years of age, were found shot to death today in their farm home six miles north of here. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Allen were in bed downstairs and that of their son was found in a bedroom upstairs. Mr. Allen was 50 and his wife 45. A shotgun was lying by the side of the elder Allen. Whether it is a case of murder and suicide or whether all three had been slain is not determined.

TRAGEDY ASCRIBED TO ARMISTICE-DAY MEAL

CUSHING (Okla.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Objecting to the extra work involved in preparing an Armistice Day dinner a Mexican cook known only by the name of Tony, today shot and killed Mrs. Mollie Richards and then himself.

PATRIOT THEME MARKS CONCERT

KHJ Program Appropriate to Armistice Day

Children's Hour Brings Skits in Solemn Tenor

Occidental Novelty Duo to Make Bow Tonight

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Strictly on schedule the Armistice Day and night program broadcast from KHJ presented a vast array of talent. Starting with taps at 11 in the morning, then at 1:30 to the Coliseum for the program there, and finally at 6 o'clock to the studio for the program of the KHJ Concert Trio, the patriotic theme was noticeable through all the broadcast.

On the children's hour Eugenia Abriel, "Poppy," gave a song and an Alan Seegar poem; Vivian Marple read a Van Dyke poem; Catherine Cotter, "Sweetheart of Radioland," gave readings, followed by Nelita Bennett, "Gingerbread Girl;" Richard Headrick, "Little Minister," with a sermonette on kindness, and Jean Marie Smith, violinist, accompanied by Carol Smith.

EVENING PROGRAM

The 8 to 9 o'clock hour was a special studio armistice program, which featured June Brandon, contralto, with violin obbligatos by Olga Minata.

Her numbers included "Rose of No Man's Land" and "The Long, Long Trail," numbers which will forever remain in the memory of former soldiers whether their service was here, abroad, or on the seas.

Commencing at 9 o'clock, men from the U.S.S. Relief, navy hospital ship, presented a fine program and, although there was plenty of fun and frolic, nevertheless throughout the entire program the deep meaning of Armistice Day was noticeable.

Armistice Day is essentially a celebration for peace, not war. It celebrates no battle, but commemorates the great day when peace came.

The KHJ Concert Trio program at 6 o'clock brought back memories of 1917 with "Over There" and other tunes as well as medleys of patriotic airs, "Roses of Picardy," "Smilin' Through," "Carry On" and others.

SAW DUO HEARD

A novel radio team will take the bow in KHJ's studio tonight in the form of saw duets by Erie Bradney and James Morse, seniors in Occidental College. The duo's program will include several Bond and Nevin numbers as well as an Italian folk song.

The young men, members of the Oxy Glee Club, have been playing together for the last three years at service clubs and various gatherings. During the past summer they were one of the entertainment teams in Canyon Camp at Yellowstone.

Their accompanist, Florence Thompson, already known to KHJ audiences, also has had much experience in the entertainment line. She is a graduate of Northwestern University's school of music and taught music in Milwaukee, where she also played on many radio programs.

Special Guards for Red Envoys

GENEVA, Nov. 11. (AP)—Special police will protect the soviet delegates to the forthcoming disarmament conference, the presence of a considerable number of Russians of the Czarist regime in Switzerland in view of the conflict which arose over the assassination of Vaziav Vorovsky, at Lausanne, causing the decision.

Soviet Russia today notified the League secretariat that it will participate in the negotiations, thus confirming a previous message, and asked the League to arrange for passport facilities.

HOME COST RISES FROM 1921 PRICES

One-Family Dwelling Has Gone Up 19 Per Cent With Apartments Much Less

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The average cost of erecting a one-family dwelling has increased 19 per cent since 1921, statistics just published by the Department of Labor show. The figures were taken from 257 cities, excluding those exceeding 500,000 population.

In 1921 the average expenditures was $3972 not including the cost of the lot, while in 1926 the cost is placed at $4725. During the same period the cost per family in apartment-houses has advanced but 1.9 per cent, or from $4019 to $4095.

In comparing the cities having a population more than 500,000, the lowest average building cost for the first half of 1927 was shown in St. Louis, where $3540 was paid for one-family dwelling. Chicago was the highest with $6440.

Three boroughs of New York City surpassed Chicago, but the cost for New York, all boroughs, was $6184. For the first half of the present year Baltimore families paid $3942 per dwelling, but Washington, forty miles away, paid $6337.

INSANE MAN RECAPTURED

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 11. (AP)—Deputy sheriffs today recaptured Arthur Cague, an insane man who last night jumped out of the window of a moving train near Elk Grove while en route from the Oregon State Insane Asylum to the State Hospital in Stockton.

AMERICAN DR. WATSON PLAYS LEAD FOR SHERLOCK HOLMES

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11. (AP) — The American counterpart of Dr. Watson, companion character of Sherlock Holmes in the stories of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, has been revealed here as the result of the promised release from a British prison of Oscar Slater, who has served eighteen years of a life sentence for the murder in 1908 of Miss Jame Gilchrist, aged spinster of Glasgow, Scotland.

In Slater's case the part of Watson was played by William G. Goodhart, Baltimore lawyer. Conan Doyle himself played the part of Holmes.

Slater, who was Mr. Goodhart's client prior to 1908, was arrested in New York on instructions cabled by Scotland Yard representatives. They had discovered, the cable said, that Slater had pawned a brooch during a trip to Scotland similar to one stolen from Miss Gilchrist.

Mr. Goodhart asserted that as Slater's attorney he vainly fought his extradition. Slater was extradited, tried in Edinburgh and sentenced to life imprisonment.

A year later the creator of Sherlock Holmes became interested in the case. With Mr. Goodhart, who still believed in his client's innocence, he instituted an investigation.

Together they unearthed the fact that Slater had pawned the brooch several months before Miss Gilchrist was murdered, Mr. Goodhart asserted. They also learned that it had been the property of another woman, and that Slater's visits to the pawn shop after the murder had been made for the purpose of raising more money on the pledge.

With such information, Sir Arthur reconstructed the crime and demanded Slater's release, Mr. Goodhart said.

Advices from London indicated that Slater will be freed as soon as formalities are completed.

Kisses Mark Day for Clemenceau

PARIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Georges Clemenceau, "father of the victory," obtained by the Armistice nine years ago, celebrated the anniversary quietly in his apartment here.

The Friendly Association of Vendeens in Paris, of which Clemenceau, who has a country retreat on the Vendee coast, is president, called upon him. Two young ladies in Vendeen costumes gave him flowers.

"Tradition," said the Tiger, "is that when young ladies offer flowers to an old man, he should kiss them. Let us take advantage of tradition."

CHEERFUL CHAFF

BY TIMES READERS

WRITE FOR THE "MOVIES" AND WIN CASH PRIZES

The Los Angeles Times produces a popular fun panel called "Cheerful Chaff," consisting of twelve best jokes submitted weekly by readers. Twelve $1 prizes are awarded each week, the names and addresses of winners together with prize-winning jokes appearing on the screen. Everyone is invited to send jokes. No formal letter is necessary, just jot down your jokes as many as you wish, sign your name and address and mail to "Cheerful Chaff Editor," Los Angeles Times. Jokes for the screen must not exceed thirty words. Meritorious jokes too long or otherwise not adapted for screen use, are accorded a place of honor on The Times comic page, receiving a souvenir of acknowledgment.

Joshua Little ON HAPPINESS

HAPPINESS is the one thing we all pursue—and throw away daily. We treat it as a clown treats his hat when he chases it all around the circus, kicking it out of reach every time he grasps at it. To complete the analogy, the clown does that to make money.

We're such awkward clowns at living that intelligent monkeys would laugh themselves to death if they had us in a cage. That's why so few of us dare to develop real sense of humor—it would keep us laughing at ourselves and be the ruin of pompous politicians, wars, other get-rich-quick schemes, credit-buying of non-essentials, lodges, ladies' clubs and breakfast foods.

Happiness comes only from moderation, sincerity, independence and love; yet most of us who think we're hot on its trail are after envy-inspiring wealth, hatred-inspiring pomp and fear-inspiring power. To get them, we sacrifice others' happiness—and we can't destroy any of the world supply without losing some of our own.

Yes, Palomina, we go after happiness as a child would go after a carload of candy, and if our greed is unrestrained get the same happy results.

A Roberts "weight-o'-Health" bath scales is not a luxury, but a neces- sity for those women who want to prevent their weight from creeping up. Indeed, a Weight-o'-Health bath scales make an ideal addition to any home, and a mighty acceptable Christmas gift. Why not order one now? Just call or write Roberts & Co., 1479 N. Vine street. GRanite 8338.

Broken needles, old safety-razor blades, etc., should never be thrown away carelessly. Keep them in a tin can with a cover till full; then, with the lid closed securely, they can be thrown out without danger to those handling them.

Almost from the first day that you begin to drink Sparkletts artesian well water you note a difference in the way you feel. To speak in the vernacular, it "pepe" you up in a remarkable way and you feel full of vim, vigor and vitality. Start drink- ing Sparkletts today and see what a grand and glorious appetite you have in a week's time. None of us drink enough water—eight glasses a day of the right kind of aqua is considered the amount each person needs. That amount of Sparkletts is a pleasure to drink. It is a most inexpensive thirst quencher, as you know, for it costs but 50 cents for a five-gallon bottle, delivered anywhere within the city limits. All you need do is phone ALbany 1171.

Home-made paste for teachers and others who use much paste: Stir a cupful of flour into enough water to make a creamy consistency; then pour over this four cupfuls of boil- ing water, stirring constantly; to this add one teaspoonful of powdered alum and cook five minutes. Pour in a bowl and beat till cold; then add one teaspoonful carbolic acid and one teaspoonful oil of cloves or win- tergreen; pour into small jars and cover with paraffin and it will keep indefinitely.

Whether you order any one of the plain flavors, or a combination brick—if its Hughes you are just certain to be delighted with your buy. The best barometer which you can have to show the delight Hughes gives is the children's exclamations of pleas- ure when this favorite ice cream is served. Why not simplify your Sun- day dinner by ordering at least a quart of fresh peach. Oh, but it's good!

Agar-agar candy for those who are hungry for sweets but don't want to grow fat—may be bought at its best at the California Nut store, 653 S. Hill st. (Pantages Theater Bldg.) Their candy is so delicious and sells at 60 cents a pound—costs elsewhere $1. Do try a box soon!

To keep moths out of pianos rub turpentine occasionally over wood- work on inside of piano and moths will not trouble even if unused for a long time. A small bag of gum camphor put inside a piano at each end protects the felt.

Soaking new ...rooms in a strong solution of salt and hot water or hot soapsuds is also good; dry well before using.

To polish a faucet nothing is bet- ter than half of a lemon after the juice has been squeezed out. After scouring, wash it and polish with ...'s dry cloth; it will shine like new. An orange peel also gives good re- sults.

When cutting off buttons from old garments string them in sets or run them on a large safety pin and they will be ready for use again.

It does one's heart good to hear the pupils tell of their enjoyment of the free lessons they are taking at Mathews Paint Co., 1245 S. Hill. Cer- tainly their time is being spent profit- ably and think of the knowledge thus gained which will always be theirs! If you haven't seriously considered join- ing these classes do so now. The lamp shades decorated with Prizma colors are charming as can be—one sewing table shown me was a love, beautified as it was by means of the plastic wood ornaments. What can be done to a humble card table is little short of astounding, and, by the way, such a table makes an ideal Christmas present. Let me re- mind you, also, that these lessons cost you nothing—that is to say, your only expense is for materials used.

Instead of blacking the gas stove rub it over (also inside of oven) with olive oil or boiled linseed oil. This will keep it a nice black without much trouble. To remove obstinate rust spots rub them with sandpaper.

Is your silver presentable for the Thanksgiving Day repast? Better take it down right away to the Peer- less platers, 239½ S. Spring st. (up- stairs,) and have them replate it. They do repairing, too—indeed, all their work is highly satisfactory.

To make brooms and brushes last longer and do better work give them an occasional ...th in two quarts of lukewarm water to which add four tablespoonfuls of ammonia; let bris- tles or straws stand in this one-half hour, then rinse thoroughly and hang in a cool place to dry.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to an- swer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, for- warded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

EXPLOITING OUR CHILDREN FOR SELFISH PURPOSES

The world apparently must be amused. Parents must be amused. And children seem to fill the bill as the universal plaything.

Some of the following situations are undoubtedly familiar to you in some form or other. These are mere- ly illustrative and aim at no one. They are commonplace everywhere there are children and merely en- deavor to accentuate the idea that the happiness and the health of chil- dren is often lost sight of in the selfish objectives of parents.

Mother knows that baby should be in bed at 6 or 7 o'clock. But father arrives home from work at that hour and he demurs. What is a baby for if his dad can't see him? Forever stuck away in bed when he wants to play with him. He is be- ing cheated of his rightful amuse- ment. So mother to please father keeps the baby up until after din- ner and lets father enjoy himself.

Grandmother having long held to the principle that baby can't be happy without something in his mouth insists on making him a cracker and sugar "teat," which to all appearances the baby enjoys hugely. Mother points out that after this injudicious feast the baby always spits up sour water and is uncomfortable, but grandmother gets such pleasure out of being the pur- veyor of this tid-bit that mother hasn't the heart to deny her.

Mothers aren't entirely blameless in this matter of exploiting the children, nor are teachers. Mothers, to please their own vanity, may en- courage frail Betty to assume school leaderships and active church work for which she is not strong enough. Teachers may allow an influential citizen, or organization, to dictate how a school campaign will help them put over some pet project. And who hasn't known of the armies of school children who have been brought long distances and made to stand for hours in hot suns or drizzly rains in order that for five minutes they may assume the out- lines of a living flag for the casual glance of some world hero.

Such situations exist everywhere. What does not exist in the public's frown of disapproval. People say feebly: "But children enjoy this." Of course they do. They like excite- ment. But at what frightful cost to themselves. We don't need to stimulate children, just living is stimulation enough for them. We do need to guard them from over- stimulation and until we do, and until we stop figuring what will please us, and how a gratification of that pleasure is going to affect the child, we are still far from taking our responsibilities as parents se- riously enough.

CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

CURRIED CHICKEN

Clean and disjoint a tender chick- en into twelve pieces. Melt over a good moderate fire two tablespoon- fuls of butter with a teaspoonful of oil added. Saute the chicken in the hot fat until just amber colored. Remove chicken and reserve. Sim- mer a few minutes in fat left in pan two sliced shallots, remove and reserve the shallots chopped. Blend in butter left in pan three and one- half teaspoonfuls of flour mixed with a teaspoonful of curry powder, and while stirring constantly with a wood- en spoon, dilute with one pint of water. Stir until smooth and boil- ing, add chicken and onion, season as needed with about one-half a teaspoonful of salt and one-fifth teaspoonful of black pepper. When boiling again remove to a slow fire to simmer covered until meat is tender. When done skim off the fat on top, pile chicken on a hot dish and arrange around it a ring of boiled rice.

PUFFED POTATOES

Wash and peel two medium-sized potatoes of a good starchy quality. Cut the sides square and trim off the corners. Slice lengthwise, even- ly, of the thickness of a silver dol- lar, and wipe between towels. Drop one by one into hot, deep shorten- ing, and cook slowly until soft but not colored. Remove potatoes and drain. Reheat the fat until it just begins to smoke, and immerse the potatoes again in the shortening. Re- turn to the fryer to a quick fire and cook until they puff into balls and become of a slight amber color. Toss potatoes from basket, sprinkle light- ly with salt and serve them on a napkin.

OYSTER AND CORN FRITTERS

Rub through a sieve three-quar- ters of a cupful of canned corn. Add to this pulp an egg beaten till light, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of cayenne. Beat in about one-half cupful of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking pow- der. It may be necessary to add a little more sifted flour to obtain a thick batter, which dropped from a tablespoon into deep, hot shorten- ing, will retain its shape. If bat- ter is too thick, add a little cream; if too thin, add flour. Wipe some parboiled oysters between towels. Dredge them with a little salt and pepper. Fill a tablespoonful with the batter, not quite full, and place on center an oyster, pressing lightly on it. Cover with some of the batter, then, using forefinger, press it out, dropping it into the hot, deep shortening. Fry about five or six minutes in hot deep shortening to a golden color.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The Four Ways to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Dr. McCoy's menu suggested for the week beginning Sunday, the 13th inst.:

Sunday—Breakfast: Coddled eggs, waffle (browned through,) stewed pears. Lunch: Cooked asparagus, cooked carrots sprinkled with chopped parsley, sliced tomatoes. Dinner: Jellied consomme (recipe given October 15,) baked chicken or rabbit, baked parsnips, oyster plant, combination salad of raw string beans, cucumber and green peas, peach whip.

Monday—Breakfast: Cottage cheese, sliced pineapple. Lunch: Boiled rice, cooked string beans, raw celery. Din- ner: Mushroom soup (recipe given October 22,) broiled steak, cooked spinach, salad of grated carrots and chopped celery, minced prunes molded in gelatin, with whipped cream.

Tuesday—Breakfast: French omel- let, Melba toast, stewed figs. Lunch: Potato soup, cooked oyster plant, lettuce. Dinner: Roast pork, cooked turnips, cooked okra, salad of raw spinach leaves, baked apple.

Wednesday—Breakfast: Wholewheat muffins with peanut butter, pear sauce. Lunch: Baked Hubbard squash, cooked lettuce, cucumbers. Dinner: Celery soup, broiled lamb chops, steamed carrots, McCoy salad, apri- cot whip.

Thursday—Breakfast: Baked eggs, Melba toast, stewed raisins. Lunch: Buttered noodles, cooked turnip tops, celery. Dinner: Clear tomato soup (beef broth with tomato added,) roast beef, cooked string beans, salad of tomato, spinach and asparagus (recipe given last week, October 8,) pineapple sponge (see recipe for orange souffle.)

Friday—Breakfast: Coddled eggs, broiled ham waffle, apple sauce. Lunch: Shredded lettuce with chopped pecans or almonds, sand- wiches of real wholewheat bread and peanut butter. Dinner: Baked hali- but, stewed tomatoes, cooked spin- ach, McCoy salad. No dessert.

Saturday — Breakfast: Cottage cheese, stewed peaches. Lunch: Car- rot loaf, cooked lettuce and parsley, ripe olives. Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, buttered vegetables —carrots, turnips and beets cooked separately and diced together, head lettuce with olive oil, apple whip or ice cream.

Potato Soup: Peel and dice pota- toes to equal three cups, and place over fire with three or four cup- fuls of water. Cook until tender, and add about three cupfuls of milk or thin cream and two table- spoonfuls of chopped parsley. Serve with thin strips of Melba toast. By using celery in place of potatoes, you have a delicious nonstarchy soup.

Wholewheat Muffins: To a well- beaten egg add one cupful of sweet milk. Stir in one cupful of real wholewheat flour and beat until smooth, then add a half cupful of the wholewheat flour into which has been sifted one level teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix thoroughly and bake in muffin tins in moderately hot oven until brown. The quantity makes six medium or eight small muffins.

The pineapple sponge is made al- most like the orange souffle. Shred- ded pineapple is combined with gelatin, and after the mixture con- geals, is beaten thoroughly with an eggbeater, beating in the desired amount of whipped cream.

Those who are overweight, or who, for any reason, wish to eliminate the starches from their diet, may substitute any of the luncheons with any one kind of the following raw acid fruits or their juices: Apples, apri- cots, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, plums, pineapple, toma- to or melon.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. A. B. asks: "I have a place at the top of my stomach on the right side that gives me some trouble, something like the col- ic, every month. Can you tell me what it is and the remedy? I am a very stout woman, weighing about 240 pounds. Can you tell me some- thing to reduce my weight?"

Answer: The distress you have on your right side may be due to gall bladder trouble, to stomach irrita- tion, or to colitis, in the hepatic flexure of the colon. As you are over- weight, the sensible thing to do is to diet to reduce your weight, and your symptoms will no doubt dis- appear while on the diet which is necessary for you to take to bring about a satisfactory weight reduc- tion. Space in this column is lim- ited, but I will be glad to send you complete instructions on how to re- duce.

Q.: A Seeker of Health asks: "May fruit or ice cream be eaten between meals without interfering with diges- tion?"

A.: Fruit and ice cream must both be considered real foods and should, therefore, be used in place of a meal, or may be used in addition to a meal if combined with those foods with which they are harmonious.

Q.: M. L. asks: "Is erysipelas a blood or a skin disease? What is the cause and cure of this disease?"

A.: I consider the true cause of erysipelas to be an acidosis pro- duced through the use of wrong food. It is true there is a particu- lar bacterium associated with this disease, but this micro-organism can- not live in a body free from acidosis. Please write for further personal ad- vice.

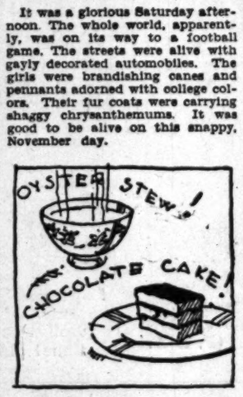
What's Better Than Hot Oyster Stew on Cold Night?

By Florence La Gan...

It was a glorious Saturday after- noon. The whole world, apparent- ly, was on its way to a football game. The streets were alive with gayly decorated automobiles. The girls were brandishing canes and pennants adorned with college col- ors. Their fur coats were carrying shaggy chrysanthemums. It was good to be alive on this snappy, November day.



Nancy's crowd was among the most joyful, for Peter's college had won. They sang and joked as if they were care-free college stu- dents. Even the thought that the crowd was going to end its cele- bration at Nancy's could not dim her joy.

She had planned simple refresh- ments, but plenty of them.

When they came into the fire-lit room bringing the frosty out of doors with them they exclaimed in glee over the steaming tureen of oyster stew. Catsup, cucumber pickles and crackers were passed with this dish.

Then came great big helpings of chocolate cake, rich and "gooey," good to the last crumb. The re- freshments were simple, but filling and easy to prepare and once more Nancy was voted to the head of the class.

If you want to know how to set a table properly write to Nancy Page, care of this paper, inclos- ing stamped, self-addressed envel- ope and ask for her leaflet on table etiquette.

MOTHER AND FOUR DIE IN GAS FUMES

Destitute Parent Breaks Locked Meter and Ends Disheartening Struggle

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Twenty- five dollars a week does not go far when there are five mouths to feed, and the rent is $22 a month, so Mrs. Hildegarde Wywiss, 45 years of age and mother of four small chil- dren, today gave up the fight.

Opened jets of a gas stove brought death to the destitute family, but even death could not be found with- out a struggle, for the mother had to break open the gas meter which had been locked on account of non- payment of bills.

Neighbors discovered the bodies telling the story of the tragedy in a Thirty-first-street tenement. Mrs. Wywiss, dressed in street clothes, knelt to die by the bodies of the children, all clad in clean, white nighties.

Three girls and a boy made up the family group. Mary was 11, Hel- en, 10; Sonia, 8, and Carl 6.

Mrs. Wywiss came to New York from Fort Worth, Tex., five years ago, leaving her husband, from whom she had separated. The mother ac- cepted help for the children from Mother Harriet Murphy, head of a day nursery. The children were cared for at a nursery while the mother worked as a clothes presser. Until sickness interfered she car- ried on until the crowning misfor- tune came the last week of this month. She burned a dress she was ironing and had to pay for it from her meager wage.

The children had to give up school. They had no shoes. And then the gas meter was locked.

Coolidge Told Fund Plans for Flood Sufferers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—A plan to raise funds by popular subscription here among residents and former residents of Vermont to assist the rehabilitation of flood sufferers was laid before President Coolidge to- day by Joseph Fairbanks, president of the Vermont Society of Washing- ton.

Fairbanks called at the White House with Senator Dale of Ver- mont and elicited from the President a promise of such support as he could give.

The number of persons made homeless by the New England flood was fixed at 16,272 today in reports received by the Red Cross.

Two hundred and seventy-nine buildings in the nineteen counties affected by the flood were totally destroyed and 1347 buildings were damaged. A total of 6497 refugees have received assistance from Red Cross workers.

Tennessee Mob Lynches Negro

COLUMBIA (Tenn.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Henry Choate, 18-year-old negro, was taken from the County Jail here to- night and hanged for an asserted at- tempted attack on a 16-year-old white girl.

A mob which had previously elud- ed Sheriff Wiley stormed the jail shortly after 9 o'clock. It had given warning it would attempt to lynch Choate, even though the mother of his asserted victim had urged that he be permitted to stand trial.

"GRASSHOPPER" NEW COLOR

Milliners Also Announce Watermelon, Sky and Cereal Hues for Spring Bonnets

ATLANTA (Ga.) Nov. 11. (AP)—The grasshopper, the watermelon, the sky and a cereal are among the objects from which the colors of new spring bon- nets have been chosen, apparently for no reason at all.

These colors have been announced at the convention here of the Mil- linery Association of America as among a group selected by the Amer- ican Color Card Association for use of makers of women's wear.

Merchandise of the new spring colors is to be released soon after Thanksgiving Day, millinery men say.

SHADES DESCRIBED

Grasshopper green, described as a new green softened with a slight gold tone, blue skies blue, a soft blue with a slight lavender tone; grapenuts, a deep honey of light brown tone, to match "the cereal hearing this name," are some of the colors. Watermelon red, a soft hue the color of the ripe watermelon, coral bells, a soft peach-pink with a coral tint; kasha beige, a new string color favored in silks and dresses; a tiger lily shade softened; Swiss rose, a rose shade favoring the real rose rather than the bluish rose, are announced as some of the outstanding new colors.

CHANGE IN HAT SHAPES

What is foreseen as a growing tendency toward longer tresses among American women is to have its effect on hat shapes.

The new models will tend toward elegance and co-ordination of the silhouette, calling for riche em- broideries, smart touches of straw, novelty braids and other bits of deft coloring. There will be no radical departure from present basic styles, however, nor will comfort be sacri- ficed.

Hats will be of a soft, frameless type, made to fit the head comfort- ably, with smaller or cloche-type chapeau continuing the mode except for southern resort wear, where the large "flop" variety will remain in vogue.

WEATHER AIDS HUSKY ELEVEN

Weeping Skies Big Help to Bagshaw's Team

Washingtonians' Impress in Pregame Drill

BERKELEY, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Despite the fact that the weather man promised fair skies for the week-end, the rain clouds gathered in a black mass this afternoon over the Memorial Stadium gridiron and there was every indication of wet times tomorrow when the University of California and Washington football teams meet in their annual engagement.

With the threat of skidding weather the odds were raised on the Huskies. What swamp land is to the mosquito, so in general thorough dampness is to the Washington eleven. Capt. Louis Tesreau and Chick Carroll, the big guns of the invading backfield, all show a preference for dry turf to give them a better footing. Even under wet conditions, however, their offensive charge, likened to the charge of a herd of buffalo, does not lack much power. In fact, the critics maintain that the northerners are right at home in a saturated atmosphere.

The stadium gridiron was given a thorough working over today by four different teams. Coach Enoch Bagshaw and his squad of thirty pigskin-ning giants arrived early this morning for a two-hour workout featuring some punting, passing and light signal practice. After the Herculean visitors left the field, the army and navy elevens staged their yearly combat in observance of Armistice Day. Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price and his Californians trumbled onto the field at the conclusion of the contest for a final bit of trimming toward the morrow's activities.

Bearing out the advance reports that preceded their arrival here, the big fellows from the Northland look every bit as if they meant to tear the Bears limb from limb. Whatever moroseness might be expected as a result of the Stanford whipping is entirely absent. The Bagshaw troupe are as peppery as a gang of school youngsters out on a picnic, according to the train of sundry officials accompanying the invaders. They are fired up for the California contest as the one means remaining to stay in the 1927 Coast Conference race.

Aside from the small delegation of players, the Seattle entourage also included a band of forty pieces and rooters and officials numbering approximately 200. Between 1500 and 2000 undergraduates, students and other Washington fans are expected in town late this evening or early in the morning, according to those visitors on hand.

TROJANS DOPED TO WIN

Southern California Figures to be Too Strong in Reserve Strength for Colorado University

With Coach Howard Jones at Berkeley watching Washington and California clash, the Trojans tackle Colorado University's grid outfit at the Coliseum this afternoon, the game being billed for 2:30 o'clock.

Everything points to a Southern California victory and if the visitors finish the day two touchdowns behind the Trojans they will have accomplished considerably more than most people expect. Jeff Cravath, who will run the locals in Jones's absence, plans to use all his men, which means that approximately thirty-five Cardinal and Gold athletes will be thrown against the visitors. Whether the first or second team will start Cravath alone knows, but the hunch is that the reserves will open up, to be followed by the regulars in the second quarter—or possibly sooner if Colorado gets too tough.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

DON'T be surprised if California bobs up today with a victory over Washington. We haven't had a good old-fashioned upset in Coast Conference circles this year, and with the season rapidly drawing to a close this afternoon is as good a time as any for the Bears to uncork one. The Oregon Aggies came darned close to making the grade in the U.S.C. game, but they missed by a whisker. Of course, California thought U.S.C.'s victory over the Golden Bears was an upset, but anybody who saw the Trojans play Stanford and was aware of the potential strength of Howard Jones's boys knew differently.

Those who think California hasn't got a chance against the Washington Huskies are loose in the upper story. If U.S.C. hadn't played letter-perfect football the Bears might very easily have walked off with the bacon two weeks ago. A fumble and an intercepted pass, for example, could have changed the entire complexion of things. Anything is likely to happen in football, and although Washington potentially is about three touchdowns stronger than California don't be surprised if the Golden Bears cop the verdict in the Berkeley stadium this afternoon.

Although Nibs Price is still in the saddle at California and very likely to stick indefinitely if the Bears should lick Washington today and perform the almost miraculous feat of trimming Stanford the following wee-end, the next time the coaching question comes up at California I'll put my money on Charley Erb.

He was the brains and the inspiration of the late Andy Smith's real "wonder teams," and he possesses the same traits of dynamic leadership that made Andy so successful as a football coach. At Idaho this year he has molded a team out of indifferent material that has bowed the neck to nobody. The Vandals beat Montana by a bigger score than did California, and tied St. Mary's, 3 to 3, as well as participating in another tie score game with Washington State yesterday. Incidentally, this is the third tie game of the year for Idaho, Erb's boys having played Oregon, 0-0, earlier in the year. If Idaho can win the lone remaining game on its schedule, Oregon Aggies or State as they now call themselves

Sagehens Defeat Bulldogs, 14 to 6; Hawks Picks Up Fumble and Races for Losers' Score

REDLANDS, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Pomona College defeated the University of Redlands 14 to 6 in the final conference game of the season here this afternoon, the Armistice Day fans and cash customers being given plenty of thrills in a football session that lasted all afternoon. Pomona frosh defeated the hitherto undefeated Redlands frosh team, 8 to 0, and both games were provided with plenty of action.

The scintillating Mr. "Poke" Hartman of Pomona, with the hefty left arm, was kept out of the game for the first half but he twinkled brightly for a touchdown in the third period and then his light was rather snuffed out so that he was jerked from the game before the end of the fourth quarter.

"POKE" HARTMAN

Frank Dyer it was who scored the second touchdown for Pomona on a beautiful pass from Hartman, running twenty yards to the touchdown after catching it while on the run, and in the fourth quarter it was Dyer who shot the ball out of his hands when tackled in the middle of the field. Hawks scooped it up on the run and steamed down the sideline.

IDAHO IN TIE WITH COUGARS

Washington State Held to 7-7 Draw in Battle With Vandals

PULLMAN (Wash.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Washington State College and the University of Idaho came through their joint homecoming game on Rogers Field this afternoon with a draw decision. The invading Vandals put over a touchdown in the first period and in the third the Cougars matched it when the Idaho quarterback lost a punt that rolled over his goal line for a Washington State touchdown. Each made the extra point, and the final score was 7 to 7.

Hunt Kicks Field Goal for Occidental Tally

BY BRAVEN DYER

Springing their annual upset, the Battling Quakers of Whittier College thumped Occidental, 7 to 3, before 6000 steam-heated fans at Poetville yesterday afternoon. There was nothing fluky about the victory and Coach Philbrook's boys and their supporters spent last night whooping things up in "Ye Friendly Towne." It was Whittier's first win over Occidental since 1921, when the Quakers had Ed Suggett and other athletes who nabbed the conference championship.

GEORGE W. PHILBROOK

Occidental scored in the first five minutes of play when Mike Hunt kicked a beautiful field goal from the thirteen-yard-line. After that the Tigers never got within sniffing distance of the Whittier goal.

PENDLETON ON BENCH

The Poets got their touchdown almost simultaneously with the opening of the second half. And strangely enough, they turned the trick without Capt. Oakley Pendleton, their offensive ace, who adorned the bench for a well-earned rest at the time.

"Dink" Walker, a 135-pound pewee, scooted through Oxy's line and dashed past the secondary defense before the Tiger halfbacks knew he was present and voting. First he raced around Occidental's left end on a jaunt of thirty-four yards to plant the pigskin on the Tiger twenty-five-yard stripe. The Bengals hardly had recovered from this surprising excursion when the midget backfield star was under way again. This time he shooted right through the center of Occidental's line, and didn't quit running until the ground rose up and smacked him in the face on the one-yard line. It was no trick at all to score a touchdown from that point, Walker going over on his second shot at Oxy's left guard. Sheldon kicked goal and that was the score when the teams ceased firing approximately twenty-seven minutes later.

Whittier made but four first downs to Occidental's nine, but Walker's excursions were longer than anything the Tigers could turn in and eventually brought the lone touchdown of the day. After the first quarter, when Johnny Eberhardt punctured the Whittier line for three first downs in a row, Occidental never offered any sustained offense. The Tigers ran poor interference and their passing attack wasn't directed any place in particular, the result being that Pendleton and Walker intercepted a whole flock of hit-or-miss tosses.

ANYBODY'S GAME

At that it was anybody's game right up to the last minute, and a break in their favor would have saved the Tigers. It looked now and then as if they'd get a break, too, for Pendleton fumbled twice,

THE BLOW THAT BOWLED THE BENGALS OVER

Here's "Dink" Walker, midget Whittier quarterback, crashing over Occidental's line to score the lone touchdown of yesterday's game at Poetville. He went over from the 1-yard line after carrying the ball 58 yards in two devastating dashes.

CALTECH AND BRUINS MEET ON GRID TODAY

With odds all in their favor, the U.C.L.A. Brutus take on Fox Stanford Caltech gridders at Pasadena this afternoon. The game marks the U.C.L.A.'s final appearance as a member of the Southern California Conference and in order to finish the season with a respectable average the Brutus must clean up on their rivals, a feat which they are expected to perform.

Caltech has never tasted defeat at the hands of a Bruin eleven and the Engineers won't go down without a fight today, but weight, experience and reserve power are all against them this afternoon

ORANGEMEN CLEAN UP ON OREGON WARRIORS, 21-7

HAYWARD FIELD (Eugene, Or.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Out of the annual gridiron classic here today in which Oregon State Agricultural College defeated the University of Oregon, 21 to 7, there loomed a football hero—Howard Maple, quarterback of the victorious team.

Maple not only scored two of the touchdowns of the Beavers and converted all three points after goal, but he covered himself with glory by making a 60-yard run through the whole Oregon team. From his own 40-yard line he scampered across the field to the enemy's goal. Then, as

CHAMPS ANNEX MIXED FEATURE

Mrs. Pressler and Bourne Lose Exhibition

Pappin Cops El Caballero Club Tournament

George Von Elm and HowardHughes, ranking loca lamateurs, yesterday broke even with Fred and Alex Morrison, hard-hitting members of the local paid-to-play clan, in the exhibition best-ball foursome event that officially opened Eric Pedley's new public course.

GEORGE VON ELM

Mrs. D a n Jones, women's California State champ, and Capt. A. Bullock-Webster, defeated Mrs. Harry Pressler, women's western titlist, and A. K. Bourne in the mixed foursome exhibition that shared gallery interest with the amateur-professional feature.

Playing the course for the first time—all contestants yesterday declared the layout to be the most promising in the country. The ninth hole, described by Max Behr, course architect, "as one of those holes that sometimes happen," was declared by the former national amateur champ to be the greatest hole he had ever played.

Greens were very rough and fairways will not be perfect for some time to come, but Von Elm, out in 38, 8 over, picked up three birdies coming home for a card of 71 to equal par and establish an official course mark. Von Elm's last birdie dropped on the eighteenth, to win the hole and square the match as the amateurs trailed throughout the day.

Fred Morrison, with an eagle 3 on the fifteenth and a ball out of bounds on the sixteenth, was accredited with a 72, several strokes better than marks charged to either Hughes or Alex Morrison. Bullock-Webster, holing all putts, finished with a 72, also. Mrs. Pressler shaded Mrs. Jones, but Mr. Bourne failed to hold up his end. The failure coming in the face of Bullock-Webster's 72 was more than excusable.

One hundred and twenty-five foursomes checked in at the new course yesterday and praise for the new organization appeared to be unanimous. The course, when finished, will be one of the sportiest in the country and should rank with the best public layouts in the country. "Shorty" and "Jim," in charge of the lunchroom, inaugurated a standard that will draw trade from even the Biltmore and Ambassador. The entire unit gives out more of a hospitable atmosphere than many private institutions.

Pedley will sponsor a series of events daily, starting with a blind beogey feature tomorrow. Alex Morrison, noted American trick-shot wizard and one of the best instructors in the West, will be at the course daily and should turn out some very fine players.

MRS. PRESSLER CHANGES BEL-AIR MARK WITH 80

Mrs. Harry Pressler, playing with Mortie Dutra, at Bel-Air last week, required forty-two strokes going out, then slipped home for a 38. The resultant 80 clipped three strokes from the mark registered by Mrs. Lee Mida of Chicago several months ago.

GOLFERS BUSY AT PALOS VERDES CLUB

Charles Spencer shot an 81 at Palos Verdes yesterday to win low gross in the regular monthly tournament of the local osteopathic association. Ward Blackburn won the flag tournament for club members. Joe Tanner, was second. The Advertising Club tournament, scheduled for Palos Verdes Thursday, has been set back one week.

SALES MANAGERS AT FOX HILLS FRIDAY

FELDMAN DEFEATS NEWMAN, 2 AND 1

MARTIN AND JELLIFFE MEET IN POTRERO PLAY

Dave Martin and W. L. Jelliffe, should about decide invitational honors in their semifinal title flight clash at Potrero today. Martin defeated Babe Julian, 8 and 7, yesterday, while Jelliffe was scoring an equally impressive win at the expense of Al Gruber, 5 and 4.

Milo Marchetti was one under at the thirteenth to defeat Paul La Velle, 6 and 4. W. P. Lampton won the other quarter-final setto from Harry Eichelberger, 3 and 1.

G. A. Simpson of the Long Beach Country Club turned in a 79 to win low-gross in the special eighteen-hole medal consolation round yesterday morning. W. S. Goodrich, 79-12—67, breaking 80 for the second time this season, was awarded low-net trophy. F. S. Sisk of the Fox Hills Club won the play-off for qualifying low net.

A two-ball mixed foursome event tomorrow, will conclude the Potrero invitational. All flight finals will be staged tomorrow morning also, the championship going thirty-six holes.

Second-round results yesterday, were as follows:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT, 1 P.M.

Dave Martin defeated Babe Julian, 8 and 7.
W. L. Jelliffe defeated Al Gruber, 5 and 4.
Milo Marchetti defeated Paul Lavelle, 6 and 4.
W. P. Lampton defeated Harry Eichelberger, 3 and 1.

SECOND FLIGHT, 12:50 P.M.

George Arneau defeated Dr. George W. Brown, 3 and 1.
E. R. Biddle defeated C. E. Kelly, Jr., 3 and 2.
Dr. Lindley defeated H. A. Bingham, 5 and 4.
H. W. Hunter defeated E. L. Rankin, 4 and 2.

THIRD FLIGHT, 12:40 P.M.

F. W. Wells defeated Tom Jennings, 3 and 2.
J. A. Ryan defeated G. W. McBain, 1 up 19th.
R. E. Saunders defeated J. J. Anton, 2 and 1.

FOURTH FLIGHT, 12:30 P.M.

T. F. Moran defeated Cecil Nor, 3 and 2.
A. Nickerson defeated Dean Purdy, 3 and 1.
Tom Harbecon defeated B. J. Morey, 3 and 2.

FIFTH FLIGHT, 12:20 P.M.

T. M. Ray defeated A. W. Hockway, 1 up 20th.
Frank Coleman defeated F. H. Day, 4 and 3.
R. S. Phillips defeated F. H. Hatfield, 4 and 2.
R. W. Jenner defeated G. W. Robech, 2 and 1.

SIXTH FLIGHT, 12:10 P.M.

W. N. Sheffield defeated E. W. Fisher, 2 and 1.
F. M. Hodge defeated R. C. Kirshner, 5 and 4.

Trestin Clark defeated J. D. Hall, 1 up.

PAPPIN LEADS AT EL CABALLERO

Joe Pappin, second Osage Indian to discard the tomahawk for the putter, toured the water-soaked El Caballero layout in seventy-three strokes yesterday, then continued with a birdie 3 on nineteen to win the flag tournament. Seventy-three at El Caballero is near-perfect golf under any conditions, but Tarrant rose to state yesterday that the golfer's exhibition stamped him as one of the very best amateurs in this vicinity. It is very possible that Pappin will be matched with "Chief" Soldani of Lakeside in a special match next week. The clash for Osage honors should be exciting—and worth gallerying. O. S. Sebastian was second and R. A. Bister, third, at El Caballero.

POMONA WINS AT REDLANDS

Two Pomona tacklers edged up on him from behind, threw themselves in tackle, but slipped off and he ran fifty-five yards for a touchdown.

Pomona had the edge most of the game and this was especially true when Manildi, Merrit and Hartman were all in the backfield at the same time but the Bulldogs refused to be downed. Three times Pomona stomped down the field to the five-yard line and the Bulldogs held them there for downs. Colvin would kick from behind his goal line, Pomona would run the ball back to about the thirty-yard line and start a drive that ended in losing the ball near the goal line each time.

Logan turned in a beautiful forty-yard run for Redlands and came near getting away, but was dragged down after being run out of bounds, and Niedermyer did some good open-field running. Neither team was doing any exceptional punting although Colvin had an edge on this.

Pomona scored before the first quarter was half over. Redlands tried a pass in the center of the field, but Natland got it and ran it to the thirty-five-yard line. Then there was a beautiful screened pass which Manildi picked out of the air and he went over. Merritt kicked the goal and the score was 7 to 0.

In the third quarter Hartman began his left-handed passing and his thrusts through the line. He made gains on plenty of them but it was a pass early in the quarter to Dyer that made the second touchdown. Hartman kicked the goal. Pomona had the ball near the goal line twice before getting it over.

It was more see-saw up and down the field then until in the fourth quarter Dyer fumbled the ball and Hawks ran 55 yards for the Redlands marker. Colvin missed the goal-making the score 14 to 6.

TROJANS TAKE ON COLORADO

weeks or more with an injured knee and it behooves Moses to show something today if the Trojans are to be strong in backfield power against Washington State and Notre Dame. Moses will probably play a lot of football today, being slated to operate at halfback and fullback during the course of the afternoon.

Coach Myron Witham of Colorado specializes in a pass attack and the Trojans are likely to face a heavy aerial barrage. This is just to Southern California's liking, providing things don't get too intricate, for with Washington State and Notre Dame both leaning heavily to an aerial attack the Trojans need all the experience they can get in busting up their style of play.

Colorado has the high scorer of the Rocky Mountain Conference in Fullback Buck Smith, who is rated a hitter of much power and beauty. Capt. George Wittemeyer, who does considerable passing, is another visiting ace.

TEXAS WALLOPS KANSAS, 41-7

AUSTIN (Tex.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Playing overwhelming football, Texas University whipped the Kansas Aggies defense fore and aft to win the Armistice football game, 41 to 7, scoring largely on intercepted Aggie passes and fumbles. The Aggie aerial attack was weak until the last quarter when it was too late. It was the season's fourth intersectional victory for Southwest Conference teams and avenged the 13-3 defeat by the Aggies last year.

POLICE GRIDS DEFEAT PREPS

Coppers Nose Out All-Stars by 7-to-6 Score

Upset Dope by Winning Clash from Youngsters

Rowland Plays Fast Game for Bluecoat Squad

BY FRANK ROCHE

By pinching a 7-to-6 victory from the All-Star Prep gridders yesterday at Wrigley Field, the Police Department football team becomes the favorite this year for their annual tilt with the Fire Laddies. Vic Kelly's "Flying Flatfeet" pulled a fast one in defeating the Prep Stars yesterday. The Preps entered the game fresh from a victory over the Firemen last Sunday and they had the Cops all figured for an easy win. The Police changed their mind about the whole ease in the very first quarter, however, by pushing over a touchdown.

The Coppers behind the terrific line plunging of "Tiny" Rowland, a hefty fullback, gave the Preps a lot of rough treatment in the opening period. They pushed the Prep team down the field and Rowland punched over a touchdown with a mighty lunge through center. "Dirty" Dillon ran around end for the extra point. This point was the winning tally of the game.

The Prep youngsters went after the Coppers hot and heavy in the second and third quarters. They outplayed the Policemen three to one, but they were unable to get more than one touchdown. Frank Oreb crashed through the Police lines for the Prep touchdown in the third quarter. Post missed the try for the extra point.

The last session was a hectic affair with the Preps passing madly in an attempt to take the lead from the Cops. Johnny Martin, former Manual Arts star and Ed Griffiths ripped through the Cops for large gains but Rowland and "Red" Tracey saved the day for the Police by stopping the Flaming Youths before they could break through to the goal line. The Coppers arrested a number of long passes tossed by the Prep team during the last quarter any one of which might have meant a victory for the All-Stars.

OREGON AGGIE ELEVEN WINS

if in an attempt to outshine Maple, George Burnell, Oregon's right half, made a 30-yard run for a touchdown with only two minutes to play.

The Oregon Staters, besides chalking up two touchdowns in the first period and one in the fourth, crossed the line twice in the third period for touchdowns which were canceled because of off-side penalities.

One of the largest crowds in the history of Oregon-Oregon State contcats saw the gridiron battle, and was given an added measure of excitement when a free-for-all fight developed after the game. The melee started when Oregon State players started to tear down the Oregon goal posts. The fight was soon stopped.

BISONS TO MIX WITH PANTHERS

California Christian Grids Face Southwestern Eleven at Moore Field Today

Football fans who are looking for a fast game on Saturday among the smaller institutions of higher learning might do well to see the California Christian College Panthers tangle with the Southwestern University Bisons on Moore Field, the game being scheduled at 2 p.m.

Both Coach Welch of the Christians and Coach Parker of the Lawyers, have been working their squads hard this week in preparation for this game, which will be the last on the schedule for the Christians. Both teams are about evenly matched. The line-ups:

COVINA COLTS CLINCH TITLE

Chief Newman's Eleven Wins San Gabriel Laurels

Shaver's Brilliant Play is Feature of Struggle

Citrus Union Gridders Lose Crucial Game, 33 to 0

"Chief" Newman's Covina Colts, who have won the Southern California prep championship for the past two years, earned the right to enter the playoff again by clinching the San Gabriel Valley League title yesterday, when they swamped the Citrus Union eleven, 33 to 0, on the Covina gridiron.

A crowd of 7000 fans surrounded the Covina field and saw Ganis Shaver shine brilliantly in the Colts' backfield. Shaver, who holds down the fullback berth, scored three Covina touchdowns, one of them on a 70-yard runback of a kick-off, and also added three extra points with his educated hoof.

Newman had the Colts in their best form of the season and they never gave the Citrus eleven a chance to break into the scoring column. The Colts piled up sixteen first downs, while Citrus made but six.

During the first half Citrus managed to keep within hailing distance, the score being 7 to 0 at half-time. Shaver put the skids under Citrus at the start of the third quarter, when he raced back the kick-off for a touchdown. Three more touchdowns were made by Covina before the game ended, Shaver, Goodrich and Fischer doing the honors.

For Citrus Meier, a one-armed halfback who passed and received passes, did some neat work. Detweiler's injuries early in the game hampered what chances Citrus might have had. Line-ups:

Covina (33)		Citrus (0)
Arnel	L.E.R.	Bases

CALTECH TAKES ON BRUIN TEAM

and even the fight which Stanton will undoubtedly instill in them is hardly enough to carry them to victory.

Bill Spaulding will have his full strength available today, Bert Laducherie having recovered from injuries received in the Pomona game and Jim Hudson also being ready for service.

Stanton is shy heavy backs and can't rely on a passing attack for sustained drive. If the Engineer line outdoes itself in a blaze of glory there may be some hope for the light Caltech ball carriers but otherwise Stanton's offense doesn't figure to seriously embarrass the locals.

Last year Caltech thumped the Bruins, 7 to 3, in a terrific upset, the defeat knocking the locals out of the title. The season before that their game was a 10-to-10 tie.

Missouri Cops Victory Over Iowa State

AMES (Iowa) Nov. 11. (AP)—Missouri retained its undisputed lead in the Missouri Valley conference today by defeating Iowa State College in a 13-to-6 battle.

Iowa State could not solve the Missouri offense made up of a mingling of forward passes and line plunges and the Bengals rang up two touchdowns during the two opening periods. Ames came back in the final period, however, with a like attack to score its lone touchdown, the final pistol halting another drive which threatened to tie the score.

LOYOLA FACES REGIS ELEVEN

halfback, has a bad hip. Eckenroth, a battling end, will be hors de combat due to a wrenched ankle.

With Tunney, Currin, Hoeffer and Von Der Ahe in the backfield the visitors will be up against one of the smoothest running set of backs in Southern California. Tunney, at quarter, is probably one of the best signal callers hereabouts and in the Gonzaga game he left little doubts in the fans' minds, especially, on his 90-yard run for a touchdown on the kick-off. Currin, Hoeffer and Von Der Ahe, like Tunney, are all triple-threat men. Currin specializing on off-tackle slants, Hoeffer with his consistent punting and passing, Von Der Ahe with his lengthy dashes around end.

The visitors boast of one of the best squads in their neck of the woods, last year defeating Bethany, winner of the Kansas Conference; Nebraska Wesleyan, champs of North Central Conference, and the University of Iowa. This season they dropped a disheartening game to the Haskell Indians by the close score of 7 to 6. The Rangers outplayed the Redmen throughout the contest but it just wasn't in the books for them to win.

In the Rangers backfield will be two triple-threat players, Carey and Reardon, who were picked for the All-Rocky Mountain Conference team in 1926. On the line will be Capt. Rabtoay, a stellar guard, Murphy, a 200-pound wingman and Austin, also a bare 200, at tackle. Crosby at center, is rated a crackerjack pivot man.

Today's game will ring down the curtain for six of the Lions team. The men are Capt. "Shovel" Sherwood, Jim Tunney, Beno Currin, John Haddock, John Brown and "Pedo" Bernard.

The boys and girls who are figuring that the California Bears haven't a chance against the Giants from Washington are letting their enthusiasm get away with their better judgment in our estimation. There was nothing about the showing of the Bears against the Trojans to indicate that they were anything but a mighty good football team and while it is perfectly possible for anybody to be wrong our guess is that they will give Tesreau & Co. quite a tussle with a California victory not at all impossible. Folks should recollect that the Trojans played pretty nearly a perfect game of football against the Bears. That doesn't always happen.

The Trojan schedule may have been a tough one, and it certainly will be a strain on the boys to play Washington State, journey to Chicago to play Notre Dame and come back to play Washington, but in any event they have had a nice midseason breathing spell. We'll see today if this has helped them.

"DINK" WALKER RUINS BENGALS

Once there were four Oxy players rushing to pounce on the pigskin, only to see it roll up under Pendleton's arm as he lay on the ground. It looked as if Oak had a rubber band attached to the darn thing.

Pendleton's kicking was uncanny in it's accuracy. Some of his boots were good for 50 yards and those which were shorter generally got that way because he was booting 'em out of bounds deep in Occidental's territory.

Sheldon stopped play after play aimed at his side of the line and shared honors with Beebe of Occidental as the best forward of the day. Beebe broke up all kinds of plays and was a source of constant annoyance to the Whittier backs. Both lines played great defensive football and outside of Oxy's march in the first quarter, when the Tigers took the ball from their own 35-yard line to Whittier's 6-yard stripe, there was little offensive driving other than Walker's two sensational gallops. Oxy had fourth down and four to go after that long march and had the choice of a pass or place-kick, deciding in favor of the latter.

COUGARS HELD TO TIE VERDICT

...000 spectators, the largest crowd that ever saw a football game in the Inland Empire, was played on a slippery field and was characterized by kicking throughout its course. The giant Vandal line and heavy backfield was matched by the lighter Cougars' alertness and ability to follow the ball, and particularly by the brilliant work of little "Butch" Meeker, the Cougar quarterback, in returning the Idaho punts.

Burgher of Idaho and McDonald and Horan of Washington State found plentiful opportunities for thrilling kicks.

Idaho had the better of the argument on first downs, having made ten of them to the Cougars' two. Washington State punted twenty-three times for an average of forty-one yards, while Idaho averaged forty yards for each of its nineteen punts. The line-up and summary:

OLYMPIC SWITCHES BOUT BILL

Colima to Box Long in Place of Vicentini, Tut Go Tuesday Night

Both good and bad luck visited the Olympic yesterday.

One match was canceled and another substituted while another bout that is a slam-bang natural was made.

Luis Vincentini has gone under a doctor's care from a bad case of broken ribs sustained in a sparring bout which automatically canceled his bout with King Tut scheduled for Tuesday night.

With no available boxer ready as a substitute the bout was taken off the boards entirely.

Bert Colima and Charley Long, the negro middleweight who scored a kayo over the Mexican last Wednesday night in San Francisco, will substitute. Colima returns to the gymnasium today and Long is on his way here from the north.

Colima claims that Long fouled him three or four times and that they were low blows—not kidney punches—which finally stopped him. A riot followed the decision and San Francisco promoters offered Colima a guarantee of $4000 for a rematch.

Dutch Meyers refused that offer but was glad to get the match here on percentage to prove that Colima can take Long at any angle of the game.

In a way this is fortunate for the Olympic since Colima is signed to box Sammy Baker the 29th inst., and he has a chance to get back the lost prestige—foul or no foul.

COMPTON GRIDS DOWN VENICE TEAM, 7 TO 0

Playing an excellent open-game long enough to score a single touchdown in the first quarter, Compton High School defeated Venice yesterday on the Compton field, 7-0. A series of passes from Yancey to Hershkind carried the ball from the 50-yard line to the Venice 3-yard line, from which Burton went over the count on the first attempt. "Bus" Barnes converted.

The game was marred by frequent Venetian fumbles, a goodly portion of which were recovered by Compton. Hedgcock played a good defensive game for Compton, while Andy Hershkind's end runs were good for 10 yards for Compton, almost every time. Elwood played a good game for Venice. The line-ups:

JURY TRIAL ORDERED IN DEMPSEY-KEARNS SUIT

TRENTON (N. J.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Jack Kearns's suit against Jack Dempsey for one-third of $1,000,000 probably will come to trial before a jury in Federal Court in Newark next week, according to a decision handed down by Judges Bodine and Rellstab in Federal District Court here today. Judges Bodine and Rellstab after argument by counsel for the plaintiff and defendant, dismissed a suit in equity brought against the former heavyweight boxing champion by his old-time manager. The court's decision decreed that the case should be transferred to the law calendar of the court, and that the action should be tried before a jury.

Kearns in his suit alleged that Dempsey broke a contract with him. The contract is said to have specified that Dempsey was to have carried out agreements made by Kearns on his behalf. Kearns charged that he arranged for Dempsey to fight Harry Wills and Gene Tunney, the agreement being made with "Tex" Rickard. Kearns further alleged that Dempsey made a separate contract with Tunney under which the heavyweight championship bout was held in Philadelphia in 1926. It was this independent agreement, Kearns alleged, which broke his contract with Dempsey.

Counsel for Dempsey charged that the principal reason Kearns instituted his suit against Dempsey in equity (trial by a judge alone) was to deprive Dempsey of the right to a trial by jury.

Mississippi Squad Will Play West Virginia

The battleship Texas football team, which has failed to emerge victorious in a single fleet tilt this season, will make a strong attempt to sink the battleship New Mexico warriors on Trona Field, San Pedro, this afternoon in a Group B elimination game. This will be the final appearance of the Texas team on the west coast this year as the ship is scheduled to depart for New York next week. The Steers are anxious to have at least one victory marked up on the winning side of the ledger before they depart and for that reason have been tearing up the turf of the navy field for the past week in preparation for the fray.

The Wonder Ship team, which last Sunday defeated Lieut. Durham's crack Base Force eleven, will go on the field this afternoon a favorite to win by at least three touchdowns. Last Saturday the Texas was scuttled by a score of 50 to 0 by the flagship California eleven.

Following are the line-ups:

New Mexico.		Texas.
Pratt	L.E.	Saunders
Schroeder	L.T.	Bandon
Robinson	L.G.	Kiss
Semple	C.	Tyrrell
Eddy	R.G.	Tart
Nielsen	R.T.	Pelavin
Davis	R.E.	Stegall
Pipp	Q.	Gurtler
Peterson	L.H.	Wiltrout
Montgomery	R.H.	Rupert
Champeau	F.	Dunn

In the second game to be played on the navy field this afternoon the U.S.S. Mississippi aggregation will meet the grid stars from the battleship West Virginia. This gives promise of being a fast, hard-fought affair inasmuch as the two ships are very bitter rivals in all sorts of competition. The Mountaineers will be favored slightly as a result of their victory over the Colorado eleven a few weeks ago.

ARMISTICE IN TITLE BOUT ROW

Dundee-Hudkins Fiasco Principals Spend Quiet Day of Rest

An Armistice Day truce, it seemed, hung yesterday over the various camps involved in the war that followed what was scheduled to have been a pugilistic encounter between Joe Dundee and Ace Hudkins a week ago Thursday night at Wrigley Field, but which turned into a spectators' riot.

The only one found looking for a fight yesterday was Max Waxman, Dundee's manager, and he was motivated by purely impersonal reasons—he merely sought action for Dundee, hoping to find a promoter for another match at which considerable more real money would be apparent than put in an appearance at the Hudkins-Dundee fiasco.

Waxman said he had spent $6000 preparing Dundee for Hudkins and had not realized a dime up to date. He was still hopeful yesterday that the battle might be staged at Tia Juana, but negotiations were not completed yesterday.

Charges and counter-charges that have marked the squabble between fighters, managers, promoters and authorities since the boxing fiasco were also lacking yesterday.

City Prosecutor Lickley, who has been very critical of the State Athletic Commissioners in the matter, took the day off yesterday and had no official statements to offer.

Anaheim Loses to Fullerton

Coach Shorty Smith's Fullerton Indians defeated Anaheim, 17 to 13, in a thriller played yesterday at Fullerton, but they were given plenty of scares in the last half. Fullerton scored all its points in the first half but Anaheim came to life and had all the better of things in the last two periods when it shoved across two touchdowns.

Hershberger's field goal from the 30-yard line put Fullerton off in front. After receiving the ensuing kick-off Adams ran 60 yards for an Indian touchdown on the next play. Adams passed to C. Hezmalhalch for Fullerton's other score. Hershberger converted both touchdowns.

Lusk intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards for an Anaheim touchdown in the third quarter. Van Meter scored in the fourth period to end up an Anaheim march down the field. Hylton converted. Line-ups:

Fullerton (17)		Anaheim (13)
Motley	L.E.R.	Lesain
Del Giorgio	L.T.R.	Hylton
R. Hezmalhalch	L.G.R.	Hay

CENTENARY COLLEGE COPS GRIDIRON TILT

SHREVEPORT (La.) Nov. 11. (AP)—The Centenary College gentlemen staged a comeback in the last quarter to defeat the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, 7 to 3, here today. Mathews kicked a field goal for the Texans in the first quarter.

NEW MEXICO GRIDS WIN CLASH, 24 TO 7

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) Nov. 11. (AP)—The undefeated University of New Mexico Lobos went into the last quarter of their game with the Northern Arizona Teachers' College trailing on the short end of a 7-6 score, but an effective forward-passing attack brought them out of the hole to win, 24-7.

Riverside Grids Down Chaffey

ONTARIO, Nov. 11.—In a game to determine the cellar championship of the Citrus Belt League, Chaffey Union High School won the doubtful honor by losing a football game to Riverside, 20 to 0.

Riverside scored early in the first quarter and twice late in the last quarter, the final touchdown being made as the gun sounded. In between the two teams played an even game.

Zickersark, shifty Riverside half, skirted Chaffey's left end for the first marker and goal was missed. McQuarrie plowed into Chaffey's line for the second from the 2-yard line and Pickert dodged his way around Chaffey's right end for the third tally. McQuarrie kicked the two final goals.

San Bernardino Jaysees Annex

SANTA ANA, Nov. 11.—The fighting Indian eleven of San Bernardino Junior College maintained a place among the leaders in the Southern California Junior College Conference by defeating the Santa Ana Jaysees, 12 to 0, in a game played here this afternoon as the Armistice Day sportfest.

Both of the touchdowns were made in the second half by Bus Fox, San Bernardino fullback, who was foxy enough to trip across the goal line twice despite the fact that the Santa Ana gridmen had the best of the stage during the first periods.

Hinckley Wins Banning Whirl

BANNING, Nov. 11.—Five thousand speed fans saw Speed Hinckley break three records here today in the Banning American Legion's annual Armistice Day program. Hinckley and Bill Spence also supplied the spectators with a thrill in the twelfth lap of the championship sweepstakes when they collided on the south turn and Spence found himself in the center of the track. Immediately after this race the two drivers, after quite an argument, came to a decision when Hinckley agreed to split his first-place money with Spence. The two drivers were going even for the entire time up to the crash and had the fans on their feet. Hinckley turned the mile in 55s. flat to win the two-lap trophy dash. Mel Kneasley was the former record holder with 56s. In the final race, Hinckley made the thirty laps in 14m. 4 2-5s. The old mark was made by Lou Moore here, his time being 14m. 20s. Here are the results:

Event No. 1, ten laps—Won by Speed Hinckley; second, Arnsen Faloni; third, Cliff Wilson. Time, 14m. 36s.

Event No. 2, ten laps—Won by Barney Klinger; second, Jacob Hinrichs; third, Graeay DeWitt. Time, 6m. 45 2-5s.

Event No. 3, ten laps—Won by Bill Bundy; second, Ross Carter; third, Mike Admire. Time, 14m. 49s.

Event No. 4, ten laps—Won by Bill Spence; second, Phil Pardee; third, Malcolm Ord. Time, 14m. 43s.

Event No. 5, two-lap trophy dash—Won by Speed Hinckley; second, Bill Spence; third, Barney Klenpfer. Time, 55s.

Event No. 6, twenty laps—Won by Cliff Wilson; second, Ernest Trippiet; third, Harry Jacquet. Time, 1m. 3s.

Main event, thirty-lap championship sweepstakes—Won by Bill Spence and Speed Hinckley, tied; second, Bill Bundy; third, Barney Klenpfer; fourth, Phil Pardee. Time, 14m. 4 2-5s.

"Times" Daily Short Story

Ten Minutes to Settle a Bet

By HOWARD VINCENT O'BRIEN

A PLATOON of blue-clad troops went by, uniforms spotless, accouterments gleaming—red-cheeked youngsters, not a rifle out of line, iron-shod feet clicking on the cobbles with the precision of a metronome, brisk, vigorous, proud. Instinctively my hand rose to the salute.

And then, from behind us, like an echo, came a listless shuffle. A man came forward out of the gathering dusk. From his bent shoulders he seemed, at first very old. But he was not over thirty.

His suit, rusty and torn, hung shapless about his thin body. A filthy scarf was knotted around his neck. The flesh peeped through the broken ends of his shoes. On his face was the beard and dirt of days, and he held out a tattered and suppliant cap.

"A sou, m'sieu, for the hungry," he whined. One sleeve was empty, and he made it flutter with a gesture of long practice. "Perhaps one who is fortunate might remember one who is not."

I was wise in the arts of panhandling. I was from New York. Was it not there that a begging cripple, haled to court, arrived in his own motor car? But the Lady knows little of this world, and her heart ever rules her head. Before I could find coppers, she had slipped a note in the outstretched fingers.

She was shocked at my remonstrance. "Such a little—for one who is hungry?"

"Hungry?" My laugh had the amusement of the worldly wise. I'll wager that he beats it to the nearest wine shop!"

"Done!" she cried stoutly, strong in her innocent faith. "He was hungry—starving. You could see it. A hundred cigarettes that I'm right!"

I chuckled contentedly. "They're mine. He goes to a wine cellar in the next ten minutes—or you have a new pair of gloves."

It was not difficult to follow him. He walked slowly, with the feeble, shuffling step of a man who is very weary. But his route was not, as I had expected, toward the Old Town. It took him toward the Casino.

"You see!" cried the Lady, sensing triumph.

I shrugged my shoulders at her naivete. "It is merely a region of richer pickings." But I admitted surprise that where fur coats and Americans abounded he did not tarry to ply his trade. He was perhaps afraid of the police.

But if he feared authority, why did he go up the broad marble stairs of the Casino, not at all like a beggar seeking pickings, but as if he had a destination and a purpose. One might even have said that he hurried, as if he, who had limitless time, were fearful of tardiness.

He halted at the ticket desk, where the man behind the mahogany eyed him with disfavor. A footman in knickerbockers and silk stockings, making no secret of his dubiousness, came forward. The ladies in nutria and mink shrank back as they passed, and spoke disapprovingly to their escorts. What were things coming to when beggars were allowed in the Casino?

But they were not allowed. The fellow's voice had a brief moment of vehemence, and once he brought his fist, clutching the Lady's note, down on the counter.

Then he seemed to be pleading. Useless. All his intensity suddenly left him. He seemed physically to shrink, and his head settled in his filthy neckcloth. Slowly he retreated down the broad steps.

We had withdrawn into the shadow of the plane trees. But he saw us and, like a setter at the point, his head went up at sight of the Lady's furs. Cringing, he came toward us, his empty sleeve fluttering, grimy hat in outstretched hand, his voice quavering. "A sou, m'sieu, for one who is hungry."

In my triumph I turned to the Lady. "You see—"

She paid no heed to me. She addressed herself to the beggar. "Why did you go to the Casino?" she queried, gently severe.

I laughed. "To dine at The Ambassadeurs, of course. He was hungry."

He nodded. "I was—very. But the gentry, the scum"—with a nod he indicated the Casino—"would not serve me."

"Wouldn't let you in, eh? But you had the money."

"It was not enough, m'sieu. One must be properly dressed. I had thought that these would be sufficient"—he put his thumb to two bits of soiled ribbon in his buttonhole, one yellow, one red—"I was wrong."

"But why, of all places, the Casino?" cried the Lady. "Certainly you did not have enough money to eat there?"

"It was not food I sought." The fellow's voice was flat and tired. "This afternoon, you see, they are playing Brahms. That does not happen often nowadays. It is so difficult to play him well."

The Lady was incredulous. "You mean, you—you . . ."

From his pocket the man took a soiled and greasy piece of paper, soft with many foldings, the writing on it almost obliterated. "See—but you can not read the name. It is gone—like this." He fluttered the empty sleeve. "In certain circles it was a name well spoken of—once. Its possessor was a violinist—of the first order, some said. But other matters intervened. You can perhaps read them? The writing is not so obscured." He held the paper toward me.

I could read only parts of it:

"Sergeant—376th Chasseurs . . . citation a l'ordre de l'armee . . . Medaille Militaire . . ."

Carefully he folded the paper and replaced it in his pocket. "In some circles that also was held to be of some value—once. But that was long ago. Enough of that—should M'sieu and Madame care for Brahms, there is still time over there? Le Bargy, they say, conducts very well."

"And you," I blurted. "Where are you going?"

He drew his coat around his thin shoulders and shivered—when the sun drops on the Cote d'Azur the cold strikes to the bone. "To a wine shop, I think, monsieur."

PACIFIC MUTUAL RUMORS AFLOAT

Stock Split-up, Capital Boost and Rights Held Pending

Report of Proposed Program Gains Credence

Recent Activity in Shares of Company Held Significant

Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company is receiving considerable attention from speculators for the advance in the stock market, on rumors of a stock split-up, increased capitalization with new rights for shareholders, or a special distribution of some nature.

From a source close to the company, it was learned yesterday that directors of the Pacific Mutual are considering a split-up of the company's capital stock from a par value of $100 to $25 per value, and that action in this direction will be taken in time to submit the proposal to stockholders at the annual meeting in February.

At the last annual meeting stockholders of the company approved an increase in the Pacific Mutual capitalization from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000, and the 10,000 additional shares were sold to shareholders at $200 a share on the basis of one share of new stock for every three shares then held.

Consequently, to provide for any further rights or stock dividends, it will be necessary for the company to further increase its authorized capitalization. An increase from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 and a split-up of the present shares four for one, with a 25 per cent stock dividend, is predicted in some circles.

Others believe the stock will be split up four for one and rights to subscribe for additional shares will be issued to stockholders to effect an outstanding capitalization of $5,000,000. It is suggested that one new share will be offered stockholders for every four shares now held, or in the same ratio if the present stock is split up.

An extra cash dividend as a special Christmas distribution is predicted in some quarters, and it is also asserted that the regular annual dividend rate of $20 a share will be increased.

Just what action the board of directors will take will not be known with the next meeting. However, the movement of the company's shares on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange in recent weeks, though in light volume, indicates that something out of the ordinary is in the offing by which stockholders will benefit materially.

The stock has advanced from a low for the year at 780 to a high last week at 825, a gain of 35 points. The rights which were offered stockholders early this year had the effect of boosting the company's stock 120 points from 975 to a high at 1195. The shares then sold ex-rights at 800.

REDUCTION OF PAR AIDS BANK SALES

Stock Split-ups Increase Activity on Exchange and Give Wider Distribution

Reduction in the par value of bank shares is stimulating trading and effecting wider share distribution of bank stocks and otherwise increasing the activity in legitimate investment securities on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, according to a statement of Norman B. Courteney, secretary and manager of the exchange.

Due largely to the spirited trading in bank stocks in the last two months, sales on the exchange here have been at record high levels. A new peak of $27,560,963.51 was established in September and this record was topped in October when sales aggregated $31,164,921.81, including $2,000,500 in bond transactions.

In the two months, September and October, trading in Bank of Italy and Los Angeles-First National, the only $25 par value bank stocks listed, furnished 40 per cent of the total market value of all stock transactions and constituted the bulk of sales in the bank group. Bank of Italy supplied a turnover of 48,394 shares and Los Angeles-First National was traded in to the extent of 101,987 shares.

In the current month, directors of the California Bank and National City Bank have declared their intention of reducing the par value of their shares to $25, and consequently trading in the two issues has been stimulated. Merchants' National is also associated with rumors of a pending stock split-up. With the advent of trading in the additional $25 par value stocks, activity in the bank list is expected to further increase.

In 1926, approximately 68 per cent of the total market value of sales on the Los Angeles board was registered in the oil group alone and bank sales were only nominal. In the first ten months of this year, transactions in the bank list exceeded those of any other group and constituted approximately 38 per cent of the total market value of all stocks sold. Sales in the oil list represented only 33 per cent of the total.

PROFITS INCREASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Net profits of First National Pictures, Inc., for the first nine months of the year increased to $344,223 from $707,349 in the same period last year.

EXCHANGE CLOSED

Business on the Los Angeles and San Francisco stock exchanges, on the Chicago Board of Trade and several smaller markets was suspended yesterday in observance of Armistice Day. With the exception of the [illegible] Stock Exchange, which will remain closed, markets will resume operations today.

City Delivers Utility Bonds and Gets Cash

City water and power departments are $7,030,885 richer today than they were on Thursday as the result of the receipt of this amount of money from the syndicate headed by R. H. Moulton & Co., which recently purchased a block of water and power bonds. Mayor Cryer, City Clerk Domínguez and City Treasurer Powell have been signing the bonds for several weeks and when this was completed the syndicate representatives at the City Hall gave the City Treasurer cashiers' checks on local banks and received the bonds.

An armored car then carried the bonds from the City Hall to the banks, and the City Treasurer set the money to work earning interest until the water and power departments need the cash.

The syndicate, paid to the City Treasury $6,986,000 par value of the bonds, accrued interest of $43,022 and a premium of $7863, totaling $7,036,885. The bonds will be sold to investors throughout the United States. Of the total par value bonds of par value of $6,986,000, city will pay interest of 4 3-4 per cent on bonds amounting to $1,500,000, interest of 4 per cent on $3,500,000 of the bonds, and $1,986,000 will bear interest at 4 1-2 per cent. The interest and sinking fund charges will be paid from the revenues of the water and power departments.

PROFITS OF NEVADA CONSOLIDATED DROP

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Profit of Nevada Consolidated Copper and subsidiaries, including Ray Consolidated Copper, for the first nine months of 1927 declined to $4,797,010 from $5,801,422 in the same period of 1926. The company's mines in Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico produced 52,396,607 pounds of copper in the third quarter, against 55,641,290 pounds in the second quarter, and 57,940,796 in the first quarter.

FRUIT REVENUES STABILIZE

BY EARLE L. CROWE

Diversification in natural resources never stood more boldly than at this time as the backbone of prosperity in California. The oil industry is wallowing in depression, not a critical one by any means, but serious enough to curtail the income of a host of people dependent wholly or partly on this major industry. Yet there are a dozen other lines of major activity in this State that are regularly contributing their quota to California's store of wealth.

If this State relied chiefly on the oil business as its source of income, more would be heard, as in other petroleum States, of depression. But the other activities more than offset the loss from oil, and there are little or no complaints of the state of business. Such announcements as the one from the citrus industry the other day easily overshadow the occasional weak spots in the business structure.

CITRUS INCOME HIGH

About $120,000,000 was returned to growers in the State in the season just closed, according to the announcement from the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. This revenue came from the sale of 70,600 carloads. Compared with the previous season, the 1926-27 shipments returned an increase of approximately $22,000,000. The gain alone will readily take up the slack in several backward industries.

Moreover, the citrus industry is a consistent producer of satisfactory income, the exchange figures show. Over the last twenty years the total gross sales on a delivered basis have amounted to more than $1,000,000,000, or $750,346,342 on an f.o.b. basis. The annual average of f.o.b. returns is in excess of $30,000,000, a respectable figure for any industry.

Following the contribution from the citrus growers, the grape industry is now doing its bit. The vast grape-growing empire in the San Joaquin Valley is now shipping its train loads of fresh grapes to the eastern markets, from which the State will receive additional income running into several million dollars. The portion of the crop that is converted into raisins still further swells the annual amount of new wealth coming from the grape industry.

FIRST IN GRAPES

California, on the basis of the government estimate as of the 1st inst., will produce 2,372,000 tons of fresh grapes this season, which is an increase of 78,000 tons over the last estimate. In the whole of the United States a total of 2,676,000 tons is estimated, leaving only about 300,000 tons to come from other States.

The citrus and grape industries are not the only perishable lines in which California ranks at the top. Not long after the grape season ends, the cantaloupe traffic will begin to move from the Imperial Valley, from where most of the breakfast tables in the country are supplied with the morning melon. More millions of dollars for California prosperity.

Fruit growers represent only one fraction of the wealth producing agents in the State. The story of their activities nevertheless is sufficient to counteract the gloom from the oil or any other business temporarily embarrassed.

Split-up of Du Pont Shares on Monday Looms

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Directors of E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. at their meeting next Monday, are expected to pass along to its stockholders the extra dividend of $5.40 received from General Motors, which, with the quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the common, amounted to $14,791,680. The Du Pont company owns 13,902,448 shares of General Motors common. A split-up of Du Pont common stock is expected.

Two plans are being considered, it is said, one calling for a substantial stock dividend under 100 per cent, using the greater part of the unissued 23,236,242 shares, or a special meeting of stockholders to authorize enough stock for a two-for-one split-up.

Way Paved for American Trust Stock Split-up

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Creation of a holding company, permitting the splitting of American Trust Company stock on a four-for-one basis, was perfected at a meeting of the directors yesterday.

The market reflected the move by touching 380 after closing at 374 last night. When the action became known, stock leaped to 404 and closed at 400.

In effect, the holding organization will control the American Trust and its allied institution, the American National Company. One present share will be exchangeable for four new ones and the new company will be known simply as the American Company. Capitalization will remain the same, at $10,000,000, composed of 400,000 shares of $25 par.

Sloan Reviews Trade Abroad

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—General Motors Corporation is doing a substantial foreign business and is selling more cars in Germany than in any other country, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president, said on his return from abroad today. This condition was promising, he asserted, and he could see no recessions in price. The marked tendency among Europeans to buy American-made cars indicated their appreciation, he believed, of American superiority in motor-car construction.

Mr. Sloan expressed the opinion that buyers of automobiles who have been delaying their purchases to await the appearance of the new Ford car, shortly would come into the market. He forecast a big year for the motor industry in 1928.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Operating income of the Western Union Telegraph Company for nine months of 1927 was slightly less than a year ago, $11,384,133, against $11,482,730, gross revenues were $99,450,890, against $100,462,886 in the first nine months of 1926.

SIMMS REPORTS FOR NINE MONTHS

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Simms Petroleum Company and subsidiaries earned 3 cents a share in the first nine months this year, against 95 cents a share a year ago, net profit declining to $22,501 from $453,765. Third-quarter net profit was $234,200, or 34 cents a share, against net loss of $76,389 in the second quarter.

OHIO OIL BOARD DECLARES EXTRA

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Directors of Ohio Oil Company today declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share and the regular quarterly of 50 cents, payable December 15 to holders of record the 21st inst. Extra dividends of the same amount were authorized in two preceding quarters.

CABLE AND WIRE DEAL PLANS OUT

Terms of Exchange for Various Units Involved in Merger Announced

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Terms of the consolidation of several wire and cable companies in the General Cable Corporation, which has been approved by stockholders of all companies involved, provide that stockholders of Safety Cable Company shall receive in exchange for their capital stock an equal number of shares of Class "A" stock of the new corporation, and a cash dividend of 90.6 cents a share, payable the 15th inst.

Holders of each share of Standard Underground Cable Company, of $25 par value, will receive slightly more than $31 in 5½ per cent bonds of the new company; $10.94 in 7 per cent preferred stock, and fractional shares of "A" stock and common stock.

Plans for Rome Wire Company call for payment on the 15th inst. of $2,362,000 of fifteen-year 6 per cent gold debentures at 103 and accrued interest, each holder of 7 per cent preferred stock to receive on a share-for-share basis, 7 per cent preferred stock of General Cable. Holders of Class "A" stock will receive 5½ per cent bonds of General Cable at par in the ratio of one $500 bond for each ten shares of "A" stock held, while holders of "B" stock of the Rome company will receive for each share, at least two-thirds of a share of "A" stock and one-third of a share of common stock of General Cable Corporation.

Cold Weather Reported as Aiding Trade

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Trade and industrial reports this week were rather less encouraging than for a month or more past. This was due to the advent of colder weather in a wide area of the northern half of the United States and to the reappearance of the railways and the pipe-line companies in the steel market, mainly for tanks, cars and oil-country supplies. A perceptible stimulating influence was exercised by the change to lower temperatures upon retail buying of heavy apparel, and wholesalers and jobbers likewise felt the influence, either in more assured buying of this class of material, or in reorders to fill broken stocks. In addition to better buying of clothing and men's and women's furnishings, there was a better call for shoes, rubbers and other footwear. Then, too, the colder dragging bituminous coal trade felt a revival of demand, and anthracite buying was better at eastern points. In the steel trade, the buying of rails by two large systems and of a large quantity of pipe, both of these for next year's deliver, seemed to have little effect on prices, which remained at the lowest level for five years, while scrap prices showed further easing.

Six Members of Seaboard Staff Get Promotions

President George L. Browning yesterday announced the promotion of six employees of the Seaboard National Bank to important executive positions to handle the rapidly increasing business of the various departments of the institution.

Raymond P. Borden, who has been assistant cashier since the opening of the bank, and Nolan Browning, manager of the bond department, have been advanced to the positions of assistant vice-presidents.

Both are young men who have had extensive experience in financial circles. Borden will continue to be active in the commercial loan department and Nolan Browning remains as manager of the bond department and vice-president of the Seaboard Company, which is affiliated in ownership with the bank.

G. B. Bates, manager of the exchange department; W. L. Brown, head commercial teller; Wan W. Browning, head savings teller, and John E. West, of the business extension department, have been promoted to assistant cashiers.

KANSAS UTILITY SOLD

INDEPENDENCE (Kan.) Nov. 11. (AP)—Control and ownership of the Union Gas Corporation here, which supplies a dozen Kansas cities and towns, passed yesterday from the hands of local men to the Commonwealth Power Corporation of New York. The consideration was said to be nearly $2,000,000.

SUN SHINES FOR FARMERS

Unusually Prolonged Growing Period Turns Promise of Light Corn Crop to Huge Figure

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A strange turn in meteorological conditions eight weeks ago lifted this country's major agricultural crops from the poorest growing start on record until in yesterday's government report a prediction of 2,733,240,000 bushels was put out. The silver lining for clouds that seemed pitifully dark as late as September 1 that is making itself visible to the American farmer.

What this actually means is that the 1927 production of a crop that seemed destined in late summer not to exceed much more than 2,000,000,000 bushels now promises a yield of a full 122,000,000 bushels above last year and about equal to the five-year average. No other change in the new government estimates bears so vitally upon prosperity as this and not even the trade itself expected the crop to run above the 1926 figures.

The benefits of this increased volume in corn production cannot be doubted, aside as something offset by a drop in corn prices from 61.1c to 59 cents since September 1. Perhaps never in history has the market for this commodity fallen so rapidly, but to the grower of corn a big crop is far more to be desired than high prices.

Eighty-five per cent of the corn never reaches the market as a cash crop, but is fed to live stock. Big prices are not as high as the farmer would like, but are better than the prevailing level over the last four or five years. Certainly they are high enough to provide a good feeding profit to the farmer and in that plain fact lies the reason why an increased production of corn strengthens the foundations of prosperity at this time.

Two hot days early in September and a prolongation of favorable growing weather into October, unseasonal though it was, more than made up for the long spell of wet and unfavorable growing weather during the crops normal period of growth. In consequence the estimated yield per acre actually has been increased to 26.3 bushels against the 26.06 bushels reported for 1926.

This spectacular reversal in the outlook for corn within the short space of two months rivals in its interest and importance the phenomenal change in cotton's position from a year ago. Cotton growers twelve months ago wanted better prices, which is what this year's short crop brought them. Corn growers two months ago wanted more corn, which is what the September situation brought them.

Crop Estimate in Canada Near High on Wheat

OTTAWA, Nov. 11. (AP)—The Bureau of Statistics today estimated the total crop for the year at 444,262,000 bushels, as compared with 405,811,000 bushels last year.

Fall wheat is estimated at more than 22,000,000 bushels and spring wheat at more than 421,000,000.

Today's report noted that damage from hail and frost has been "considerable" in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Rust has been prevalent in the latter provinces.

"For Canada, as a whole, the wheat crop is the second largest on record," the report stated.

Giving this year's estimate with last year's final figure in parentheses, the bureau makes the following analysis: "Total, 444,262,000 (405,811,000); barley, 90,000,000 (89,000,000); rye, 16,000,000 (12,000,000); peas, 12,700,000 (2,800,000); beans, 1,900,000 (1,150,000); buckwheat, 11,000,000 (9,900,000); mixed grains 36,000,000 (34,000,000); flax seed, 4,700,000 (6,900,000); corn for husking, 6,000,000 (7,800,000)."

LONDON, Nov. 11. (By Wireless) Commemoration of Armistice Day delayed the opening of the markets here today. Business was good, however, except for securities in which the feature of weakness was in the new issues by Berlin and Poland. Chinese stocks were nevertheless stronger under continued buying.

Gramophone shares moved up as did those of the American Victor Talking Machine. Sterling was steady.

Montagu Norman's nomination for the ninth year to the office of governor of the Bank of England was well received in financial circles as the news became more generally disseminated.

THE INVESTOR

Foreign Stock Investors Urged to Keep Posted on Currency Value Changes

BY WILLIAM RUSSELL WHITE

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—If the expected influx of foreign security issues to the American market materializes, as investment bankers here believe it will, investors will be compelled to make a closer study of foreign currency and industrial conditions.

Stocks representing deposited shares of a Dutch bank, an Austrian bank, and a Dutch trading company have been introduced to investors here in the last few weeks, and similar financing doubtlessly will follow shortly. The principal markets of the shares trusteed here for American stockholders are located on the European continent, and, although an inefficient market will develop in the American shares, it will be influenced by moves in Amsterdam or Vienna.

The investor who wishes to keep closely in touch with his securities, therefore, should be able to follow exchange rate fluctuations and other developments affecting prices of his stock. In the case of Dutch stocks, for instance, he must become familiar with the florin.

One of the companies recently introduced to American investors is the Amsterdam Trading Company, the largest of the successors of the old Dutch East India Company. Control of the enterprise, it is understood here, rests with interests closely associated with the Dutch government and with the Dutch East Indies government.

The Dutch royal family is said to be among the influential backers, while the directorate numbers among its prominent members a former Finance Minister of the Netherlands, a director of the Netherlands Bank, the Dutch bank of issue, and a former vice-president of the Java Bank, the bank of issue for the Dutch East Indies. Naturally important contacts may be arranged by these directors.

The company is the largest agricultural enterprise in the Dutch East Indies, and is engaged exclusively in production of sugar, tobacco and sisal. It has a virtual monopoly of the world's supply of high-grade commercial tobacco.

Besides these important products, other tropical commodities are handled in large volume. The company is forging to the front in tea production and markets large quantities of rubber, palm oil and miscellaneous goods.

The company is said to have done well this year with its sugar crop, and is expected to double last year's profit of about $2,000,000 in this commodity. Java as a low-cost producer of sugar, and in recent years has gained importance as an exporter.

Officials of the company have estimated a dividend of 30 per cent out of 1927 earnings will be declared if conditions continue favorable. In addition to generous dividends, the company has given stockholders valuable subscription rights in recent years.

COPPER STATUS IMPROVES

Price Advances and Prospect for Further Upturn Held Promising; Lead Steady, Zinc Weak

BY CHARLES E. WILLIS

Editor, "The Arizona Mining Journal"

Two things of consequence have happened in the nonferrous metal market during the past week. Copper has eased into its predicted increase in price dropped noise being made about it and now stands at 13 3-8, and zinc has dropped below what was considered the irreducible minimum and stands at 5.75. Lead has maintained its price of 6.25. Following the lead of domestic copper, the Export Association has increased its price to 13.70.

In spite of the fact that there are numerous mines represented in the dividend list for October, 1926, not shown in the list for October, 1927, the total dividends paid last month total a little more than the 1926 figures. The mine dividends for October, 1927, total $13,910,750, as against $13,898,316 a year ago. On the other hand, the comparison with the dividends paid during the month of July, a corresponding quarterly period, did not look as well, as July showed a total of $16,901,426 paid. The reason for this apparent discrepancy is found in the fact that July included several companies who pay semiannually.

While zinc has consistently threatened to go below the 6-cent mark a number of times, it has always recovered its strength at that point and it has been felt that that was the bottom. Zinc is weak in that surplus stocks are increasing and production is slightly increased, a condition which was favorable to the consumers. The price has now definitely broken and zinc can be had as low as 5.75, with some producers holding out for 5.85.

ZINC OUTPUT GAINS

The September zinc production for the world totaled 116,900 tons, as against 121,900 tons for August. This is about the same daily rate. The average monthly production for the first nine months of 1927 shows 117,668 tons, as against an average rate of 110,801 tons for 1926. Zinc is apparently being definitely overproduced since October of last year. The relative positions of the various countries are about the same, with a tendency to cut in the United States being offset by an increase from Belgium and Polish Silesia, the two principal European producing countries.

The lead producers are consistently refusing to go below 6.25 for that metal, although bargain lots have been available occasionally at a lower figure. The market is quiet, although sales are reported as good. Production and consumption are well balanced and the statistics do not indicate any decrease in production.

The lead production totals for September for the principal countries of the world showed 140,800 tons, or a daily rate of 4486 tons, as against a daily rate of 4380 tons during August and an average daily rate for the year so far of 4522 tons. There has been no material change in the relative position of the lead-producing countries, except a decrease in United States production.

BUYING WAVES

It has not been a buying wave that caused the price of copper to advance an eighth cent, but rather a condition coming from the several buying waves of the past month, accompanied by the lessened surplus and the decreased production. There is probably a little metal available yet at the 13 1-4 price, but the producers generally are asking 13 3-8 with confidence that that price will be paid.

An interesting turn of the copper market is to be found in the newly organized General Cable Corporation, a merger of about half of the cable-producing plants of the United States. It is doubtful whether this will mean anything directly in copper and brass consumption, but it greatly improves the marketing and distributing facilities of the companies involved and it also pools a great amount of research work, which will undoubtedly increase copper uses later.

Reports from Europe show that the metal-working plants of Great Britain are busier than they have been for some time and that the German plants are practically up to capacity production. France is not good as yet, but confidence is returning and general better business conditions are seen ahead. The French government is stated to be impressing upon the railways, the importance of complete electrification, a job which will use a large quantity of metal for the next ten years.

BRITISH STOCKS DROP

Stocks of copper in British warehouses are continuing to shrink. During September decreases were 457 tons in refined and 2407 tons in rough, a total of 2934 tons. These decreases bring the stocks in official British warehouses down to 17,659 tons (2119 refined and 15,540 rough), a reduction of nearly 50 per cent from the 34,636 tons which were in warehouses at the beginning of the year. At Havre, France, stocks decreased 383 metric tons during September, now standing at 1720, against 5650 metric tons on January 1, last. German stocks of copper are estimated to have increased from 11,800 to 13,000 during September. Imports of copper into Germany of nearly 25,000 tons in August established a new high record.

Exports of copper from the United States to the United Kingdom and France made a notable increase during the third quarter of this year. Total shipments to France for that period amounted to 20,956 tons, and compare with 14,066 tons in the second quarter of 1927. Shipments to the United Kingdom for the third quarter of this year were 31,986 tons, against 24,548 tons in second quarter.

Our exports of copper for the first nine months of 1927 to Germany, Great Britain, Holland and Belgium all show a heavy increase over the same period in 1926. The betterment of foreign demand is one of the outstanding features of the copper situation.

The prospects for the metals indicate a continuing strength for copper with a slow price improvement and each eighth-cent gain to hold long enough to well establish it, no reason for any change in the lead situation and a weak zinc market.

SAFETY ZONES FOR DOLLARS

Practical Ways of Investing in Home Ownership, Savings Accounts, Life Insurance, and Dependable Investment Securities

112—PURE INTEREST AND RICH IN INVESTMENTS

In speaking of the "Safety Zone for Dollars" in the field of investments, what do we mean? The basic zone of safety represents investment where the payment, or interest, for the use of money practically involves no risk for the investor. In other words, the payment is what is known as pure interest.

At this time, pure interest for long-term borrowing seems best represented by Liberty bonds which net around 4 per cent. In connection with Liberty bonds, however, a fact that tends to put their interest return slightly below true interest is that they are the most marketable security in the world. They have a quick market with a minimum spread between their buying and selling price. The investor must pay for that advantage. Allowing ½ to 1 per cent for marketability then, we would get a rate of about 4½ per cent for pure interest. The security would be as safe as a Liberty Bond but would not be as quickly marketable. Our basic safety zone of the dollar then is about 4½ per cent.

Then what about the many investments of today yielding 5 to 6 per cent? That brings us to our second division, relative safety.

Our investment yield, or interest return, is made up of two things: first, our so-called absolute safety, and second, payment for slower marketability and payment for risk. We might term the risk payment insurance. In other words, if a bond yields 6 per cent we might figure 4½ per cent for safety, ½ of 1 per cent as the price of less marketability and 1 per cent as insurance for the risk assumed. The higher the risk the higher the yield, depending upon the individual status of the investment.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Further progress in the Federal government's refunding program, the first step in which was disclosed by the bond market today, added ahead into new high ground, in the van of the more than four leading long-term obligations, which Treasury prices for all but the completion of brisk market in respect of retirement dates of the Second Liberty issue, largely responsible for the strength of the Treasury list, in the absence of the decrease in new offerings and over-money conditions added to the buoyancy of corporate issues.

Railroad mortgages continued to attract the favor of investors, particularly issues as Erie 5s and refunding issues as Rock Island 4 1-2s, Missouri Pacific 5s and 6s, Missouri Pacific 5s and some of the Union Pacific issues, all of which, with numerous others, sold at their best prices of the year. The average of the rails was at the highest since 1915. Industrials also reached new high for the year, or longer, and there were also some fractions gains in this group. Gains of 1-2 to 1 point in International Paper, Julius Kayser 6s all were bought above their previous high. Duquesne Light 4 1-2s and Union Oils also reached new high.

Interest spread to the foreign bond issues, giving particular accounts of themselves. Argentines topped their year's maximum, as did several municipal issues and provincial factions. Buying also was in some of the Japanese, Italian and Australian securities. German issues were again offered in large amounts, but recessions followed.

Further upward rate of bonds fixed the high point of the day, the results from a number of issues which closed when the same as the low.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—The majority of yesterday's moderate cattle supply came from Utah and Idaho and with fair demand a good clearance was made at generally steady prices. A few lots of Arizonas were also included, with some of these and plain half-fat cows being held over from Thursday.

A car of good 1063-pound Idaho steers topped in the natural class at 10.15, while one good 1356-pound steer made 10.00. A load of 695-pound Southern California fed baby beef steers netted 9.50, while a load of 650-pound dairy-fed baby beef bullocks scored 10.50. The best heifer price for natural steers was 9.30, paid for a load of mixed medium and low good 1010-pound Utahs. Common steers were limited in the supply, selling mostly from 7.00@8.00, the latter price taking a car of 710-pound Arizonas.

Odd lots of cows and heifers sold up to 7.50, but the best in load lots stopped at 7.25, this price taking two cuts of Utah cows, one load averaging 1112 pounds, with the other averaging 1045 pounds. Other sales of mixture cows included three loads from 6.50@7.25. Two quality lots of 731 to 802-pound heifers sealed the 6.75, while common and medium grades of cows and heifers went over from 5.75@6.50, including loads of light Arizonas from 5.75@6.00. Cutters moved readily from 4.00@4.75, with low cutters from 3.00@3.85. Bulls were in light supply, a few good kinds selling around 6.50, with common and medium bulls from 5.25@6.25.

The majority of stockers and feeders sold on a limited basis, 5 to 25c higher, light steers easiest for 7.75. Late Thursday a part load of 575-pound Arizona yearling steers went out as stockers for 8.25, while two loads of 625-pound heifers with the same shipment went out to the country at 7.50, while two loads of 590-pound Arizona calves for feeder purposes brought 8.25.

CALVES—The supply on hand was cleaned up plenty at about steady prices. Only lots of vealers sold above 11.50, while the best calves, two part loads of 324 to 375-pound Arizonas scaled for 9.75. Other calves, mostly plain kinds and fairlies, went over from 7.00@9.00, while a small lot of plain 165-pound calves went over for 10.25.

HOGS—Only three loads of butchers, all Central California, were offered on yesterday's market and these were cleaned up readily at generally 10@25c lower prices when compared with Thursday's best time, or nearly the lowest time of the week. The top was 11.65 paid for a load of 270-pound weights, while in load of 240-pound kinds turned for 11.60. A small lot of 224-pound trucked-in butchers sealed for 11.20, while a part load of 210-pound butchers went over for 10.50, with the other part of the load, packing sows, averaging 295 pounds, at 9.90. A few rough sows made 9.80, while a small lot of plain 310-pound pigs went over for 9.25.

SHEEP—Close to 6,000 sheep and lambs were quoted from 11.00@12.50, with medium to choice yearling ewes from 8.00@7.00.

Pomona Cards Cinch Citrus League Title

Coach Archie Nisbet's Pomona Cardinals cinched their second straight Citrus Belt League football championship yesterday, when they defeated San Bernardino, 13 to 0, on the losing eleven's gridiron.

The victory kept the Cards' record untarnished by either ties or defeats. Affelbaugh was the hero of the Pomona victory, the Card halfback scoring both touchdowns. The first Affelbaugh touchdown came in the second quarter, when he broke away for a seventy-yard run. Wilson passed to Affelbaugh for the Cards' last score, which came in the fourth period. Line-ups:

San Bernardino (0)		Pomona (13)
Simmons	L.E.R.	Wade
Maudsley	L.T.R.	Davidson
Rahn	L.G.R.	Gessner
Irvin	C.	Levitt
Stockton	R.G.L.	Bright
Rauch	R.T.L.	Anson
Bourquite	R.E.L.	Gates
Sidler	Q.	Keough
Hill	L.H.R.	Velar
Anderson	R.H.L.	Affelbaugh
Glover	F.	Wilson

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Pomona	0	7	0	6—13

Touchdowns: Affelbaugh, 2. Conversion: Wilson.

BAKERSFIELD DEFEATS WHITTIER FRESHMEN

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 11. (AP)—Bakersfield High School's Drillers, without the services of Stockton, their star fullback, who watched the game from the sidelines, proved too powerful for the Whittier College freshmen this afternoon and shoved over six touchdowns, winning, 38 to 0. It was the seventh victory for the undefeated Drillers this season.

At the end of the half, Bakersfield was leading, 20 to 0. They were held several times on the 1-yard line by the Whittier Frosh, in the third quarter, when they went scoreless, but in the last period, Bakersfield put over three more scores, one on a 20-yard forward pass from Uhalt to Boehm as the gun completed the game.

TEXAS MINERS DOWN NEW MEXICO AGGIES

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 11. (AP)—"Doleful Doc's" Stewart's Texas College of Mines football players outclassed the New Mexico Aggies today, and defeated them with a 19-to-7 score here.

The Aggies score came in the final period when Benny Rutz, former fullback and captain, caught Capt. Hugh Worthington's punt on the Aggie 10-yard line and made a sensational 90-yard run through a broken field for a touchdown. Worthington scored two of the Miners' markers on line plunges and McMillan scored the other when he caught a 40-yard pass heaved by Billy Clark, tackle, brought back for the pass.

ST. MARY'S FROSH THUMP SANTA CLARA

SAN JOSE, Nov. 11. (AP)—In one of the greatest football games ever played in this district the St. Mary's freshmen today defeated the fighting Santa Clara Babes by the score of 7 to 6. The Broncos scored first in the second quarter when Jacqua passed to Farrel, who threw to Casanova, who crossed the goal line for the touchdown. Axt failed to convert.

The Saints scored after three minutes of play in the second half. Stennet ran around left end ten yards for the marker. On the try for point Jacqua, Santa Clara quarter, was offside and the officials allowed the point.

CALEXICO HIGH COPS FROM BRAWLEY GRIDS

BRAWLEY, Nov. 11.—Calexico High School defeated Brawley High by a score of 26 to 0 in a football game that was the feature of the Armistice Day program held here today by all Imperial Valley Legion posts.

Three hundred valley war veterans paraded through the streets during the morning program. The procession ended at the Plaza, where an Armistice Day address was given by Rev. H. K. Holtzinger of this city.

CHICO STATE GRIDS DOWN SAN JOSE TEAM

CHICO, Nov. 11. (AP)—Chico State Teachers' College pounded out a 19-0 victory over the San Jose State Teachers' College eleven here today. The winners scored touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods. Jimmy Thomason, halfback, was the outstanding star, scoring all three of his team's touchdowns. For San Jose, Jess Retil, guard, turned in a great game. He pulled off many long runs, being called into the backfield to pack the ball.

TEXAS AGGIES COP CLOSE GRID BATTLE

HOUSTON (Tex.) Nov. 11. (AP)—The Rice Institute Owls packed a defensive punch that surprised the Texas Aggies and the potential Southwestern Conference winners considered themselves lucky to get away with a 14-to-0 victory here today. The Aggies threatened five times but were able to score only twice. Each of these tallies was directly attributed to the Owls' punting which failed to give Rice an even break with A. and M.

MONTANA STATERS CLEAN UP WYOMING

SHERIDAN (Wyo.) Nov. 11. (AP)—A blocked kick gave Montana State a victory over Wyoming here today when the Bobcats struggled to victory on a field of mud, 6 to 0.

A kick by George of Wyoming was blocked in the shadow of Wyoming's goal post early in the first quarter. The ball rolled over the Wyoming goal line and Olsen of Montana fell on it for a touchdown. Voight failed to kick goal.

LEGION GRIDDERS WIN

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 11. (AP)—The football eleven of the Berkeley Live Oak Club, representing the American Legion, defeated the Two Hundred and Fiftieth Coast Artillery aggregation here this afternoon, 19-6.

Mississippi's Gobs Triumph

The battleship Mississippi, which is making a strong bid to win back the Iron Man trophy, symbolic of fleet athletic supremacy, which the home ship lost to the flagship California three years ago made another big advance toward their goal Thursday night by decisively defeating the battleship Idaho boxing and wrestling squads in a smoker held aboard the Home Ship. The Mississippi won every boxing bout and held the Idaho to one win in the wrestling events. Following were the final scores: Boxing—Mississippi, 36; Idaho, 0. Wrestling—Mississippi, 30; Idaho, 6.

The boxing results:

Flyweight class—Jimmy Lucas, Mississippi, won by default when the Idaho was unable to produce an opponent.

Bantamweight class—Mike Kelly, Mississippi, won by default when Joey Schmier of the Idaho was unable to make the required poundage.

Featherweight—Joe Mato, all-navy champion of the Mississippi, who has won all bouts this year by knockouts, connected his right hand with Sammy Pearson's jaw in the second round to draw the third round.

Lightweight — Joe Carter of the Mississippi knocked out Sailor Simpkins of the Idaho in the third round.

WRESTLING RESULTS

Featherweight—Larson of the Mississippi won over Castrell of the Idaho with an armlock and body hold in 4m. 17s.

Middleweight—Tiger Motion, Mississippi, tossed Paul Moski, Idaho, after 6m. 42s. of exciting grappling.

Service Teams Play Tie Game

BERKELEY, Nov. 11. (AP)—Service teams of the Army and Navy battled to a 6-6 tie here today before a crowd of 45,000 persons.

The sailors, with their 200-pound team, scored in the first period after rushing the ball down the field from the 50-yard line. Tout, fullback, went over for the touchdown.

Army crashed over for its touchdown shortly before the end of the game after two previous scoreless periods in which the ball seesawed up and down the field. Blaugh, soldier halfback, crossed the line. Each team's try for point was blocked.

HOLLYWOOD DIRECTOR HOPES YALE WILL WIN

S.C. DENTISTS IN VICTORY AT TENNIS

The U.S.C. dental college initiated its tennis season by an easy win over the Compton Junior College yesterday, 5-1. One upset occurred when Bob Bagley, U.S.C. first man, lost to Leslie Jahn, Compton first man, 2-6, 7-5, 6-0.

The scores were as follows:

Jahn (C.) Bagley (S.C.) 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.
Kingstein (S.C.) Fleming (C.) 6-2, 6-3.
Mauer (S.C.) Richardson (C.) 6-4, 6-3.
Klingstein-Bagley (S.C.) Jahn-Anderson (C.) 6-1, 6-4.

FERNANDO TO FACE FRAYO IN RING BOUT

Johnny Fernando and Manuel Frayo, a pair of hard-hitting lightweights, clash in the eight-round main event of Carlo Curtis's boxing program at the Main-Street Athletic Club tonight. Fernando, a Filipino, fought a sensational draw at Hollywood several weeks ago. Their bout tonight is expected to be a great slugging match.

The two six-round bouts, featuring Young Firpo against Young Terry, in the semi-wind-up, and Sammy Aguerre against Jimmy Hart, also should be slugging matches.

LOYOLA FROSH TAKE ON SHERMAN INDIANS

The Loyola Frosh will tackle the Sherman Indians this afternoon in a preliminary game to the Loyola-Regis fracas. The game is scheduled for 12:30.

Coach Johnny Richlie's yearlings have not yet tasted defeat so far this season. Their tie game with the strong U.S.C. Dentals some time ago is the shiny spot on their schedule.

HUNTINGTON PARK BEATS SAN PEDRO

Running up a score of 31-6, with Joe Sarver doing the heavy work, Huntington Park today trounced San Pedro High School on the Park field. By keeping in the win column, Coach Verne Landreth's team remains in the running for the championship, having lost only to Woodrow Wilson in the first game of the season.

SANTA FE GRIDDERS MEET SMOKE-EATERS

Members of the football team from the Santa Fe apprentice shops, San Bernardino, will seek revenge when they arrive at Wrigley Park tomorrow afternoon for their game with the Los Angeles Fire Department team. The Smoke-eaters defeated the Gate City team, 19 to 13, on the latter's gridiron at the start of the season and tomorrow will be out to score the second victory.

MISSISSIPPI NOSED OUT

JACKSON (Miss.) Nov. 11. (AP)—After Rube Wilcox had scored a touchdown for the University of Mississippi in the third quarter here today, he failed to kick the goal needed to tie and Loyola University of Chicago was the victor by 7 to 6.

SHIP OVERHAUL BIDS REJECTED

Lowest for Reconditioning of West Erral $165,000

Lasco Manager Reports All Offers on Work High

Expects to Ask New Tenders Early Next Week

Shipyards up and down the coast are expected to tender bids this week on the reconditioning of the steamer West Erral just purchased by the Los Angeles Steamship Company as its fourth ship to enter the Hawaiian service out of Los Angeles.

The job is one of the largest of the year of its kind, calling for the installation of ample refrigeration space for the transportation of perishables; installation of two large cargo tanks to carry oil to the islands and bring back molasses, and the construction of extra fuel tanks.

Bids were opened yesterday by Pillsbury & Curtis, handling the arrangements for the Lassco Line, but all were regarded as high, even the lowest, that of the General Engineering Company of San Francisco with $165,000. Ralph Chandler, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Steamship Company, said all bids had been rejected, and he assumed new ones would be invited, but he wouldn't know definitely until hearing from Pillsbury & Curtis early next week.

The installations will equip the vessel in a way not enjoyed by any freighter in the service to the islands, and reveal an aggressive attitude by the company to go after a volume of cargo of a kind heretofore hauled largely as an incidental to the trade.

SHIFT OF PLANS OF UNITED FRUIT SEEN

That United Fruit Company again is considering Los Angeles Harbor as a potential port of call for its fleet of banana ships, was revealed yesterday in a gathering of the fruit men and transportation and stevedoring officials at the California Yacht Club.

In addition to several representatives of the United Fruit Company, there were present D. W. Pontius, head of the Pacific Electric Railway Company; Joe Saunders, general freight agent for the Southern Pacific; and Frank Scott of the same company, and Gerald Fitzgerald, president of the Associated Terminals, parent body of six stevedoring companies in as many Pacific Coast ports.

The United Fruit Company's new west coast service was inaugurated early this week when the steamer Limon put into San Francisco with 25,000 bunches of bananas from Central America. San Francisco originally was intended as the only port of call on the coast, but the conference yesterday is said to indicate a change of heart.

Whether it will have any effect on plans of the Standard Fruit and Steamship Company and Cuyamel Fruit Company to inaugurate a banana service exclusively to Los Angeles from Salina Cruz is unknown. John Vaccaro, representing the two concerns is still here looking for sites for a terminus for his fleet of six to eight banana-carrying steamers, which would arrive twice weekly with 25,000 to 40,000 bunches of bananas each.

The Standard Gypsum Company is reported to have chartered the Japanese tramp steamer Ryoka Maru to carry 8000 tons of gypsum rock from the company's quarries on San Marcos Island to China in December. It is the first trans-Pacific cargo and is said to presage an extension of the gypsum trade. Heretofore the gypsum has been brought from the Mexican island to Long Beach and Puget Sound where the company maintains refineries. The company's steamer S. A. Perkins will depart from here today for San Marcos Island, towing the barge Daylight with timbers, mine machinery, rails and supplies for the Compagnie de Boleo at Santa Rosalia.

"Hello, darling. I'm all at sea. Won't you come and fly mith me?" Such conversations will be possible with new radio telephones which E. A. Bacon is going to put on his fleet of five flying boats which the Pacific Marine Airways operates out of Wilmington to Catalina Island.

Incidentally they are of a new type, which weighs only eight pounds, brought out by the Aviation Radio Engineering Company of Los Angeles. Most other types weigh 150 pounds, except the typical navy sets, which work off of generators, and these do not work when the motors are dead, Bacon said.

Bacon's fleet has been operating daily between the islands and the mainland for six years without a casualty; the radio phones being intended more as a convenience than a precaution.

While the service is augmented in summer, at least one plane leaves the terminal at Wilmington daily for Avalon throughout the fall and winter, Bacon plans to inaugurate a service also to San Diego next summer.

The life-saving equipment of Base No. 17 of the United States Coast Guard went to land yesterday, the occasion being its participation in the Armistice pageant at San Pedro. Guns, lines, breeches buoy and the entire equipment for succoring imperiled at sea were shown, manned by half a dozen stalwarts of the base. Other marine concerns with floats were the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Ddry Dock Corporation, Regan & Merritt, Chapman & Scott.

California Yacht Club has gained another entry for the race from Newport to Hawaii next summer, in the mahogany yacht Pandora, just reported bought at San Francisco by N. W. Rohl of Los Angeles, who will bring her here. The craft is sixty-six feet long, of yawl rig and with an auxiliary engine affording a speed of eight knots. She was built in Oslo, Norway, and brought to San Francisco on the motor liner Canada eleven months ago by George Armes, Dr. H. J. Macomber and Edward M. Mills.

Twenty-five whales in one week's harvest by the fleet of the California Sea Products Company, is the report brought back from San Clemente Island yesterday by F. K. Dedrick, president, at the offices of Scoonhoft-Gallis Company, rendezvous for whalers. Many are blue whales, one exceeding ninety feet. More than 1000 barrels of whale oil have been reduced to date, valued at $20,000.

The West Mount is due from the east coast this morning as the first of five intercoastal vessels to enter the run for the Dimon Steamship Corporation of New York. She is loaded with independent steel and general merchandising, according to Krueger & Co., local agents. The line will operate independent of the Intercoastal Conference.

Twelve hundred cases of Southland honey will comprise part of the cargo to be picked up here for Europe Monday by the freighter Handicap, one of a new fleet which Brusgaard has entered in the Pacific-European trade. Sherwood & Co. are agents; A. R. Paulsen, dock agent. Paulsen announces the Flood Line steamer Seapool will discharge 2200 tons of silver sand, china clay and general European cargo Tuesday.

New Gasoline Process Found

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Upon his arrival from New York on the new Matson liner Maiolo, J. Harry Mull, president of the Cramp Shipbuilding yards of Philadelphia and director of the Petroleum Conversion Corporation of Texas, displayed a telegram from the plant of the latter company announcing the successful attainment of a process for the manufacture of gasoline. Mull declared it a process which has been perfected after years of experimentation, relying for its success on "a new method of cracking in the vapor phase."

The telegram said British and French firms are negotiating for rights.

Mrs. Rosevelt Loses Election

HYDE PARK (N. Y.) Nov. 11. (AP) Mrs Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of Franklin D. Roosevelt, may be a national figure in the Democratic party but in her little home town of Hyde Park she is just another Democrat in a predominantly Republican district.

Mrs. Roosevelt was up for school director at Tuesday's election but her neighbors returned Elias Cookingham, Republican candidate, to office by vote of more than two to one.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS QUARANTINE LIFTED

OWENSBORO (Ky.) Nov. 11 (AP)—After more than seven weeks of confinement in their homes, Owensboro children will be freed tonight with the lifting of infantile paralysis quarantine. This county probably was harder hit than any other in the State, with fifty-four cases reported, including four deaths and a number left permanently crippled. The majority of cases were those of infants, but a 16-year-old girl died and a man of 41 was quarantined.

FAMILY REUNION DRAWS HUNDRED

Founder of Mesa, Ariz., Has 587 Descendants

Loss of Picturesque Names Deplored by Club

Closing of Coronado Trail Declared Untrue

DAM NAME OPPOSED

MIAMI (Ariz.) Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—The Woman's Club of Miami has passed a resolution deploring the loss of distinctive State names. It asks that the designation of "Coolidge" for the new Gila River dam be revoked and that it remain under the old naming of "San Carlos." The name was given in the same manner that the designation of "Roosevelt" was placed upon the Tonto Creek [illegible] of the Salt River reclamation enterprise, commemorating the action of a President in assisting each irrigation project. The Miami club also declares that advertising signboards now are obstructing a view of the beauties of nature along the State highways and asks the clubs of the State federation to do everything in their power to discourage the placing of such signs.

ROAD STILL OPEN

CLIFTON (Ariz.) Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—A report that the Coronado Trail has been closed for the season by deep snows is declared untrue. Automobile travel still is using the highway from Springerville to this point, experiencing no snow on the road and seeing none except on the mountain tops. The United States Bureau of Public Roads is reported to have been misinformed on the subject.

RURAL CITY URGED

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—At the annual meeting of the Arizona section of the American Society of Civil Engineers a plea for the ruralizing of Phoenix was made by [illegible] G. Rertranft, president of the City Planning Commission. He expressed belief that Phoenix will gain if it abandons its adherence to the formal type of downtown business blocks and preserves trees and flower borders along its streets. Details of construction of the Stevenson Creek experimental dam in California were presented by F. A. Noetzli. Howard S. Reed of Phoenix was elected president of the State organization of engineers.

WAR ON BEETLE OPENS

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—The pine bark beetle, of two varieties, has been found to be working destruction in the Prescott National Forest, and Forest Service officials have started active war upon it. Infested trees must be felled and the bark peeled and burned. A similar infestation was overcome in the Baibab forest, north of the Grand Canyon, but only after immense damage had been done.

WIRELESS PACT PRECEDENT SET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The American delegation to the International Radio Conference set a precedent today by agreeing, in a meeting of the full convention committee of the conference, to the inclusion of an unconditional and compulsory arbitration clause in an international treaty binding upon the United States.

Reversing the attitude it had adopted last week in a subcommittee, when it favored the existing optional arbitration clause, the delegation voted in favor of compulsory arbitration for the settlement of any international dispute arising from the radio convention.

In previous treaties and conventions stipulating arbitration, the American government has always excepted from such treatment disputes involving national honor and independence or other questions not considered suitable for arbitration.

SCHOOLBOY DIES ON ARMISTICE "CRUISE"

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—Unknown to their parents two South San Francisco school boys, enjoying an Armistice Day school holiday, today set out for an "exploring and seafaring expedition" on San Francisco Bay. A few hours later, one was rescued in a dangerous condition and the other, Allen Shipman, 9 years of age, sank beneath the waves. His body had not been recovered tonight.

SNEERS STIFLE SNORING JOB

Three Quit $50-Per-Month Place With Nothing to Do But Sleep

BERKELEY, Nov. 11. (AP)—Here's a city job paying $50 a month with nothing to do but sleep from 6 o'clock at night until 7 next morning, and three men have quit it within the past week after trying it one night each. Two complained that they couldn't sleep.

The job has nothing to do with laying ghosts in a graveyard, either. The city wants someone to stay on the municipal wharf at night, with absolutely no duties except to sleep on the premises. A University of California student said the lapping of the waves on the piling and the cries of sea gulls kept him awake. With his complaint in mind, the city hired a former mate on a coastwise steamer. Automobiles kept him awake. The third man quit without giving a reason.

CHICAGO MAYOR SLAPPED AGAIN

Former War Secretary Hits Rule of Ignorance

Speaks Before Students at St. Louis University

Indiana Disgraces Also Scored by Baker

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Denunciation of present political conditions in Chicago and Indiana was made by Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War under Woodrow Wilson, in an address today before Washington University students.

"In Chicago a flaming demagogue organized the ignorance of that city in the form of 300,000 or 400,000 blacks and took over the municipal government," former Secretary Baker said.

"I won't say that Mayor Thompson is the most ignorant man in the world—I don't know everybody—but apparently he is unaware that King George III is dead and that there have been other Georges since.

"The Chicago election result last spring was a reproach to the educated citizens, who could have prevented it."

Referring to Indiana, not by name, but as a neighboring State, Baker remarked that "one Governor is returning from prison, another is under indictment and the Mayor of the leading city has been convicted of a crime against the public."

"Public opinion in that State," he said, "has been dominated by ignorance for the last ten years, even though the State has been blessed with the brightest galaxy of writers since the classical New England school of writers."

EDUCATORS SLAP AT MAYOR THOMPSON

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Mayor Thompson of Chicago was condemned for his textbook investigation of schools in his city in a resolution adopted today by the Minnesota Education Association, in annual convention here.

"We view with alarm any attempt to subject educational institutions and processes to selfish political interests," said the resolution. "We deprecate and condemn therefore the efforts by the chief executive of the great city of Chicago to interfere with and control the proper functions of those vested with the responsibility of promoting scholarship and preparing our youth for citizenship."

A copy of the resolution will be sent to Mayor Thompson.

THREE DEAD IN BLAST ON OIL TANKER

New York Craft Crippled by Fire and Explosion on Start of Voyage South

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP) — The tanker Beta, her bow ripped open by an explosion that killed three of her crew, was making a hazardous way to this port tonight convoyed by a half-dozen ships.

A radio message received at Coast Guard headquarters here tonight from the Coast Guard cutter McCall said the bodies of the three members of the tanker's crew who were killed are being brought to port by a Coast Guard cutter.

Thirty-three miles from New York and "down by the head," the tanker was in such a condition that "anything might happen," her owners, Walker & Daly, said. A Coast Guard cutter acted as convoy in case the still smoldering fire in the Beta's hold should bring new disaster.

An SOS call today sent revenue cutters and other ships hurrying to the aid of the tanker, which reported by wireless that she was afire ten miles off Barnegat after an explosion which had wrecked the ship's bow.

The steamers Hannawa and Vaarill sped to her aid and within a short time four Coast Guard cutters were on the way.

Medical assistance was rushed to the Beta aboard the destroyer Henley and the seagoing tug Gresham was sent to take the tanker in tow if possible. This, it was believed, would be a difficult task because of the condition of the Beta's bow.

Fifi Widener's ex-Mate Wed

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—The marriage of Mrs. Marjorie E. Woodhouse Procter, to Carter Randolph Leidy, Philadelphia broker and divorced husband of Fifi Widener, was announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse of Easthampton and New York, parents of the bride. The wedding took place October 24.

Mrs. Leidy obtained a divorce in Paris last March from Frederick William Procter, grandson of one of the founders of the Procter & Gamble Soap Company, to whom she was married June 22, 1922, at the Woodhouse summer home at Easthampton.

Leidy and the former Fifi Widener were divorced in January, 1926.

Teutons Ignore Armistice Day

BERLIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—While the Allied countries were celebrating Armistice Day today Germany, also a party to the armistice, was pursuing the even tenor of its business and social way.

There was no observance in Berlin nor other parts of Germany.

FISH CAUGHT IN DESERT! HM!

STOVEPIPE WELLS (Death Valley) Nov. 11. (AP)—"Smiling Joe" Hiatt, desert roamer and prospector, reported here today that he caught three fish in the sink-hole of Death Valley yesterday morning. And to show that it was not merely a "fish" story, Hiatt and his partner, "Grouchy Sam" Everett, exhibited the well-picked bones—all that was left of a desert dinner of fresh fish.

The partners reported they were toiling over Death Valley's burning sands when a flock of birds flew low overhead. Hiatt, described as one of the best shots in the valley, brought one down with his rifle. Along with the bird, a pelican, they picked up the catch of fish, which it had been transporting.

Principe Viajero que Habiará Aquí

La próxima semana llegará a Los Angeles el principe Guillermo de Suecia, segundo hijo del rey Gustavo, para dar en el Auditorium tres conferencias, el lunes y miércoles próximos, bajo los auspicios del Club Sueco, del cual es vicepresidente el cónsul aquí, señor Guillermo A. Monten. Dice el principe que está encantado con el occidente, sobre el cual había leído mucho, pero cuya belleza, riqueza y vastedad son prendas seguras de que serán un valor dominante en la futura historia de la humanidad. El principe se dedica principalmente a la caza y las exploraciones por tierras distantes y casi desconocidas. Siempre que regresa de esas azarosas peregrinaciones se dedica, después, a dar conferencias sobre lo que ha pasado en ellas. Y parece encontrarse bien en todas partes, sin echar de menos su tierra, ni en punto a clima ni a costumbres.

GIRLHOOD TO MOTHERHOOD

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school, finally had to leave school, I was so weak. I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone what the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning thru their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who take it recommend it to their daughters as a dependable medicine.

RADIO KHJ IS IN NEW HANDS

Famous Station Purchased by Don Lee

Men to Maintain High Service Standard

Times" to Co-operate in Broadcast of News

A development of major interest in radio circles was made public yesterday with the formal approval by the Federal Radio Commission at Washington of the sale of The Times radio station, famous to listeners-in everywhere as Radio KHJ, to Don Lee, prominent Pacific Coast automobile distributor. The change of ownership becomes effective next Monday.

The Times retains a connection with the station for the broadcasting of daily news, major events of public interest and other features within the functions of a newspaper. In an informal statement of his plans for the future of the station, Mr. Lee stressed his intention of maintaining the high standard of disinterested nonprofit public service which has always characterized KHJ. Entertainment of the high order of merit, he said, will be his first aim, together with radio broadcasts calculated to serve the public along educational, religious and cultural lines.

In relinquishing control of the station with which it has been so long identified, The Times was moved by a conviction that the enormous growth of radio as a medium of public entertainment and in other respects is farther and farther removing it from the proper scope of a daily newspaper, concerned chiefly with the dissemination of news. So long as radio serves that primary purpose of a newspaper, The Times will continue to employ it, in co-operation with Mr. Lee and through KHJ. The radio news service which The Times has made a popular feature of KHJ programs will be continued, as will the practice of broadcasting important events, sporting contests, church service and the like.

In turning it over to Mr. Lee, The Times feels that KHJ, pioneer newspaper radio station of the West, will be in good hands. The record of Mr. Lee is not only as a business man but as well as a successful owner and operator in the field of radio broadcasting, is sufficient guarantee to the public of a radio service of the first order under his direction.

NOTABLE RECORD

Mr. Lee is no beginner in radio. For more than a year he has owned and operated Station KFRC, one of the best and most popular stations in San Francisco. When he took it over KFRC was a station of 50-watt power. Under his control it was successively raised to first to 500 watts and then to 1,000, dedicated primarily to the service of the community, this expansion was due in part to the co-operation of the public and its appreciative response to the efforts of Mr. Lee to make KFRC a station of outstanding merit in entertainment, education and helpfulness. How well he succeeded is a matter of radio record. Characteristic of his methods with this station is the fact that all surplus revenues accruing from the operation of KFRC are immediately turned back into the station's budget and devoted to yet better and more various programs. In this, Mr. Lee proposes to make a replica of KFRC that of KHJ while.

Mr. Lee has been a leading figure in the automobile business of the Pacific Coast for more than twenty years. For over twenty he has been the California distributor of Packard cars and latterly of the new Packard product, the La Salle. He has the record as the most successful distributor of Cadillac outside the United States, in proportion to possible business. He is an enthusiastic sportsman and is especially interested in yachting, to the promotion of which he has contributed largely in time, money and personal effort. His yacht, the Invader, is one of the Honolulu yacht race fleet, and that of his son, Tom-Tom, the Frolic, are among the best-known of Coast sailors.

Mr. Lee is the world's ideal playboy, in the view of Mr. Lee, and has spared no effort to carry a conviction to the world at large. The promotion of the interests of the State, so far as may properly be done through the medium of radio, will play a conspicuous part in the future of KHJ under his management.

MR. LEE'S STATEMENT

In his new radio purchase Mr. Lee says:

"We are particularly delighted in having been able to buy Radio KHJ. During the association we will have with the public through the Angeles Times.

"We can only hope that we will grow

CHEST FUND MORE THAN $2,000,000

Approximately $650,000 of Budget Still to be Raised as Second Week Ends

Although complete figures were not compiled, due to the holiday, it was announced yesterday at Los Angeles Community Chest headquarters that subscriptions in hand now exceed $2,000,000. It was estimated that approximately $650,000 of the budget of $2,750,000 remains to be raised.

At today's noon report meeting at the Biltmore final returns of the first two weeks of the Chest's fourth annual appeal will be announced. The largest single contribution yesterday was reported by the Broadway Department store, whose employees subscribed $7737, or 10 per cent more than their quota. Employees of the Pacific Door and Sash Company subscribed $1461.50, or 40 per cent over quota.

Today's report meeting will be held in the music room of the Biltmore. George L. Eastman will be chairman of the day and Louis B. Mayer will be present with three leading stars of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Mayer is a director of the Chest, and recently returned from the East. A large number of motion-picture supporters of the Chest are expected to attend. Mayer will be the principal speaker. Others who will talk include Conrad Nagel and Milton Sills.

GOAL TO BE REACHED

"The last dollar of the $2,750,000 budget must be raised before the appeal is closed," it was declared yesterday by Edwin A. Meserve, campaign chairman. "Los Angeles failed three years in succession. We shall not fail this time. The city's needy shall not want."

Although he still hopes the goal may be reached before the end of next week, Meserve said division heads are a unit in determination that the appeal must be brought to a successful finish, regardless of time required.

Continued response by wage earners to the Chest's appeal for at least "one day's pay" was indicated last night when firms and organizations reporting subscriptions by employees 100 per cent or more of their quotas totaled 257.

THOSE OVER TOP

New announcements late yesterday were:

Firm—	P.c.
Federal Telegraph Company	162
Southern Pacific Company	116
Pacific Electric Railway	117
Pacific Steamship Company	262
Coulter's Department Store	123
Hipolita Screen Door Company	143

Central Hardware Company	153
Pacific Door and Sash Company	140

As a tribute to the Chest and its agencies, the police and fire departments of Los Angeles will give a parade Monday afternoon. By order of Chief of Police Davis and Fire Chief Scott, the parade will form at First street and Broadway at 3 p.m. and march to Tenth street. The firemen's band will head the parade, followed by the police drill team of sixty men. Three members of the fife and drum corps of Victory Post, No. 57, of the American Legion, returned recently from the Legion convention in Paris, will represent the "Spirit of '76."

VENICE LEADERS NEED MORE WORKERS

Acting on the statement of Col. Clyde W. Holbrook, chairman of the Venice division of the Los Angeles Community Chest, that there never is an armistice in the war against want and human suffering, the Venice office was kept open all day yesterday. While the twelve teams have reported success in the drive, there still are portions of the district inadequately covered and more workers are wanted.

SET-BACK PLAN SET BACK

Action has been postponed by the City Council until the 23rd inst., on establishing set-back lines on Iroio street, from Seventh street to San Marino street.

GREAT CAPTAIN CALLS SOBIESKI

Famous Fighter, Crusader Dies at Home Here

Headed Firing Squad That Executed Maximilian

Renown Won in His Struggle in Prohibition Cause

Col. John Sobieski, crusader for prohibition, woman suffrage and the abolition of capital punishment, and the man who commanded the firing squad that executed Emperor Maximilian of Mexico died at 3 p.m. yesterday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Gilhousen, 2807 Brighton avenue. It is significant that Col. Sobieski, who first set foot on American soil on Washington's birthday, February 22, 1855, died on Armistice Day, one year after his famous Armistice Day address at Wilmington.

Sixth lineal descendant of King John III of Poland, last of the Polish monarchs, Col. Sobieski died amid memories of his stirring days as fighter and adventurer in the cause of democracy.

EXCITING LIFE

He was 85 years of age and one of the most romantic figures of modern times. An exile with his widowed mother at the age of 6, a stowaway on the U.S.S. Constellation at the age of 12, at 16 an Indian fighter, at 22 a bugler at Gettysburg and at 24 a colonel in the Mexican army and condemned to death—such in brief is the story of his early life.

Col. Sobieski's father was Count Sobiesai, who participated in an uprising against Russia and forfeited his life. Col. Sobieski was 6 at the time he and his mother were driven into exile to Austria by the Russians.

Leaving Austria, the boy and his mother traveled through Galicia, Posen, Belgium and Italy, finally going to Leeds, Eng. There, for a while the mother earned a living by teaching music and painting but finally died of a broken heart. On her death bed she obtained the promise of her son that he never would sit at a gaming table, never take the name of God in vain, never drink intoxicants and that he always would defend the oppressed. The promise was kept.

SERVES IN WAR

At 12, the boy was found as a stowaway on the battleship Constellation and taken to the United States. Here, at 16, he joined the Regular Army as an Indian fighter until the Civil War.

Then, at Gettysburg, where he was serving with the Second Artillery, he received an abdominal wound, which surgeons pronounced mortal. But he recovered and toward the close of the war was assigned by President Lincoln to go to Richmond as a spy and to appraise the strength of the Confederate capital's fortifications.

Later, he went as a spy to Mobile and there, too, succeeded in his mission, winning the praise of President Lincoln for his services. In 1865, he was mustered out of the Union Army and at once determined to enlist in the cause of a free Mexico. He went to Mexico overland and after eighteen months of service against the usurper Maxmilian found himself a colonel in the Mexican army and assigned to the command of the firing squad which executed the Emperor. At one time, however, Col. Sobieski himself was under sentence to die by a firing squad in Mexico because of his refusal to dispatch more of the prisoners who fell into the hands of his forces. But he was pardoned by Gen. Escobedo.

LAND REFUSED

At the end of the war, Col. Sobieski was hailed as one of Mexico's saviors and offered 10,000 acres of land in recognition of his gallant services. But he had become a citizen of the United States and refused the land.

In the early seventies, he was elected to the Minnesota Legislature. But his political career became doomed when he introduced bills against capital punishment and the liquor traffic and one for the enfranchisement of women—all three measures looked on at that time as simply the outpourings of fanatics. But he lived to see many of the causes which

RIVERSIDE PAYS HONOR TO CANADA

Century of Peace Brings Good-Will Messages at Mt. Rubidoux Services

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 11. (Exclusive)—With ceremonies in honor of the dead and dedication on the summit of Mt. Rubidoux to continued peace this community today observed the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice nine years ago. Cessation of hostilities on the battle lines was remembered this morning with a program that reached its zenith at 11 o'clock, the time when the order to cease firing was sent to the front. A parade formed at 10 o'clock made up of city officials, troops from March Field, R.O.T.C. Band and cadets, fife and drump corps of the Sons of Veterans, Grand Army of the Republic, Woman's Relief Corps, Auxiliary of the Legion and Sons of Veterans, and the Women of the G.A.R. The parade halted at the high school stadium, where the ceremony was conducted.

Francis Cuttle, head of the exemption board of the district during the draft period of 1917, made the address of the day.

A tribute to Canada was given in a ceremony on Mt. Rubidoux at sundown, the annual observation with a different country each year honored. The century of peace between this country and the Dominion was rededicated with representatives of note present from both nations. Former service men, official representatives of foreign nations, officers and soldiers from March Field, Canadian Northwest Mounted Police, Boy Scouts and the Canadian Veterans' Bagpipe Band lent color to the services. The services were conducted at the foot of Serra Cross in view of the Tower of

SOUTHLAND HEADS BARED AS BUGLES SOUND TAPS

Los Angeles Joins Other Cities in Recalling War's End With Games, Speeches and Exercises

Halted by the clear notes of bugles, citizens of Los Angeles paused for a moment at 11 a.m. yesterday with bared heads to hear the somber notes of Taps echoing throughout the city and to dedicate a prayer to those who gave their lives for their country.

In this solemn manner Los Angeles joined with other cities of the United States in commemorating the ninth anniversary of the signing of the armistice which ended the World War and muffled the war drums of a dozen nations.

Later in the day thousands of citizens gathered in the Coliseum to witness Armistice-Day exercises given under the auspices of patriotic organizations. There, the blare of trumpets, the tread of marching feet, the roar of airplanes which hovered overhead and fluttering battle flags joined in a symphony of peace—the keynote of every address and the thought of every veterans and citizen who witnessed it.

FETE AT HARBOR

While these exercises were being carried out in the Coliseum, the marching hosts of the United States battle fleet and troops from Fort MacArthur, paraded through the streets of San Pedro in the opening part of the harbor city program.

In Pasadena, San Fernando and other suburban cities similar ceremonies were held and as the sun neared the horizon a reverent gathering of veterans met on Mt. Rubidoux, near Riverside, beside the huge Easter cross, in a service dedicated to peace conducted by Capt. Paul Perigord, veteran of the French armies, who was in charge of the program given by British and Canadian veterans.

The call to peace was sounded promptly at 11 o'clock by more than a score of buglers stationed throughout the city who sounded the notes of Taps. The roar of traffic ceased, pedestrians stopped and everyone paused for a moment as the hour of the signing of the armistice was observed.

At 1:30 o'clock the Armistice Day parade formed in Figueroa street and marched to the Coliseum for the ceremonials which started at 1:45 p.m.

UNITS IN PARADE

The ceremonies were opened by Charles L. Bogue, chairman of the Armistice Day committee. While the huge audience was awaiting the appearance of veterans and R.O.T.C. units, Buck Jones, motion-picture actor, entertained with roping tricks.

A few moments later the parade, led by a contingent of men from the United States Battle Fleet, and a company of Marines, marched by in review. They were followed by Franklin High School Reserve Officers Training Corps and band, Lincoln High School R.O.T.C., Manual Arts R.O.T.C., Los Angeles High School R.O.T.C., Roosevelt High School R.O.T.C., Loyola R.O.T.C., the Los Angeles Fire Department band, Veterans

THOUSANDS MARCH AT SAN PEDRO

First Annual Armistice Fete Brings Plaudits as Cloudless Skies Smile

Cloudless skies smiled on San Pedro's first annual armistice pageant yesterday, which was carried through to a beautiful conclusion under the auspices of the American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce. More than 150 floats paraded and approximately there were 5000 marchers.

Sailors of the United States battle fleet, dispersed in three battalions, were easily the center of interest of all organizations participating in the three-mile parade. Fleet marines and the Third Coast Artillery from Fort MacArthur, likewise highly impressed the thousands lining the line of march from Sixth and Front streets, up Sixth street to the Pacific thence out Pacific avenue to Fort MacArthur at Twenty-fourth street.

Of the many beautiful floats, that of the Elks' Club, symbolizing the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in exceptional floral design and which won the grand prize, together with the Acropolis float entered by the Greek Civic Society, were the outstanding entries from the aesthetic viewpoint. Of spectacular beauty was the float entered by the harbor division of the fire department, representing an anticraft battery in action.

Outstanding ovations along the line of march were accorded the two exmarine and Congressional Medal of Honor men, David E. Hayden of Santa Ana, and William T. Sherman of Pomona, who led the procession.

Dynamite Found Hidden in House

Discovery of fifteen sticks of dynamite in the basement of a house at 614 North Bunker Hill was reported to police last night by George Tomicich, owner of the property.

Capt. Feldts, explosive expert, examined the sticks and decided that they were about seven or eight years old, but still potentially powerful. They were removed to a safe place and detectives are attempting to solve the mystery of their being in the cellar of the Bunker Hill house. Tomicich was unable to shed any light on the case.

DIRECTORS QUIT PLACES

S. F. MacFarlane and W. R. Arnold having resigned from the directorate of the Walnut Park Mutual Water Company, Walter L. Cleveland and Edwin L. Camp have been elected in their places. Thomas M. Casey, L. M. Cole and Victor Girard are other members of the board. Girard organized the company when he subdivided 500 acres of the Cudahy Ranch and built the community of Walnut Park, which now has approximately 10,000 inhabitants.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

OUR idea of romantic drama will have to be revised to meet the standards set by this young lady of Long Beach.

What the fair innamorata is supposed to do while the two swains fight to the death for her favor is to stand wringing her hands on the side lines, and finish by swooning.

This young lady of Long Beach varied the drama. She made a Douglas Fairbanks leap onto the back of the one she did not favor; bore him down in a smothering mud puddle; took his revolver away from him—and made a triumphant exit with the other fellow.

WILD THRILLS! HUH!

Catalina Island is a magic isle as the advertisements say; but my idea of a wild sporting life is not killing Catalina goats.

They are not really wild, anyhow. Some years ago one of the owners of the island let the family billy stray away with his harem; and they have been roaming placidly around the island ever since.

As a hunting thrill it is about as savage and dangerous as going into the back yard and shooting the old family cow.

BLOOD LUST

What is the satisfaction that people find in killing things? Especially harmless animals.

There are plenty of wars going on in various parts of the world. Why don't these bloodthirsty gentlemen with so keen a zest for slaughter kill somebody who can fight back?

MOSLEM MARRIAGES

I have been reading Judge Lindsey's book on "Companionate Marriage."

The idea seems to be that—to be divorced—you have only to take the jane you married back where you found her and tell her to be on her way.

The judge's plan of divorce by "mutual consent" is not a new one; it's the old Moslem divorce with a new attachment.

MOHAMMEDAN? NEVER!

If Judge Lindsey proposes to turn this into a Mohammedan country, with Mohammedan ideals, I shall fight it to the last, for two reasons:

It gives me misery in the knees to sit crosslegged.

And I can't smoke a hookah.

LIKE GUINEA PIGS

Two instances of the new standards of enlightenment are given in Judge Lindsey's book.

One, the case of a couple who lived unhappily until both agreed to have their "affairs" outside the hearth and home as they felt inspired—presumably meeting once in a while to compare notes.

The other the poetic case of a young French husband who was rebuked by his bride and his mother at a dinner party for not paying more attention to his mistress—really neglecting the poor gal.

All of which goes to show that writing books is a terrible habit.

GABBY ADMIRAL

Admiral Magruder has ruined his naval career by talking, too; but it seems not to have taught him anything.

Landed high and dry on the bench where he is to "await orders," the admiral already is making preparations to meet Bertrand Russell in a public debate in New York on the advisability of abolishing navies.

Mr. Russell, being a practiced spellbinder; will prove triumphantly that navies should be abolished—and we will go right on having navies.

WOMAN HELD IN CRASH FATALITY

Companion Killed When Auto Hits Street Car

Police Find Her Hiding in Film Lot Shrubbery

Says Victim's Embrace Caused Accident

Mrs. Genevieve Graves, 38 years of age, 665 North Cahuenga avenue, wife of a Hollywood druggist, was held in the County Jail last night charged with suspicion of manslaughter following an automobile accident yesterday morning in which Gus Houston, 52, quartermaster at the Urban Military Academy, a passenger in the car driven by Mrs. Graves, was killed.

Driving at what was reported to police as a high rate of speed near the intersection of Santa Monica Boulevard and Cherokee avenue, Mrs. Graves crashed into a Pacific Electric freight motor. Houston, who was riding in the front seat with her, was thrown through the windshield by the impact, the broken glass severing his jugular vein and causing death.

FOUND IN SHRUBBERY

When Detective Lieutenants Woodworth and Bucket arrived a few minutes later they found Houston lying dead in a pool of blood in the roadway and the car, without a driver, standing near by.

After search of the neighborhood they reported they found Mrs. Graves behind scenery in a near-by motion-picture studio in a hysterical condition. When she became able to talk she told police that Houston, who is an old friend of the family, had attempted to put his arms around her while she was driving, causing the machine to swerve and strike the street car.

Captain of Detectives Slaughter of the Hollywood division police said he was willing to release Mrs. Graves on her own recognizance pending further investigation by Detective Lieutenants Carmen and Hsek, if consent could be obtained from the District Attorney's office.

FROM BAY CITY

No one from the District Attorney's office could be reached, apparently, for Mrs. Graves remained in custody. Houston, a native of San Francisco, leaves a widow and four children, all of whom reside in that city, with the exception of one son, Donald, who lived with his father in Los Angeles. He had been associated with the Urban school for nearly two years, and had been in military school work for the last eight years.

The body will be taken to San Francisco on Sunday, where services will be conducted Monday.

A date for the inquest to determine responsibility for the accident will be set some time today.

YOUTHFUL DRIVER HELD AS MANSLAUGHTER SUSPECT

Walter Bayard, 18 years of age, was arrested late yesterday at his home, 305 East Laurel avenue, charged with suspicion of manslaughter, following the death of Isaac Viegler, 82, of 1342 Mission Road, who was reported struck by a car driven by Bayard in front of his home Wednesday night. Bayard took the victim to the General Hospital for treatment and left his name and his address, where police arrested him yesterday.

CITY CLUB TOLD WARS MUST STOP

Nathan Newby Hopeful All Lands Will Outlaw Conflict Ultimately

"Peace being universally desirable and essential to humanity's progress, the folly of nations in continuing plans for campaigns of destruction is difficult to understand," said Nathan Newby in an address given yesterday at the City Club.

"If the world could be made to visualize the horrors of war, surely the statesmen of the world could be prevailed upon to find a way to prevent these periodical catastrophes," said Mr. Newby. "I am convinced that ultimately all nations will cooperate in establishing and maintaining the machinery adequate to prevent useless conflict.

"I cannot agree with those who maintain there never has been a good war nor a bad peace, but I do believe that the best that has resulted from the best of wars could have been better accomplished through the right kind of statesmanship. Today it is appropriate for us to offer the brightest blossoms of our thoughts as tributes to the memory of those who sacrificed themselves for their ideals, but we can honor them more by our determination to work ceaselessly for the evolving of a plan which will make future wars unnecessary."

Thirsty Boiler Password Gets Officer Drink

Armed with the precious password, Policeman Harry called inquiringly at 1219 East Seventh street.

"Let's see," mused the law guardian, "I'm supposed to asked, 'Is the boilermaker here?' and then I get the drink."

Accordingly Policeman Harry spoke the magic words as Frank Vincent came to the door and questioned his presence.

"You're the boilermaker, aren't you?" demanded the inquisitive policeman. "You see, my boiler's a little thirsty."

And then Vincent is asserted to have produced a coffee cup full of hisky, followed by the appearance of Policemen Gibson, Payne and Elliott.

Charged with the sale and possession of intoxicants, Vincent pleaded not guilty in Municipal Judge Turney's court and demanded a court trial, which was set for the 22nd inst. The court set bail at $2000 and Vincent was released.

MAINE PICNIC TUESDAY

GOV. HUNT HERE FOR FUNERAL

Arizona Executive Attends Rites for Mrs. McCann; Returned Home Last Night

Gov. Hunt of Arizona visited Los Angeles yesterday to attend the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Virginia Gates McCann, 85 years of age, of 714 West Forty-third street, and returned to the Arizona capital last night.

At the home of friends at 392 South Commonwealth avenue, Gov. Hunt declared that his visit to California had no political significance nor connection with the informal conference here between the lower basin States on the Colorado River problems.

The Arizona executive declined to offer any statements of a political nature, declaring that his informal visit to California was to attend the funeral of Mrs. McCann.

Omar Refuses to Be Classed as Tentmaker

Rumors and reports to the contrary notwithstanding, Omar Murray is not a tentmaker.

"Your honor, I don't even sleep in a tent, let alone make them," Murray exploded when he was brought before Municipal Judge Turney on a charge of possessing a pint of liquor.

The magistrate had commented on the poetic feature of Omar's name as the husky six-footer cowboy offered strenuous objection to being placed in the same category with tentmakers.

Then Attorney George Damon interceded for the unfortunate Omar.

"This man, Your Honor, came to see the bright lights of the city while his herd of cattle was grazing in the Imperial Valley. He earnestly promises never to return to Los Angles again if you will liberate him on this charge."

But the court viewed the proceedings from a different pair of eyes, and sentenced the luckless Omar to jail for five days.

RIVERSIDE PAYS CANADA TRIBUTE

Peace, erected some years ago as a tribute to the efforts of Frank Miller, master of Mission Inn, toward world peace.

Special messages were read from Secretary Wilbur, Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister at Washington; Robert Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia; Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Peace Foundation, and Representative Burton, president of the American Peace Society. The tribute to Canada was presented by Capt. Paul Perigord and the acceptance speech in behalf of the British Empire and Canada was delivered by British Vice-Consul E. H. Davies and N. P. Bisonetter of the French-Canadian Society of Los Angeles.

Proclamations and official messages were read by J. S. Long, commander of the Riverside Post of the Legion. Legion and Canadian officers raised the Canadian flag and the American banner was hoisted by Mayor Jarvis and March Field officers. A pageant depicting the 100 years of peace between the two nations closed the service.

The annual sunset service is a Riverside and Mt. Rubidoux institution, due this year to the efforts of Dewitt Hutchings, of the Mission Inn, who had charge of the program.

Traffic Victim May Not Live

Hurled by the rear steps of a street car directly in the path of an approaching automobile at Sixth and Alvarado streets last night, Miss Barbara Gensley, 45 years of age, a milliner of 453 3-4 East Avenue 28, received injuries which may cause her death.

The woman left the sidewalk in an attempt to board a car after the traffic signals had changed, according to Officer Hahn, who witnessed the accident. Before she could reach it the car had started and, in turning the corner, the end struck Miss Gensley and hurled her in front of a machine driven by Roy C. Bowers of Glendale. She sustained concussion of the brain, possible skull fracture and serious lacerations and bruises. The injured woman was treated at the Hill-street Receiving Hospital and then transferred to General Hospital. No one is held.

SOUL'S DESTINY QUESTIONED

Pastor of Temple Baptist Church Will Preach on "Will We Be Lonely When Dead?"

Mankind manifests temporary interest in many things but the topics of abiding interest are those fundamental questions concerning the Deity and the destiny of humanity, questions which have been constantly asked since first (either at creation or in the course of evolution) self-consciousness dawned upon man. Probably the most fascinating speculations in philosophy and religion concern the soul.

Has man a soul? If so, is it immortal? The answer to the first question is answered in the affirmative by the majority of the world's millions, regardless of religion or creed. Proof may be lacking but the "I" never ceases to assert itself from cradle to grave. The second question also is almost universally answered in the affirmative. These questions will be discussed by Dr. Herbert Booth Smith at the Temple Baptist Church tomorrow evening when he will preach on "Will We be Lonely When Dead, or Shall We Know our Friends in the Future Life?" Dr. Smith also will preach at the Temple Baptist Church in the morning. The pulpit of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, of which Dr. Smith is pastor, will be supplied in the morning by Dr. E. P. Ryland, secretary of the Church Federation, who will discuss "United Protestantism in Los Angeles." At Immanuel Church in the evening Rev. J. A. Leusinger will discuss the question "Does the Church Care for Souls?"

McGROARTY TO SPEAK

"Is God, Manifest in the Flesh, Unthinkable?" is the question to be discussed by Dr. Frank Dyer in his sermon tomorrow morning at the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church. At the Youth Forum, 7:30 p.m. John S. McGroarty will discuss his new drama "Babylon" and will compare the wicked city of 500 B. C. with saintly Los Angeles. The public is invited.

TO SPEAK FOR KHJ

Dr. H. C. Culbertson, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church, will preach on "The Moral Greatness of God" at 10 a.m tomorrow at The Times broadcasting station. Dr. Culbertson will return to his church in time to conduct the regular morning service. At Plymouth Church in the evening, Dr. John G. Hill of the University of Southern California will give an address and will present a motion picture entitled "A Trip Through Palestine."

SIDES WITH LINDSEY

"I am 100 per cent for Judge Lindsey," declares Rev. Theodore C. Abel, minister of the Unitarian Society of Hollywood, who will speak on "Why I Believe in Companionate Marriage" tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Hollywood Playhouse. At 10 a.m. Mr. Abel will address the Bible Critics Class on the topic "Is Man Hopelessly Wicked?"

"LAW ENFORCEMENT"

"What I learned as Police Commissioner" is the subject of an address to be given by Dr. S. T. Montgomery at 10 a.m. next Monday at the meeting of the Presbyterian Ministers' Association on the eighth floor of the Men's Building, Bible Institute. Councilman Randall will speak on "Law Enforcement."

VETERANS INVITED

Reserved seats for veterans of all wars have been provided for the services at the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning when Dr. Hugh K. Walker will preach on "This Old World—a Paradise for Cowards or a Training School for Heroes?" The Honor Roll of First Church members who served in the World War will be called, the Service Flag unfurled, and patriotic hymns rendered by congregation and choir. In the evening Dr. Graham C. Hunter will speak on "Lights and Shadows in Eastern Europe."

"WHAT AILS THE CHEST"

"Why all this racket about tenmarriages? What ails the Community Chest? Is Henry Ford a blessing to the motor industry?" These are among the questions to be discussed by Dr. Lloyd C. Douglas in his sermon tomorrow evening at the First Congregational Church. In the morning Rev. George . Miller, will speak on "America's Golden Rule Children."

"BOY WHO MADE GOOD"

A Father and Son service will be conducted at the Rosewood Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow evening when Dr. Isaac Harper, the pastor, will speak on "The Boy Who Made Good." At the morning hour Mrs. C. M. Nesly supply secretary of the Women's Home Missionary Society, will speak on "Home Missions."

FIRST METHODIST

Two prominent university men will supply the pulpit of the First Methodist Church tomorrow in the absence of Dr. E. E. Helms, who is in New York. Dr. F. P. Woellner of the State University will preach in the morning, and Dr. Bruce Baxter of the University of Southern California will be the speaker in the evening. Excellent musical programs have been prepared for the two services.

"CHRIST CRUCIFIED"

Rev. Immanuel Gittell, a Hebrew Christian, will preach on "Christ Crucified" tomorrow evening at the Hebron Community Center, Winter and Evergreen streets. This will be the first of a series of Hebrew Christian gospel services to be conducted at that location on Sunday evenings. The public is invited.

DR. JOHN McNEILL

The first anniversary of his pastorate of the Church of the Open Door, Bible Institute, will be celebrated by Dr. John McNeill and his congregation tomorrow. Dr. McNeill will preach in the morning and evening. Next Wednesday evening Dr. Charles E. Hurlburt, superintendent of the Bible Institute, will discuss "Unevangelized Africa."

"MEASURE OF A MAN"

Prof. G. J. Holwerda will preach on "The Measure of a Man" at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the services of All Souls' Church at the Belasco Theater. The doors will open at 10:30 a.m. Otto Ploetz will be the soloist of the day.

"THE ASTRAL BODY"

A fre electure on "The Astral Body" will be given by a prominent member of the Rosicrucian Brotherhood at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Amore headquarters in Symphony Hall. The public is invited.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Churches of Christ, Scientist, in Los Angeles, branches of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, the morning services are conducted at 11 a.m. and many of the churches repeat the Sunday services at 8 p.m. The subject of the lesson-sermon tomorrow is "Mortals and Immortals," with the following golden text: "Forsake the foolish and live; and go in the way of understanding." (Proverbs 9:6.) On Wednesday evening all of these churches conduct meetings at which testimonies of Christian Science healing are given.

"SOUL'S SECRET DOOR"

A series of Sunday evening lectures, free to the public, at the Music Art Hall, was announced yesterday by Swami Paramananda, head of Ananda-Achrama. The subject for tomorrow morning at St. Alban's Pro-Cathedral. In the evening Rev. John H. Stearns will discuss "Healing of the Soul."

Olivet Community Church, Rev. W. H. Hopkins, pastor. Morning and evening services will be conducted.

First Baptist Church, Dr. J. A. Francis, pastor. Morning topic, "The Greatest Missionary Message Before Christ Came;" evening, "Dogs and Crumbs."

Following is a list of Lutheran churches of Los Angeles, the names of the pastors and their sermon topics for tomorrow: Bethany, Rev. George Witte; 10:30 a.m., "Forgiving." Highland Park, Rev. W. G. Roehle; 11 a.m., "If You Would Follow Christ;" 7:30 p.m., "What of Spiritualism?" First Lutheran of Eagle Rock, Rev. L. Faulstich; 11 a.m., "What Should Induce Us to be Zealous in the Cause of Missions?" Fifth Avenue, Rev. E. T. Cuyner in charge; mission celebration, 11 a.m. Rev. Herbert O. Michel of Covina; 3 p.m., Rev. J. H. Schlichting of Pasadena. Wilshire-La Brea, Rev. Daniel Cuyner; evening, "Christ and the Practical Man." El Sereno, Rev. Daniel Cuyner; 10:45 a.m., "Christ and Peter." First Lutheran, Culver City, Rev. E. T. Cuyner; 9:45 a.m., "God's Promises."

Dr. Hunt to Give Migration Talk

New views on one of the greatest of human migrations will be presented by Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt, dean of the University of Southern California, in his lecture, "The Westward Movement and the Pacific Ocean," at the Southwest Museum, Highland Park, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Although the westward movement ordinarily is conceived as practically terminated by the settlement of California during the gold rush and subsequent improvement of western lands, Dean Hunt sees it as a huge progressive development still going on and destined to continue moving forward for many years.

A lecture by Dr. A. L. Kroeber of the University of California, previously announced for tomorrow, has been postponed until January 15, 1928. Dr. Kroeber will speak on "Prehistoric Peru."

Cooking Class Hour Advanced

Mrs. Mae Cummings will hold her demonstration and cooking class in the Manufacturers' Exhibit Monday at 1:30 p.m., instead of at 2 o'clock, in the new kitchen on the third floor. The change in hour is because of the earlier darkness of winter.

Mrs. Wyman's class, now to be held Tuesdays and Fridays, also will begin at 1:30 o'clock. Entrance to each is on the third floor by elevator.

CHIROPRACTORS MEET TODAY

Chiropractors of Southern California will meet this evening at Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street, to discuss proposed amendments to the present Chiropractic Act. Members of the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners are expected to be present.

CHURCH NOTES

"A Love Story" is the subject of a sermon to be preached by Rev. J. W. MacCollom tomorrow evening at the Pico Heights Congregational Church. Rev. J. M. Schaefe will preach in the morning on "Fathers and Sons."

Rev. Ben Bendelow will preach on "Putty and Personality" tomorrow morning at the Vermont Square Methodist Church. The topic for evening is "Bringing Up Father."

"The God of Christian Science" will be discussed by Rev. E. Burdette Backus tomorrow morning at the First Unitarian Church. The subject for evening is "The First Bible."

A day of prayer and fasting will be observed tomorrow by members of the Highland Park Christian Church. In the evening a motion picture of the Near East will be shown.

Gospell Hall, 1235 West Jefferson street, Christians gathered unto the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ. Services will be conducted in the morning and evening.

RADIO KHJ SOLD TO DON LEE

and prosper as Los Angeles has grown and prospered.

"The ownership of a high-powered radio station and the license of the United States government to operate it constitutes a public obligation which we fully recognize and I promise you we will live up to our obligation.

"A radio station such as KHJ is of immeasurable value to the community. The first object, of course, is to provide entertainment, but that entertainment must be of a character that will be welcomed into the homes. It must be wholesome and of such a nature as to appeal sometimes to the desires for a simple tune and again to the lover of all that is best and most inspiring in music.

"But to be of greatest value to a community a radio station cannot be devoted solely to entertainment. We must strive for the advancement for public education and religions of all denominations. The new ownership KHJ pledges itself to the maintenance of this long-continued policy. KHJ stands at all times ready and anxious to co-operate with programs for the advancement of public interests, to aid in worthy charities, to work with our city, State and national governments and further the interests of art, literature, music and community betterment."

HISTORY OF KHJ

KHJ went on the air April 13, 1922, with 100-watt transmitter which in November of that year was replaced by a 500-watt Western Electric transmitter, the first station of this capacity west of Kansas City. It was the pioneer newspaper station of the West and the first to broadcast definite programs of news, educational matter, entertainment and other features. All broadcast in Los Angeles prior to the advent of KHJ was confined almost entirely to phonograph records.

The initial program of KHJ presented two grand opera stars, James W. Foley, poet, and instrumentalists. From that day forward an open forum, good-will policy has been tenaciously maintained by this station, which is known as Kindness, Happiness and Joy. It has been strictly noncommercial and not a dollar has ever been asked or accepted by The Times for the use of the station. It is probably the only broadcast station in the United States today which can make this claim. While KHJ was the first to present sponsored programs, all the money paid by sponsors was in turn paid to the artists and entertainers who presented the programs. On April 1, 1926, the sponsored programs were discontinued and since then the station has been operated entirely at the expense of The Times.

KHJ is internationally known for the standard of its broadcast and its unequivocal policy of operating as a noncommercial, nonpolitical and nonsectarian institution. Allied to its first duty as a newspaper in the dissemination of news, carefully prepared resumes of world events have formed a prominent part of its programs. Augmenting this, service has been given to the public in the matter of weather reports, frost reports, agricultural and stock-market developments, shipping news and pertinent data to commercial developments.

Twenty-five chambers of commerce representing the leading cities of Southern California have used KHJ and its studio for the presentation of good-will programs carrying the message from their various communities. The police and fire department, Sheriff's office, Automobile Club of Southern California, and other quasi-public institutions have found in KHJ an open forum through which to reach the public.

KHJ is famous for its children's hour, which has been maintained from its inception. The station holds a record for continuous dissemination of educational matter—American history, science, health service, home economics, home gardening, etc. It also holds the world record for continuous broadcast, established by an unbroken program lasting 150 hours and nineteen minutes, during the Shrine convention in Los Angeles in 1926.

No change will be made in the location or hours of the station for the present.

ARMISTICE PROGRAM

Elks Organist to be Assisted by Blind Baritone

A special Armistice Day program will be presented tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the vesper recital of Sibley G. Pease, resident organist of the Elks Temple, opposite Westlake Park, assisted by Earl C. Houk, baritone.

Mr. Houk will sing "The Americans Come," the theme of which is an episode in France in the year 1918, when a blinded Frenchman asks his son of the rejoicing and is told the Americans have come. Mr. Houk is well known as the blind baritone.

Patriotic organizations of Los Angeles are invited to attend this program and those asked include the Women's Relief Corps, G.A.R., Sons of Veterans, Daughters of the Revolution and Gold Star Mothers.

DON'T BELIEVE IT!

Religion is not dying out; it is being BORN AGAIN. Tradition, dogma and shibboleths are failing, but not religion. The Rock of Ages is not crumbling. Just the old relics and waterlogged driftwood are being swept away. And there, an Eternal Refuge, stands the Rock of Ages, clearer than ever in the sunlight of God's love.

Renew your faith. Think things through. Be honest with your heart. Here is ONE INSPIRING WEEK you should not miss. Stirring addresses by Dr. Sheldon Shepard, modern "Defender of the Faith." You don't often have a chance just like this. Every nite at 7:45, except Mon. and Sat. Come Sunday nite and see what a glorious thing the broad-minded, big-hearted modern religion is under the fire of a warm evangel. Are you getting all you might out of life? Is God a near and available reality for you? Wed. night a copy of Dr. Shepard's book, "Poems of Mastery," free. Fri. Get-Acquainted social after service. A week to be remembered. WARNING

A tourist in San Francisco says his funds are in a lost airplane. And no doubt they are. The professional borrowers are going to have a fine new alibi, folks.

COMPETITION

The last male stronghold has been invaded by woman. A competent music authority awarded the prize for the best tenor voice to a woman, competing against ten professional male tenors.

BREAD AND CHEESE AND KISSES

There was a time in New England, so it is said, when a man could not kiss his wife on Sunday; now he may not buy her a loaf of bread on the Sabbath in Boston. When are they going to put a ban on cheese?

THE WOMAN PAYS

Woman who drew her life savings from the bank and gave the dough to her lover to invest for their future now has neither money nor sweetheart. But she fortunately clung to her job and may save for the next adventure.

HARD-BOILED TEARS

We take it all back. At times we have imagined that the telegraph desk was the gathering place for a pretty unsentimental crew. But the dispatch about the funeral of Spider Kelly was headed: "Kingdom Weeps at Kelly Bier."

SHE MIGHT LIKE IT

Pennsylvania is excited because student vandals painted a statue of Lafayette in Easton. There's no excuse for painting a real man's statue, boys. If you feel you must do it, it would be more in keeping to paint some lady's.

LIBERAL MR. ANDREW

A. Piatt Andrew, Congressman from Massachusetts, is flooding the country with copies of his speeches favoring the cancellation of our French war loans. Of course Mr. Andrew burns before maturity all the promissory notes he happens to hold.

CATS IN SOCIETY

Paris has a new magazine, The Feline World, devoted exclusively to cats. It publishes short stories, verse, announcements of weddings, births and deaths among the four-footed furred pets, and even has a cat society page. One had heard of cats in society before, but generally speaking they were not quadrupeds.

NOT IN JAPAN

Bolshevists may celebrate the tenth anniversary of sovietism all they please in their own country, and carry their festivities through the whole of November as they propose, but they can do nothing of the sort in Japan, where they are being jailed for their ceremonial demonstrations. It would take a powerful microscope to detect anything in their history that's worth celebrating anyway.

WITH OR WITHOUT

For 200 or 300 years we have heard that "The man who hath no music in his soul is fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils," and, by implication, that a music lover was exempt from them; but the diabolic strategems of the Arabian bandit who kidnaped the two French youths and then demanded a phonograph and three dozen records as part of the spoil, throws considerable doubt on the poet's declaration.

POETS ON THE PAY ROLL

Denmark is so appreciative of poets that it has put them on the civil list, with regular salaries from the government. This gives a good many Danes a strong incentive to commit poetry. From the American editor's point of view the pity of it is that a strict protective system for native poets prevails in Denmark, otherwise there might be hope of our losing a few battalions of budding bards now bombarding editorial offices with love-and-dove verse and odes and sonnets to almost everything.

OPERA FOR AMERICANS

The movement for the translation of all the big operas into English, and to require all artists to sing them in that tongue before American audiences, will be considered as folly by high-brow critics. Nevertheless, it might aid marvelously in arousing the average American to a love of great music. When it comes to him masked in Italian, French or German he is afraid of it. He is beyond his depth and nobody will throw him a life preserver. Of course the great singers would say that it is impossible to get voice, soul and action into other than the original tongue, but if much real money is to be had by those who can put grand opera into the heart of America the singers will find themselves competent for the change. The Italians translate the French and German operas into their own tongue for their home audiences. Our language may not be as musical, but we might make a stab at it. If Americans could enter the operahouse understandingly they might turn from the boisterous thralldom of jazz.

THE WATTERSON VERDICT

The verdict of the Inyo county jury finding W. W. Watterson and Mark Q. Watterson guilty of thirty-six counts of embezzlement, grand theft and making false bank reports was a foregone conclusion, since in Owens Valley civic responsibilities are taken seriously by all but a small minority and an oath is an oath. Evidently these wreckers of their community's financial structure hoped that among the twelve who sat in judgment upon them would be found one or more who would disregard plain duty, or they would have thrown themselves upon the mercy of the court at once. But the jurors, faced with a black record of broken faith and betrayal, had but one thing to do and did it.

Now that it is established with all solemnity that these trusted leaders were, in fact, looters whose predatory acts made victims even of their best friends, Owens Valley is in a position to weigh, for the first time, the part which the city of Los Angeles has played in the recent history of that locality. The propaganda which for years has been directed against the city is now shown not only to have been financed by stolen money, but to have been motivated by the necessity the Wattersons had of covering up their own criminal acts. Their last defiant gesture was the posting of notice on the doors of the banks they had plundered, making another wholly false accusation against the city that it was the cause of the ruin. This poison spring is now dried up, and two communities will be the healthier for it.

That the city made mistakes in dealing with some of the Owens Valley people there is no doubt. Insufficient allowance was made in some cases for intangible losses due to the purchase of surrounding lands and loss of population because of the city's policy; there may even have been instances of improper pressure and sharp practice. It would be remarkable if there were not. But such things have to be judged by averages. In the main, the city dealt fairly; for the overwhelming majority of the lands and water rights it acquired it paid far more than the market price, and Owens Valley would be the last to deny that in many cases Los Angeles was gouged. It is now clear that the instances in which Owens Valley folk were worsted were picked up and exaggerated by the Wattersons for a sinister purpose. A long series of reckless speculations with other people's money had brought the brothers face to face with bankruptcy and exposure, and they pinned their last hope to an effort to blackmail the city out of enough to make good their defalcation. The effort, it must be said, came near to success.

So long as it was believed that the Wattersons were working unselfishly for the good of the community, they were supported by men who could not approve all of their methods. Now that it is known they were working only for themselves, the passion and prejudice which prevented a settlement of outstanding differences will be stilled, and the way is cleared for the consideration of all claims upon their merits.

Such a settlement will be a good thing not only for Los Angeles and Owens Valley, but for the whole State of California, since the lethal-gas attack of these would-be extortioners reached even the floor of the Legislature. It will lead to better understanding between all cities and all rural communities.

For pushing through with vigor and ability a prosecution which clears the good name of Los Angeles, Dist.-Atty. Heaston of Inyo county deserves high praise. His task was made more difficult by the fact that he was the Wattersons' personal counsel and had been for years their intimate friend. For expediting the trial with wise and sensible rulings, Judge Robert Lambert also should be commended. The power placed in his hands by the changes in the criminal code was well used by him and was found to be a saver of time and expense.

The worst crime of the Watterson brothers was one the law could not reach, the bringing to poverty and want of hundreds of hardworking people who had placed in them complete trust. The $800,000 shortage in the five banks the Wattersons controlled represented far more than a corresponding amount in Los Angeles, for it was all the Owens Valley people had. They had ventured their entire welfare upon the belief that two individuals were honest, and the betrayal of that confidence will go far to shake the faith of these people in human nature. The lowest form of thievery is to prey upon the savings of widows and the pennies of school children.

SUCCESSFUL FILM ENTERTAINMENT

Again has the public demonstrated its approval of the better class of motion pictures. During its presentation in Hollywood over a six-month period "The King of Kings," Cecil B. De Mille's film of the life of Christ, was seen by approximately 600,000 persons. On the showing made here, this significant picture is justly acclaimed one of the screen's greatest successes, for Hollywood more often than not is the barometer of the world's acceptance of the studio creation.

There are only a few other pictures that have equalled the record made here by "The King of Kings." One of these was De Mille's other biblical spectacle, "The Ten Commandments" and another, "The Covered Wagon." Both were splendid and enthralling productions, and in their appeal to audiences were exemplary of the finest and broadest taste of this community, as they have been also in other communities where they evinced a similar hold on the people, even as will the interpretation of the Christ story.

It is virtually always this type of entertainment (if one may use the word entertainment in referring to a portrayal of the gospel narrative) for the pleasure and also the enlightenment of the theatergoer that triumphs. One questions why motion-picture producers do not make more such films, even as one wonders why so few plays of like merit are found nowadays upon the stage of the spoken drama.

As a listing of the real successes of the films will prove there is hardly a single motion picture that has gained great favor with all classes of people but has told some ennobling and elevating story. To explain the three already mentioned is indicative—

In "The Ten Commandments" it was the Mosaic law perpetuated to the present day in its power and meaning for all mankind that was brought before the popular vision.

In "The Covered Wagon" it was an idealization of the pioneer spirit that has caused men to conquer the remote places of the earth and provide for the homes and happiness of new generations that captured the imagination.

In "The King of Kings" it was the greatest narrative of all that has already won the respect and admiration of thousands upon tens of thousands—a narrative that inevitably awakens in men's minds and hearts a new reverence with its drama, its beauty and its undying inspiration.

A CRIMINAL IN EVERY CAR

Not all the criminals are in San Quentin. Not all are burglarizing the town. The largest aggregation of law-breakers is found on wheels out on the highways. What driver will stand up and swear that he does not break the law daily?

How many slow down to fifteen miles an hour at an intersection? How many drive slowly past a school-house? How many maintain a twenty-mile speed limit in the suburbs? Is it an overstatement that there is a criminal in every car?

At an intersection a motorist gives you a close shave and snorts as he vanishes, "I had the right of way!" You glare and inform the other occupants of your car, "The right of way to ——!" You both arrive and have little to do when you get there.

A pedestrian is against all automobilists and consigns them to perdition. A driver passes on each jaywalker as he encounters them. Even when a motorist walks it changes his psychology toward the man in a car and when a walker rides he forthwith becomes an enthusiast against all men afoot. They are obstructors of progress.

The monologues of drivers are frequently fascinating, but usually unprintable. Even the most idealistic characters slip into abandon of expression against other motorists. They often tell the truth about some of the best citizens also. If the comments of chauffeurs could be sent to the proper parties, it might help the cause.

A big horn squalling behind does not increase piety. It often advances the speedometer. And when a little wheezy car with the big voice goes by, the unutterable contempt that follows scorches the scenery.

Motor Register has analyzed the 23,000 deaths by accident of 1926. The various causes assigned for these are: Fast driving, carelessness or inattention, child darting in front, pedestrians crossing, walking along road, right of way, confused operator, cutting in ahead, obstructed view, intoxication, skidding, inexperience, defective brakes.

As may be seen, but one of these cases is the fault of the car itself. All others were preventable.

Workmen seek a five-day week, and yet most of our car massacres occur on Sunday or the week-end. Another day of nothing to do and our graveyards will be fatter and our jails bursting.

The remedy lies along two ways, thinks Edward Weeks in the Atlantic Monthly: We may popularize safety and increase the severity of penalty.

Revocation of license stops crime in cars. Twenty-four thousand licenses will be revoked in this country this year. This is the great cure of repeaters.

A real motor age can exist only among gentlemen. If every driver were compelled to play golf and learn the rules of thinking of the other fellow, the criminal in every car might be abolished.

MEXICAN LABOR

The whole Southwest, and Arizona in particular, has keen interest in the labor-union insistence on limitation of Mexican immigration. Drawers of water and hewers of wood are getting to be distressingly few in number. The aristocracy of labor, elsewhere than along the international line, is seeing in the Mexican cholo a menace that is actually nonexistent.

Either the cotton farmer gets his staple picked at a low cost, or he cannot grow any staple at all. If he pays 1½ cents a pound, it is for seed and all, and it takes about 1700 pounds of seed cotton to make a 500-pound bale of lint. Here is one industry that cannot be machined. Negroes don't pick cotton in Arizona—they prefer to work in garages. A few Indians get into the fleecy fields—but precious few. Some of the Indians have cotton fields of their own, and they like to rest between crops.

There are canals to be dug, dams to be built, roads to be constructed, railroads to be kept up, lettuce and cantaloupes to be thinned and picked, timber must be cut and worked into lumber and stacked, and, of very material importance, there must be appreciation that the old-time miner is passing and must be replaced. He has gone into the high-wage cities and the Arizona mines now, perforce, must hire and train Mexicans to fill the places vacated. In this last capacity the Mexican does very well, for he often comes from Mexican mining regions where silver has been produced since the days of Cortez. Arizona mines are running at about two-thirds capacity and still have no oversupply of labor, Mexican or otherwise. Incidentally, few of the mines are more than marking time, financially.

All in all, there must be appreciation of the fact that if the Mexican laborer is kept out, American industry will be hurt and not upraised.

THOMPSON AND TRUTH

If Mayor Thompson's America First Foundation succeeds in obtaining a true American history for $10,000, it will have purchased the biggest bargain ever recorded. The criteria by which truth is to be judged are not announced, which is a pity; they alone would be worth, if anything, considerably more than $10,000. Though the foundation has been organized only a few days, it is quite possible that it has been able to acquire some magic spectacles or infallible touchstone which will inevitably distinguish verity, though such a device has been sought for ages in vain. But when Mayor Thompson of Chicago starts after results he gets results, of one sort or another, so it is a safe bet that the America First Foundation will either get a true American history or something it will consider as good or better.

The Thompsonites—though they doubtless would deny it until it was explained to them—are pragmatists and will escape any academic difficulties. They will use the only workable definition of truth that has ever been phrased—that truth is what one prefers to believe.

And why not? Is not the cherry-tree story about George Washington just as inspiring to the youth of the land as if the incident had really happened?

THE BUGGY RIDE

Only 8000 buggies were made in this country last year. During the previous year more than 20,000 were created. Here is an industry—once of vast proportions, but now passing completely from the picture. And speaking of pictures, that is where the buggies are found. Many of them are used in movie stories which deal with other days. There are now millions of girls who never had a buggy ride. They would give thanks for one—from its sheer novelty. Yet there was a time when the Sunday buggy ride sent a romantic thrill down the maidenly spine.

DIVORCE CARDS

Those who have received engraved announcements sent to friends by the principals in a recent Paris divorce may readily expect that the idea will extend. A French divorce is a rather quiet affair and one's friends may be slow in learning of the separation unless an official tip is given. Possibly a divorce announcement is as justly warranted as one of a wedding, but it might as well be understood that no presents are expected.

THE PORCUPINE

By James J. Montague

The porcupine can see no good
In other creatures of the wood.

When sniff or fall or foot he hears
He makes himself a ball of spears

With which to jab them if they seek
In common friendliness to speak,

No pals has he among the brutes
Which follow various pursuits

To make an honest livelihood
Along the trails that thread the wood.

No other creature cares to know
A varmint which distrusts them so;

He will not pass the time of day
Or greet them in a kindly way,

But nurses sinister designs
To stick their noses with his spines.

Yet rabbits, which are friendly folk
And wear no rough and spiny cloak

Are often on the bill of fare
In many a wolf's and fox's lair

And squirrels, whose hearts are full of cheer
But briefly tarry on this sphere.

Though he is full of hate and spite
Perhaps the porcupine is right!

A DAILY DIARY

BY LEE SHIPPEY

What's the matter with Ourville? It's an ideal place to live in, and has an exceptionally fine lot of people, and is very progressive. And yet—

Ourville prides itself on being different from towns its size back East. It isn't a gossipy, narrow little town. People here mind their own business and leave other people's strictly alone. And that's just the trouble.

It isn't lack of pettiness which keeps us from gossiping, it's lack of human interest. We don't care enough about each other. We'll boost any public movement which is going to make business better or property more valuable, but we don't really care about each other. Most of our citizens have made their money elsewhere, and came here to live retired and aloof. They don't want to be called on for any kind of public service, don't want to get interested in any public movement, would rather not stand out as men on whom the community can rely for anything except donations, don't want to be interested in any but their own immediate concerns. And so they are letting their lives grow a little barren.

And I believe the trouble with Ourville is the trouble with many another small California town.

Back in Kansas, for example, every small town has its local heroes, men in whom the whole community takes pride. California is full of brilliant men, but what small city or town takes the same pride in one of them that Emporia, Kan., takes in William Allen White, or Atchison, Kan., takes in Ed Howe, or Columbia, Mo., takes in Walter Williams? The answer may be San Gabriel, in the interest it takes in John McGroarty. But can you think of another? In the tiny town of Americus, Kan., is one of the dinkiest papers in the country. Yet its editor has a quaint, original way of writing, and all Americus is proud of him. Because of that pride, all Kansas has grown proud of him, too, as "one of ours." Can you match that in California, for either native or adopted son?

BE CAREFUL!

By The Foothill Philosopher

I stood on the street corner at twilight. My arms were folded and I think my soul was flirting with an evening star. Anyway, I wasn't saying anything nor doing anything. A policeman passed me two or three times, each time eyeing me with apparent suspicion.

'Now, I don't look like a bold man so he must have known I wasn't bad. Decent folk are harmless and policemen know it. Since I knew I didn't look saintly enough to inspire resentment, I wondered what the "cop" imagined. Then it struck me: he suspected me of thinking, and thinkers are a menace to themselves and to society.

Certainly the officer was mistaken, for I doubt if I would be capable of thinking, even if there were no automobiles, radios, electric lights or flappers. However, the officer was not a psychologist, and, in his ignorance he started leisurely toward me—and I walked away from that place.

A word to the injudicious should be sufficient. Use your mind if you will and if you can, but never be so foolish as to allow anyone to suspect that you are guilty of thinking.

One more word. Even when alone, try to be moderate in your philosophical speculations if you wish to preserve that sanity which society expects of those who live among their fellow-beings. Of course, if you don't like people—if they remind you too much and too often of those appearances you dislike in yourself—probably the quickest way out is to begin to think, and to allow yourself to get caught at it.

Good Work

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] During the years that I have lived in Los Angeles county I have heard so much criticism of the police authorities that I would like to report the following incident.

Two weeks ago I informed the Sheriff's substation at Alhambra that my residence in Pasadena had been entered and robbed. Within a few days I was informed that a suspect had been arrested and today I am told that the complete list of articles stolen has been recovered with the exception of a few dollars in silver. I would also like to say that the two deputies who handled the case appeared to me to be extremely courteous and efficient officers. The whole affair strikes me as very prompt work and equal to the best that could be found anywhere.

D. J. TEVIOTDALE.

For Welfare Work

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Disabled Veterans of the World War, Inc., have inaugurated a welfare industries department to their home and service station at 246 South Hill street, this city.

Several trucks are available for the gathering of old clothing and cast-off household waste.

May we have your help in getting this before the public. A call to the secretary at TUcker 7042 by any citizen who wishes to help the disabled in the program of rehabilitation of World War disabled will bring further information, and should they have anything they would like to give we shall be glad to send a truck to gather up what ever is given.

W. W. BROWN,

The Timely Freak

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There seems always to be some sort of an outstanding oddity springing up in this country. When I was a young fellow George Francis Train got on the front page frequently. Then came Carrie Nation, she of the well-groomed and ferocious hatchet; then Sockless Jerry Simpson, who "thought the Goddess of Liberty surmounting the Capitol dome at Washington was the effigy of a man carrying the hod;" then Lew Shanks, Mayor of Indianapolis, of potato fame, who broke into vaudeville. Now comes Big Bill Thompson of Chicago. He and his rough riders are in their last desperate stand against King George. It is doubtful if King George knows anything about it. But what's the difference? It helps to get Bill before the public. We licked England a couple of times. Now, what fn blazes does Bill want to stir up another racket for? Isn't it about time for English-speaking people to quit making faces at each other? E. M. B.

Ends Won't Meet

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the letter of J. P. W. of this morning's paper he surely voices the anxieties of a great many people of Los Angeles and community. After many years of hard work and economy, we secured a little home. Then my husband died, leaving me with the home, and what I thought was enough for me to live on if handled wisely. But I, too, am past the earning age, live on very little, and begin to wonder how long I will be able to keep my roof over my head when so much has to be handed over for taxes and assessments. It surely seems to me that the system is entirely wrong.

Through Dark Glasses

LONG BEACH, Nov. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Judge Burnell is right. The auto and movie are here to stay. This is another, and wholly different age. Home is simply a place to sleep and eat, and will so remain. Note the divorces, then consider the number who want to, ought to, and will separate. Why, you have five-year marriage right now, right here.

Besides do you wish laws that will release a movie star at will and hold unhappy mates, because they are less brazen, or more considerate? Just study the records as Judge Burnell knows them, and be convinced. To me it seems a sad, dark future. Almost 100 per cent progress in civilization, excepting that one greatest bulwark of social happiness—the home. Are we really progressing forward, or toward the apes?

ELMER ELLSWORTH.

ALIENS WORSHIPPED IN U. S.

There is an all-too-current American practice of kowtowing to foreigners. According to our loud-voiced foreign critics, the average American is a self-assertive, pushing sort of fellow. But we are altogether too inclined to bow low before anything or anybody—provided it or he comes to us from overseas.

One can understand our rubbernecking when Queen Marie goes by, or Renfrew, as our papers like to familiarly to describe the Prince of Wales. After all, our own blooded swells are dubious, our great folk lack the je ne sais quoi of authentic royalty. For demonstration purposes, therefore, for sheer display of social altitude, shaking hands with Edison or dancing at the Wayside Inn with Ford leave something to be desired. But the same sort of obeisance takes place in the presence of untitled foreigners, of mere writers and lecturers, who, corpuscularly speaking, are no better than Mr. John Doe.

What I am thinking of, though, is our disposition to give a hearing over and over again to foreigners who have nothing to say and who say it ill.—[Forum.

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason
DAILY COMFORTS
We take our comforts day by day, and give them little thought; but if by chance they're driven away, we're certainly distraught. My good old car is on a strike, it does not choose to choo; and wearily along the pike my errands I pursue. I push myself a half a mile and think it is a league, and as I drill in single file, I'm grouchy with fatigue. It seems to spend a half a day to go around a block, and I am yearning for my dray, for my old four-wheeled crock. It takes three hours to make a trip that seemed no trip at all, before my auto lost its grip and leaned against the wall. And when I've journeyed to the store, and to the county jail, my feet are so excessive sore the anguish makes me wail. And I'll have spoiled a pair of boots and worn out seven socks before again my motor toots and chugs and chugs and knocks. I read by the electric light, which dissipates the gloom, and it is fine and clean and bright, and has no smoke or fume. And seldom do I think how blest the modern race is, of such a glowing light possessed, while evening mosquitoes whiz. And then some night the light goes out, and all my joints decamps, and I go wandering about in search of coal oil lamps. And when I find them they are worse than darkness, so it seems, and denounce, in prose and verse, each prehistoric schemes. And so it is with countless thing the kindly gods have brought; until a blessing spreads its wings, we give it little thought.

Plaza Union Depot Battle Considered as Won

Prepared to wage the battle of the people of Los Angeles for a modern, adequate union passenger station in the Plaza-Civic Center area, as twice ordered by the California Railroad Commission and approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission two years ago, City Attorney Stephens left last night over the Southern Pacific to appear before the Federal commission to ask the final necessary order directing the railroads to build the station.

"I feel confident," said Mr. Stephens before getting aboard the train, "that victory is in sight and that the people will win their many years' battle for a union passenger station worthy of Los Angeles. The people by their votes last year declared in favor of the Plaza area project, and the California Commission twice has decided in favor of the station. The Interstate Commerce Commission in 1925, while finding that public necessity and convenience required the construction of the Plaza area structure, held that the California Railroad Commission first should issue a definite decision on the subject. This the California commission did on July 8, last, and then the City of Los Angeles asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for the necessary order directing the railroads to build the passenger station in the Plaza area.

FOR FINAL ORDER

"The hearing in Washington next Thursday before the Interstate Commerce Commission is for the purpose of laying before the commission the final verbal arguments in the case. We are most hopeful of an early favorable decision and order from the Federal Commission," said the official.

City Attorney Stephens will be joined in Washington by Max Thelen, former president of the California Railroad Commission, and the city's special counsel, who long has been associated with City Attorney Stephens in battling the railroads on behalf of the union station. The California Railroad Commission will be represented at the hearings by Chief Counsel Carl I. Wheat, who will set forth to the commission the California Railroad Commission's consistent position in favor of the Plaza union depot. Railroad attorneys will attend the hearing to resist the granting of the order applied for by the city. The hearing is expected to last at least two days.

The Federal commission has before it briefs filed by the city and the railroads for both sides of the case and the purpose of the verbal arguments is to supplement the arguments set forth in these briefs. Should the Interstate Commerce Commission issue the necessary order, as is expected in view of the commission's decision of 1925, the only appeal left for the railroads is to the court, resisting the authority of the commission or any one else to order the railroads to build a union station in Los Angeles. It is possible that the railroads, realizing that their opposition is hopeless in view of court and commission decisions against them, may accept the order of the commission and prepare plans for the depot.

Attorneys familiar with the case have declared that should the Federal commission issue the union depot order it is unthinkable that the courts would hold that no one in the United States, not even the Interstate Commerce Commission or the courts, has the authority to order the railroads to build a union depot where these commissions have found that public necessity and convenience require this facility.

Foreshadowing a possible surrender by the railroads if the Interstate Commerce Commission issues the union depot order, railroad witnesses at the California commission hearings last summer admitted that railroad engineers were at work in the Plaza area making surveys for the possible selection of a union depot site.

BRIEF ALREADY

Before starting for Washington, City Attorney Stephens completed and forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission the city's reply brief in the Plaza case. The city and the railroads filed briefs several weeks ago and the city's reply brief is in answer to arguments made by the railroads in their brief recently filed with the commission.

In the reply brief, City Attorney Stephens said:

"The carriers (railroads) have shifted their ground on the subject of this commission's power and authority. In resisting the order of the California Railroad Commission the carriers insisted before the California Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of the United States that full power and authority had been conferred upon the Interstate Commerce Commission. Before this commission the railroads now contend that such power and authority do not vest in this commission but have vanished into thin air. The purpose of the various shiftings of position on the part of the carriers must be quite obvious to this commission."

QUESTION RULED ON

The City Attorney cited the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case where the court set forth the power and authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission to order the railroads to make extensions and betterments, where the expense involved would not impair the ability of the railroads to perform their duty to the public. In this decision, Chief Justice Taft, knowing that the city of Los Angeles had asked the commission for a union station order said:

"For the reasons given we think the course taken by the city of Los Angeles was a correct one."

In the reply brief, City Attorney Stephens showed that the railroads now own most of the land in the Plaza area suitable for union station purposes and that therefore the purchase of a site would require little or no money and that the station would not impair the financial ability of the railroads.

On the question of the constitutionality of any commission's ordering the railroads to build a union depot, City Attorney Stephens said:

DECISIONS AGREE

"All union passenger station decisions of the State courts and the Supreme Court of the United States prove the unsoundness of the carriers' contentions as to unconstitutionality."

The City Attorney's brief concluded as follows:

"We believe that we have now answered every substantial contention made by the carriers in their brief.

"On the merits, this commission has already ruled in favor of the city of Los Angeles. The additional record of the California Railroad Commission, which will now be made a part of this commission's record, emphasizes the correctness of each finding heretofore made by this commission favorable to the construction of a union passenger station on the Plaza site. The carriers have, in substance and effect, conceded every issue of fact except one, and on that issue their contention is without merit.

LAW GIVES AUTHORITY

"One the law, we submit that this commission has full power and authority to issue the certificates which were forecast in its decision of July 6, 1925, herein, and also to issue the final order for which the city of Los Angeles is petitioning, directing the defendant carriers to construct and operate a union passenger station on the site specified by the California Railroad Commission in substantial compliance with the plan outlined in said commission's exhibit 4-B herein.

"After all these years of trial and effort, we now ask, very respectfully, that the commission issue said certificates and make said final order."

WINGS FOR ADMIRAL OF TOMORROW

Plane for Fleet Chief's Use Augurs New Tactics for Future Battles

Illustrative of the rapid strides in naval tactics was the arrival aboard the U.S.S. California yesterday of a UO-type seaplane for the express use of the commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer.

The new plane was flown up from San Diego yesterday by Lieutenant-Commander J. D. Murray, fleet aviation officer, who will be its regular pilot. Fleet officers pointed out that the plane, affording a prespective of the entire fleet operating over an area of many miles, is a far cry from the former vantage point of the commander-in-chief on a battleship bridge, permitting him to see only the ships in hi simmediate vicinity.

Plans are under way in the Navy whereby fleet heads flying several miles above a battle action may direct the entire fleet by radio from the plane in which they are flying.

The battle fleet's observance of Armistice Day yesterday was confined to visits to neighboring ports of six dreadnaughts and the reception of visitors aboard ships at the local base.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Navy Department of the appointment of Lieutenant-Commander Philip C. Ranson, now communications officer of the U.S.S. Arizona, as naval attache to the American Legation at Santiago, Chile. Mr. Ransome will leave for his new post about December 15.

Permanent Art Exhibit to Open in City Tuesday

A permanent exhibit of arts, fine arts and crafts will be opened formally in the State Exposition Building, Exposition Park, Tuesday evening, thereafter to be open to the public daily and Sunday, except on Wednesday afternoons. The display includes thirty-five paintings, the work of members of the California Art Club, decorated china, sculpture and other works of art.

The exhibit was made possible by an appropriation of the State Legislature and is to be conducted by the board of directors of the Agricultural Association, Sixth District. William Bowen, president of the board, is responsible largely for the project.

Veterans Plan Fiesta at Bowl

A "big time" benefit show with well-known actors and actresses and a host of incidental features is being arranged by the show committee of Greater Hollywood Post No. 1508, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for next Saturday and Sunday in Hollywood Bowl.

The show is called a "Hollywood Fiesta" and 1000 artists as well as 500 girls in Spanish costumes are included in the cast. A little Spanish town in the colorful and romantic days of the Dons will be represented.

Proceeds of the entertainment are to be used by the veterans in the maintenance of their headquarters and carrying on their work for the benefit of disabled ex-service men and women.

PROTESTS TO BE HEARD

Protests against the paving of One Hundred and Fifth street from Figueroa street to Vermont avenue will be heard by the City Council on December 15.

PLANES ARRIVE FOR AIR RACES

Nearly 100 Army and Navy Ships Due Today

Tomorrow's Events Will Begin in Morning

Carrier Langley to Anchor in Santa Monica Bay

Nearly 100 airplanes of the Army and Navy are to arrive today at Clover Field for the aviation meet there tomorrow. Among the squadrons that are to gather today, according to Charles H. Babb of the National Aeronautic Association, are fighting and observation airplanes from Crissey Field, San Francisco, and March Field, Riverside. The U.S.S. Langley, carrying sixty airplanes will anchor in Santa Monica Bay this afternoon and a squadron of racing planes from the San Diego Navy base are to arrive at Clover Field at noon.

Civilian aircraft are gathering from nearly every airport in California. Among them are a number of high-powered aircraft that have never before been raced, and are expected to break local airplane speed records in tomorrow's races.

ALL-DAY EVENTS PROMISED

Last-minute changes in the program have resulted in the meet being an all-day affair. The program will be officially opened at 10:30 a.m. when a group of officials fly around the cross-country course, making stops at Inglewood and Van Nuys. The three-engined Fokker that will be on exhibition during the morning will take off at noon for San Francisco, where it will attempt a flight across the Pacific.

At noon army and navy airplanes will cruise in flight formation over the cross-country course. A program of military and civilian races, balloon strafing, parachute jumping, and army and navy stunt and exhibition flights will follow. The program will end at 4:30 o'clock.

FAST PLANES TO FLY

The fastest airplanes of the Army and Navy will participate in the races. Among them are special Curtiss and Boeing one-seated racing planes capable of more than 200 miles an hour. Two-place military airplanes, similar in capacity to the airplanes that made the world flight, will race for the perpetual trophy of the Santa Monica Legion. Other cups that will be competed for have been donated by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Ambassador Hotel.

The meet will be the largest gathering of airplanes ever assembled in the West, and will mark the third annual celebration of the Army's World Flight.

WANDERING PRINCE WILL SPEAK HERE

William of Sweden Gives Lectures Next Week at Philharmonic

A roaming prince will visit Southern California this coming week. Prince William of Sweden, second son of King Gustaf, will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow and will give two lectures at the Philharmonic Auditorium, Monday and Wednesday, under the auspices of the Swedish Club, William A. Monten, local Swedish vice-consul, chairman.

The great West looks like a fairy land to his royal highness. "I have read much about that land of Goshen in the western part of America," he says, "of its beauty, its wealth. Its vastness and its—I am sure from what I know—dominating future in the life and history of man."

Prince William's real business is hunter and explorer. He goes to wild, distant and dangerous places and has a good time roughing it, and then he comes back to civilization and quietly lectures about it. And wherever he goes, he seems to get along with people regardless of race or climate.

SUSPECT IN LIQUOR WAR ARRESTED

O. T. Forrester Accused of Being Leader in Bootleg Battle in Hollywood

As an aftermath of an asserted bootleg war which broke out last Wednesday in a bungalow court at 763 4-5 North Van Ness avenue, Hollywood, Orville T. Forrester, said to be the ringleader of the gang, was arrested ytesterday at First and Los Angeles streets by Detective Lieutenants Bergeron and Southard on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Forrester admitted his crowd was attacked in the apartment by a gang he declared has been trying to get him for two years, but he said no one was injured. He also admitted a woman was present, but refused to disclose her identity.

Homer White, another man taken in the raid, was arraigned yesterday on a charge of Wright Act possession, pleaded not guilty and was released on $500 bail pending trial. Meanwhile police continue their attempt to locate four other men said to have been in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

Pico Boulevard Viaduct to Open on Wednesday

Formal opening of the new Pico Boulevard viaduct at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon was announced by D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric Railway, yesterday. Completion of this structure, which the use of mass concrete construction makes almost noiseless, brings the total of grade separations made on the Pacific Electric system in Southern California to sixty-five.

A special train bearing guests for the opening exercises will leave the subway terminal, Fourth and Hill streets, at 1:30 p.m., and will go direct to the new viaduct. It will return to the terminal after the opening and inspection of the grade-crossing eliminator.

LINA BASQUETTE'S CONTRACT

Actress Signs Up for Five Years and De Mille Lead; Playwright Makes Script for First National; Fritz Feld is With Lasky-Famous

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Word received yesterday from an unofficial but authentic source was to the effect that Lina Basquette not only has been signed to play the lead in Cecil B. De Mille's next feature, "The Godless Girl," but that also on a five-year contract for feature and star roles. The contract, it is understood, is an optional one.

LINA BASQUETTE

Miss Basquette began her career as a child actress with Universal. She studied with Ernest Belcher, and at 12 years of age was considered a finished classic dancer. She went on the stage in New York and won much fame in the Follies and other productions. She married the late Sam Warner and again entered pictures, and has been making a big success with Paramount, Warner Brothers and other companies.

It is said that her screen tests made for De Mille aroused the greatest enthusiasm in studio officials.

Holt Steps Out of Westerns

Although Jack Holt has become principally identified with western pictures, he will not make a single western story in the series of starring productions which he is making for Columbia.

The present Holt picture for Columbia will be known as a special on the company's list of forthcoming pictures. Holt is at present making "The Warning" under the direction of George Seitz. In this picture he plays the part of a sea captain. His next picture, although not definitely decided upon, will not be a western.

Edurado Raquello Under Weather

Due to an operation on his eyes, Eduardo Raquello, noted Polish actor who lately came to Hollywood, has been confined to his home, but is reported as rapidly recovering.

Raquello is appearing at the Hill-street this week in "The Girl from Rio," with Carmel Myers, and is making a splendid impression with his playing of the role of a Spanish cavalier, besides which he dances a tango with Miss Myers that is remarkable for its grace and finish.

Ober in Blue Film

Robert Ober, who has made many interesting film appearances since he gave over his first love, the stage, for a Laurel Canyon home, has just affixed his signature to a Warner Brothers contract under the terms of which he is playing a prominent role in "Across the Atlantic," Monte Blue's latest starring vehicle. Bob has played many heavy roles but his current assignment is a sympathetic character, the brother of Monte, himself.

Ober recently appeared in "A Reno Divorce" for Warner Brothers.

Fritz Feld in It

That very excellent actor, Fritz Feld, who made such a success as the Piper in Max Reinhardt's "The Miracle," was signed yesterday by Paramount to play the important part of Louis the Red in Emil Jannings's picture, "The Last Command," now in production under the direction of Josef Von Sternberg.

This will not be Feld's first association with Jannings, as he appeared in pictures with the German actor in Berlin, when Pola Negri, Ernst Lubitsch, Paul Leni, F. W. Murnau, Conrad Veidt and Werner Kraus were working for U.F.A. in Berlin.

Irene Rich's Picture Cast

"Powder My Back," Irene Rich's next starring vehicle, to go into production in a few days, will have a cast peculiar in the fact that every member of it has at some time or other appeared in support of the star.

Audrey Ferris, Andre Beranger, Anders Randolf and Carroll Nye are featured.

Beranger has the role of a farcical press agent. One can hardly see how he can go wrong in his characterization inasmuch as Joseph Jackson, himself a former publicity man, wrote the adaptation of Jerome Kingston's story, while the director, Roy Del Ruth, also a long time back in his varied career, wrote press notices for celebrities.

Playwright Does Adaptation

Phil Bartholomae, noted playwright, is turning his hand to the writing of scenarios. He is doing the treatment of "Two Weeks Off," Kenyon Nicholson's play, for First National.

It is planned at present to make "Two Weeks Off" serve as a vehicle for Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall, although I hear this plan is subject to revision.

Chinatown Goes Movie

We shall not, after all, see the bright and shining countenance of Johnny Hines this week, as we had expected.

Word reaches us to the effect that, following the comedian's purchase of "Chinatown Charlie," Owen Davis's play, he and his producer, C. C. Burr, decided to prolong their stay in New York in order to shoot some scenes in Chinatown before returning to Hollywood.

Charles Hines is directing the picture, and it is possible that Edna May, who was Hines's leading lady in his last picture or two, may go east for some of the sequences.

Mack Sennett Titles Picture

After weeks of deliberation Mack Sennett has finally selected a new title for his big feature. It will be called "The Good-by Kiss," instead of "The Romance of a Bathing Girl," as he had at first intended.

SALLY EILERS

The picture was personally directed by Sennett, being his first effort in seven years. It is expected that it will catapult Sally Eilers, Sennett's new discovery, into immediate stardom. In addition to Miss Eilers, the featured players are Johnny Burke, Matty Kemp, Carmelita Geraghty, Alma Bennett and Lionel Belmore.

Dick Loreno's Son

Dick Loreno, player of many a big heavy role for De Mille and Lasky, has a clever son, it appears. Dick, Jr., is to have a role in Cecil B. De Mille's big new special, "The Godless Girl."

George O'Hara In North

George O'Hara is one of the lucky ones. He has been doing a travel-orgue in connection with a picture for an independent organization, and has seen a country new to him during the past two months.

GEORGE O'HARA

The actor went by boat to Portland, a delightful trip, he writes. At Portland, where he spent a little time, he stopped with relatives, one of whom is prominent in musical circles. While there he met the Mayor, and the Governor of Oregon; after which he traveled to Lake Louise, and to National and Glacier parks, thence to Hood River.

George reports having a royal time in addition to earning a nice salary. Fishing and hunting parties have been arranged in his honor, as well as more effete entertainments such as dances and dinners. However, he writes his mother here that he will partake of her Thanksgiving turkey.

Wattles Signs for Music Play

According to announcements made last night by Lillian Albertson during rehearsals of Vincent Youmans's New York musical comedy, "Hit the Deck," which she will present at the Biltmore soon, Buddy Wattles, former Gotham feature player, has been signed to appear in the role of Bilge Smith in this musical version of "Shore Leave."

Buddy Wattles, for the last eight months, has been an outstanding attraction with Gus Arnheim's Cocoanut Grove orchestra with whom he has been appearing as a vocalist. Arnheim brought the leading man here from New York for a special engagement at the Ambassador.

"Hit the Deck," according to Miss Albertson, who is to present the musical comedy in association with Vincent Youmans, will open at Santa Barbara the 19th inst., after which engagement it will go to the Lurie Theater in San Francisco prior to playing at the Biltmore here.

MUSIC HIT LIVES ON

Few Genuine Successes Recorded in Last Twenty Years

That a welter of musical plays has been produced in the United States during the last two decades, and how few remain even vaguely in memory! To name the few would take but little printer's ink. If one excepts the notable works of Gilbert and Sullivan, scarce half a dozen titles remain as living memories in a span of twenty years,—"The Merry Widow," "The Chocolate Soldier," "The Pink Lady," "Mayime," "Rose Marie," "The Student Prince" and "Blossom Time." This last brought in the new school of operetta as represented by "Rose Marie," "The Student Prince" and "Princess Flavia."

The beneficence of "Blossom Time" to music lovers is not to be underrated. Its lovely score, drawn from the matchless music of Franz Schubert, brings an immense relief to the nerves of genuine music lovers long outraged by jazz.

CIRCLE HAS UNVEILING

Memorial Statue of De Anza to be Dedicated Tomorrow

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock another valuable object of art will be added to the interesting collection of pioneer monuments and paintings at the Carthay Circle Theater, when dedication ceremonies will take place for the memorial statue of Juan Bautista de Anza, one of the most outstanding and picturesque characters of early California history. It has just been completed by Henry Lion, young California sculptor, who is responsible for a number of beautiful statues and plaques now in place at the theater.

One of the interesting incidents in connection with the dedication of the Bautista statue is the fact that Dolores Del Rio, beautiful star of "Loves of Carmen," now being presented at the playhouse, is a direct descendant of the same courageous Spanish pioneers who bravely fought their way overland from Mexico into California to spread Christianity.

The monument will be presented the city by Judge Charles A. Thompson and Father St. John O'Sullivan of San Juan Capistrano Mission will deliver an address on the life of De Anza.

LEITER SIGNED FOR NEW DRAMA

Edward Leiter, the amorous bandit in "The Devil's Plum Tree," at the Belasco Theater, has been signed by Belasco, Butler and Davis to play the role of Luigi Ravelli in the forthcoming Belasco production of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," starring Lionel Barrymore.

Leiter's love-making with Miss Chatterton has proved a magnet for Los Angeles playgoers who like their love-making scenes on the stage "realistic," according to the management. "The Devil's Plum Tree" is not the first play in which he has played a Lotharian role. In "Youth Betrayed," in which he was featured briefly with Ann Forrest in New York, he startled even the blase Manhattan playgoers from their wonted lethargy, it is said.

In the Barrymore starring opus, Leiter essays the role of a young man afflicted with a nervous affection that causes him to burst forth at any moment in unholy laughter. This role reveals an entirely new side of his talent, and will, it is predicted, add to his prestige on the Los Angeles stage. Ian Keith had the part in New York.

IN "THE TEMPEST"

George Fawcett, after one day off since he commenced his role of the Russian general in "The Tempest," starring John Barrymore, is active again at United Artists' in the big ball-sequence.

NEW FILM IS OFTEN DRAMATIC

Misnamed "Ladies from Hell" Based on Ballad "Annie Laurie"

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

If there isn't a very mad lady ghost stalking about the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios these chill November night, spirits (nonalcoholic, of course) aren't what they used to be.

Motion-picture titles in the past have frequently had very little to do with the actual content of the story. If it serves better the box office to jazz up a placid story with a title that comes up like thunder it is done.

So, when you drop into Loew's State this week to see "Ladies From Hell" don't expect to see a lurid tale of wild, wild "wimmin." The only thing wild about the picture is the title.

"Ladies From Hell," believe it or not, is the story of Annie Laurie. And Annie, who was a gentle soul with a "swanlike neck," if history and song be true, would probably be quite annoyed at having her residence arbitrarily established in this sultry clime. Be that as it may, the picture is not bad as pictures go.

The term "Ladies From Hell" was used by the German soldiers during the late war to designate the kilted Scotch Highlanders. The story of Annie Laurie, although it is full to the brim of Scotsmen, and is quite warlike in nature, transpires two or three hundred years before the expression came into vogue.

Lillian Gish, whose name in the past has been connected with dignified productions, appears as Annie Laurie of Maxwelton, of whom the tenderly beautiful ballad was written.

The story of Annie Laurie is built around the continual warfare between the wild clan of MacDonald, and the rich and powerful Campbells. The Laurie family, although neutral, are more sympathetic toward the Campbells. It is the hope of Sir Robert Laurie that Annie will marry the young laird of Campbell. Instead she falls in love with Ian MacDonald.

It is a bloody tale, not particularly pleasant as it now stands, although dramatic withal.

From an actress of unquestioned ability one expects a more even portrayal than is given by Miss Gish. There are instances when she is splendid. Particularly does she rise to emotional heights in the latter part of the picture. At other times it almost seems cruel to say it, she is merely ridiculous.

She is beautifully photographed. Not in a long time has her fragile, cameo-like beauty been seen to better advantage than in the graceful costumes of a day that is gone.

Norman Kerry and Creighton Hale, two magnificent Scotch types, appear as the rival lovers of Annie Laurie. Kerry does great work as Ian MacDonald, being bold and dashing to a degree. Hale does well in the character of the foppish, plotting Donald Campbell.

Hobart Bosworth is a picturesque and acceptable chieftain of the MacDonald clan, while Brandon Hurst as the Campbell leader is handicapped by a full set of brunette curls. In one instance, however, wherein he delivers a curse, he is fine. Joseph Striker and Patricia Avery strike sincere notes as the tragic young sweethearts.

There is much that is colorful and beautiful in the picture. Customs and costumes of the moorland and highland are fascinating. The castles of the chieftains, however, look too much like backdrops to seem realistic. Speaking of flimsiness, what would otherwise have been a tremendous dramatic climax is almost nullified when Lillian Gish stumbles up an obviously papier-mache mountain to light the warning beacon fire.

John S. Robertson, who directed, has better productions to his credit. Titles are uniformly good, being of almost lyric beauty.

"Ginger-Snaps" is the title of the Panchon and Marco offering this week. This, at least, is well named. The Los Angeles Police Quartet purvey some pleasing melodies, and Buddy Doyle has a plaintive note to his songs that is effective. His jokes are vintage, however. Flo McFadden and the Panchon and Marco girls appear in an elaborate daisy number. Jack Haley, a personable and willing young fellow, is leading the Loew's State Band.

GUILD WILL MEET

The Catholic Motion Picture Guild of America will hold its monthly meeting in the Hollywood Columbus Club, 1441 North McCadden Place, on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. Joe Ford, one of the most outstanding jurists in the city of Los Angeles, will be the speaker of the evening and has chosen for his subject "Trial Marriage, a Reversion to Uncivilized Society." John W. Considine, Jr., president of the guild, will preside. Father Mulling, chaplain and founder of the guild, will also give a short talk.

Duo Assured Welcome Tonight

Charlotte Treadway and Harland Tucker

Embracing, doubtless, for sheer joy at returning to a Los Angeles theater once again. "Three Wise Fools" brings them and the Norman Sprowl Players to the Figueroa Playhouse this evening.

PLOT IS LAID AT WEST POINT

The United States Military Academy at West Point is the real hero of "Dress Parade," a Pathe-De Mille picture which was unreeled yesterday afternoon at the Boulevard Theater. Beneath its frowning stone walls is enacted a comedy-drama of petty loves and hates, but above and beyond the actors loom the dominating outlines of a great American institution in all its traditional glory.

Rather better than most films which set out to be instructive as well as entertaining, "Dress Parade" holds the spectator through the sheer beauty of its photography and the good work of its players, with major honors falling to William Boyd for his portrayal of the swaggering, lovable Vic Donovan. Boyd, overshadowed to some extent by Louis Wolheim as his doughboy partner in "Two Arabian Knights," here finds full scope for his acting powers, especially in the opening reels. He is not quite so convincing as a shedder of tears, probably because he is called upon to shed too many. It may be also because he sheds them unnecessarily. Your movie-wise onlooker knows that everything will be all right; he becomes impatient when Boyd is so long in discovering it.

This Vic Donovan is the athletic champion of Bergen county (pronumably in New Jersey.) A chance encounter with Janet Cleghorne, daughter of the commandant at West Point, causes him to fall so in love with her that he obtains admission to the academy as a "plebe" to be near her. He is further impelled to this rash move by the slighting remark of a cadet who is with Janet at the time of the meeting. On paper the double motivation may be lacking in conviction, but on the screen it is psychologically sound.

The rest of the story is given over to the trials and ultimate triumph of Donovan in the service of his country, all against an entrancing background of settings which are indubitably authentic, showing as they do the drill grounds, the chapel, the quarters where Gen. Pershing once roomed and the hall where the institution's famous "hops" are held. There is an exciting climax during battle practice, but the final denouement is too long in coming and lacks punch.

Donald Crisp directed from Douglas Doty's adaptation of a story called "Raw Material." The camerawork was done by Peverell Marley.

Abe Lyman and his orchestra, who will leave the Boulevard on December 8, while away the minutes pleasantly with "Just a Memory," "Varsity Drag" and "Sunshower," the latter with colorful lantern effects. Frank DeVoe, late of the Metropolitan, seems a little out of place in a neighborhood house with his risque songs, though he renders all of them with distinctive flavor.

No Continuance of Run Planned

Samuel Goldwyn today announced that the engagement of Gilda Gray in person and in his film production, "The Devil Dancer," must positively close with the last show Wednesday. Any request on the part of the public that the double presentation be held over cannot be met because of advance contracts already made for San Francisco and over twenty other cities.

The novelty of presenting Miss Gray in a specially arranged dancing act, as a prelude to presentations of her pictures, is said to have been one of the most successful showman's moves of recent years. She appears personally at 2:49, 4:35, 7:48 and 9:35 p.m.

Samuel Goldwyn's picture, "The Devil Dancer," was directed for him by Fred Niblo from the Alice D. G. Miller adaptation of Harry Hervey's story. Clive Brook is leading man.

Quick Changes Are Required

Hobart Cavanaugh has drawn much comment through the variety he brings to "Broadway" by snapping in and out of half a dozen suits with the rapidity of a lightning-change artist. As the night club dancer, he makes more shifts than even a musical comedy star when he dashes in and out for his turns.

At 8:50 he pops from his street clothes into the dinner jacket of a cabaret hoofer. At 9:40 he is next visible, very negligee. At 9:50 he is tranformed into a "wise guy," complete with check suit, for his next turn. At 10 o'clock he passes into the pirate attire. And at 10:55 for his final cabaret stunts, he is Uncle Sam.

Berger Lauds Talking Film

Movietone, the William Fox-controlled invention, is the talk of Los Angeles theatergoers, particularly on those who are thronging the Tower Theater to see "What Price Glory?" and hear Movietone synchronized with the war picture.

That Movietone will revolutionize motion pictures in America, contribute very materially to education and cultural background in all sections of the world, and bring to the screen some of the finest gifts at the bestowal of mankind, is the unqualified statement of Ludwig Berger, celebrated German director now in Hollywood. He is with Fox.

SOPHISTICATION OF PLAYER IS MASKED

Those who know Aileen Pringle upon the screen as a portrayer of roles sophisticated are due to receive a surprise when they see her work in "Body and Soul," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which is now playing at the Rialto.

Miss Pringle has a part which demands extremely dramatic action and pictures her as an innocent girl, the very reverse of her former screen sophistication. She is the beautiful Hilda, heroine of Katherine Newlin Burt's best seller, and appears opposite Norman Kerry. Lionel Barrymore has the role of the crazed English physician, and T. Roy Barnes is seen as the comical Swiss postman. The picture was directed by Reginald Barker.

TO NORTHERN CITY

Alan Hale, having completed work in "The Leopard Lady," featuring Jacqueline Logan and directed by Rupert Julian for De Mille studios, is spending a few days vacationing in San Francisco.

"Sunny" is Due in Ten Days

The premiere of "Sunny" is but ten days off. The Charles B. Dillingham-Gerhold O. Davis production opens at the Mayan Theater the night of the 22nd inst., following "Twinkle, Twinkle," the current attraction starring Joe E. Brown and Nancy Welford, which ends Saturday the 19th inst. The hiatus of two days between the closing of "Twinkle" and the premiere of "Sunny" will be used for final rehearsals of the new show.

William Valentine, who played the juvenile singing and dancing role of Tom Warren during the New York run, has been sent here by Dillingham to direct the book and play the same part. Peggy Hope, also in the New York cast, will play her original role. Helen Paterson, a new Dillingham protege, mentioned for her vocal and terpsichorean gifts, will play the name role. Harry Miller has been brought on from New York for the dancing role of Jim Demming.

Others in the cast include Ernest Wood, Nita Martan, Fred C. Holmes, Lillian Mines, Gary C. Breckner, Wendell Marshall and Carter Sexton, besides a number of specialties. These will include Nellie and Billie Hanson, Gordon Smith, Crosby Brothers, Sylvia Longshore, Joyce Murray, Jimmy Mosley, Marshall and Watts, and Jack Farrell's collegiate band.

Many Plays for Early Filming

While Hollywood is rife with rumors of a general shutdown in production activities in the various studios, a strong ray of sunshine infused itself on the horizon today coincident with the announcement that Universal is preparing to launch on a gigantic schedule. Reports have been current for several days that Edward J. Montagne, scenario editor-in-chief of this organization, who recently returned from New York, where he held several important conferences with President Carl Laemmle, had brought back with him a number of successful stage plays, including "Broadway," which was purchased for the purported amount of $275,000.

Although Montagne has not as yet given out any definite assignments to the large list of writers that will eventually be selected to create adaptations and continuities, it was learned that the following list of stories are now being prepared for the screen: actual filming production to begin with their completion: "Ivanhoe," "The Worm Turns," "Last Warning," "Charlatan," "The Braggart," "Cream of the Earth," "Mating Call," "The Girl on the Barge" and "Show Boat."

Matrons Rely Upon Formula

A formula that will make lonesome wives forget their loneliness is being disclosed nightly at the Majestic, where "Cradle Snatchers," comedy of marital philandering, is reaching new heights of hilarity at every performance.

"College boys, moonlight and Spanish osteopathy will work wonders with the most domesticated matron in the world," admits Helen Bolton, who (though she is neither domesticated nor a matron) plays that kind of part in this farce in which she is being starred Miss Bolton, Florence Auer, Grace Travers are seen as three back-number wives who learned about life on a college campus with nothing to guide them but the afore-mentioned formula.

INTEREST UNABATED IN FIRST FORTNIGHT

"The Night Cap" by Max Marcin and Guy Bolton, is commencing its third successful week at the Morosco Theater. It is a mystery play in three acts. The authors are identified with some of Broadway's biggest hits.

The setting of the mystery play takes place in the home of a bank president. It is in this home that unsolved murders and robberies are committed.

BURLESQUE DOINGS

Augmenting the cast and ensemble to approximately seventy-five people, the Follies Burlesque tomorrow will present in conjunction with the present entertainment organization, a colored unit of fourteen entertainers of this group, six will be principals and eight will form the added ensemble. Ivie Anderson, comedienne, will top the group of colored principals which will also include Dick Saunders, Stompy and Stella mixed double, Wilda Harris and Gus Jones, who is now in his second season.

MOVES THERE AND BACK

Owing to the popularity of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," which is being presented at the Los Angeles Community Art Theater under direction of Nathanial Frank, and the inability of the small auditorium to seat large audiences, arrangements have been made with Ruth Helen Davis, manager of Murphy's Comedians at the Belmont Theater, to present a special matinee at the Belmont this afternoon.

PREDICTS GAY FUTURE

That more comedy is likely to come the way of Fritzi Ridgeway is predicted by Mervyn LeRoy who is directing her in "Aces Up" for First National. Miss Ridgeway plays the feminine lead. Le Roy declares that she has the true comedy sense. In recent pictures since her return to the screen the actress has played dramatic roles.

OLAND HAS PLAYED BANDITS

Warner Oland, who is playing a Greek bandit chief in "Stand and Deliver," in support of Rod La Rocque at the De Mille studio, is perfectly at home in the part as he has specialized in bandit roles for years and in fact has played a bandit of practically every known race during his long film career.

RAQUELLO ACCOMPLISHED

Edouard Raquello, who is seen as Raoul with Carmel Myers in "The Girl from Rio," now showing at the Hillstreet, while comparatively new to American screen audiences, has a long list of accomplishments to his credit in Europe.

PREVIEWED SOON

Walter Lang is preparing for his next James Cruze production to follow "The Night Flyer" and is now busy working on the story. His work of cutting the first-mentioned picture still goes on and a preview will be held in the near future. The picture stars William Boyd.

REGIMENT REVIEWED

At the close of the exercises the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry passed in review before Brig.-Gen. Walter P. Story, Col. Harcourt Hervey, Col. F. D. Wickham, Col. George P. Hamilton and other persons of military note.

The keynote of the peace marking the program was sounded by Representative Crail in the principal address of the day.

"Armistice Day is not merely a day of rejoicing," he said. "It is a day of meditation, of prayer and of consecration. It is our duty to profit by the experiences of the past. War is a terrible scourge. Its possibilities for evil are so limitless. It is so costly in lives lost and in property destroyed. It is so profitless, even for the victor, and yet nations rush to war on the slightest provocation.

NOT WARLIKE NATION

"America is not a warlike nation but it has been in many wars. Since the Revolutionary War we have had the war with Tripoli, the War of 1812, Indian wars, the Mexican War, our bloody Civil War, more Indian wars, the Spanish War and the great World War. Our entrance into the World War was justified by the promise that it was a war to end all wars. Let us keep the faith. Let us remember the promise. Let us highly resolve that we shall never again be engaged in a war excepting for the preservation of our national life and our sacred honor. We owe it to our country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, to defend it against all enemies. Also we owe it to mankind to promote and, if possible, to preserve peace and good will among all nations of the earth.

"It has not been ten years since America's entry into the World War. The flower of our youth and manhood answered the call. Four million of them accepted President Woodrow Wilson's challenge to keep the world safe for democracy. It was the bloodiest and most devastating struggle this world has ever seen. Surely the World War has everything that Sherman said war is.

FLEET ILLUMINATED

"Happily for us, the Allies won. Their victory was made possible by the heroic efforts of American men, women and children at home, and the heroic efforts and sacrifices of American men in arms. For those who were left on Flanders Field and in foreign lands we shed a tear, trusting that they have received the reward which their patriotism and their martyrdom merit. To those who were ready for the supreme sacrifice, but who had the good fortune to return home, we give a full measure of devotion."

Closing the observances of the day, the Battle Fleet last night illuminated the harbor district with its search lights as they played upon the water or swept across the sky.

One of the principal social functions of the day was the Armistice Day ball and frolic given by the Veterans' Service Club of Hollywood at the Bon Ton Ballroom.

PASADENA HAS SERIES OF OBSERVANCE EVENTS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Nov. 11.—A parade of patriotic orders through the streets of the city, a program of community singing, music and addresses at Memorial Park, a football game at the Rose Bowl this afternoon between Pasadena and Santa Ana High schools and an Armistice Ball at the Hotel Maryland tonight were the chief Armistice Day events in Pasadena.

Led by Grand Marshal N. J. Shupe, who is a member of the Board of City Directors, the parade of veterans of the World War, Spanish-American War and Civil War, Boy Scouts, Pasadena High School R.O.T.C. unit, fraternal organizations and several bands marched from Lake avenue and Colorado street to Memorial Park this morning. In the procession was the drum and bugle corps of the Pasadena Post of the American Legion, which was awarded first prize at the recent Legion convention at Santa Barbara in the competition between Legion drum and bugle corps units from all parts of the State.

BURBANK

BURBANK, Nov. 11. — Armistice Day was not observed in the city of Burbank today as the celebration for the entire San Fernando Valley was conducted at Van Nuys, with all the Legion posts taking part. The Burbank drum and bugle corps marched to Van Nuys at 10 a.m. where they took part in the parade. From there they went to Owensmouth where they gave a public demonstration. In the afternoon the corps was in San Fernando for the football game between Burbank and San Fernando.

LONG BEACH

LONG BEACH, Nov. 11.—Armistice Day was observed in Long Beach today on a scale never before attempted. The city took on a military atmosphere as thousands of residents paid tribute to the heroes of the World War. The chief features of the celebration were a parade and an Armistice Day address, delivered in Lincoln Park to a huge crowd by Lieutenant-Commander Francis Lee Albert, chaplain of the dreadnaught New Mexico.

Promptly at 11 o'clock this morning the city paused for a full minute as a silent tribute to the American dead of the World War.

In the reviewing stand at Lincoln Park, facing Ocean avenue, were Rear-Admiral J. V. Chase, Lieutenant-Commander Robert Skelton and Lieut. E. W. Mills of the Battle Fleet forces at anchor in the harbor; Lieutenant-Colonel W. G. Place, commandant of Fort MacArthur; Capt. G. J. B. Fisher, Maj. V. Mittenberger, Maj. Frank D. Parker and Capt. A. D. Foskon of the United States Army, Mayor Hauge and a number of other city officials.

INGLEWOOD

INGLEWOOD, Nov. 11.—Inglewood's most successful Armistice Day celebration began this morning at 10 o'clock with the largest parade in the history of the city, more than 2000, including 800 school children, marching.

The Spanish bugle and drum corps of Victory Post, American Legion, of Los Angeles, was a colorful note in the great parade, which was headed by Capt. Fred E. Laxdal as grand marshal, with a group of mounted aides in the uniform of the A.E.F. The forty-piece Salvation Army boys' band of Los Angeles was also in line, and a troop of mounted men in the uniform of Rough Riders, with "Teddy" at their head.

An "Eleventh Hour" celebration at Grevillea Park was addressed by Attorney Thomas L. Gate of Los Angeles. Commander Leroy Dixon of Inglewood Post, American Legion, presided. At 11 a.m., the hour at which hostilities ceased, the local post's buglers blew "Taps."

The evening closed with a patriotic address by Judge Wilson of the Los Angeles Municipal Court.

HUNTINGTON PARK

HUNTINGTON PARK, Nov. 11.—Armistice Day in Huntington Park was celebrated on a greater scale than ever before, when a great parade was given during the morning, in which were represented, city officials, police and fire departments, service clubs, lodges, women's organizations and schools.

Following the parade an interesting address was delivered by Judge Schauer of Superior Court Department Nineteen.

Col. H. A. Hanigan, U.S.A., was a speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon, when twenty of the Legionnaires were guests. He talked on "Our National Defense."

SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 11.—One of the most colorful and impressive parades ever held in San Diego moved up Broadway today, the eight divisions and thirty-three sections being led by the massed colors of the American Legion posts of San Diego county, with Troop B of the Eleventh Cavalry as the escort of honor. Sailors from the French cruiser Primaguet and a section of British veterans gave an international touch to the picture.

At the stadium a ceremony was held as a tribute to those who fell fighting for the Allied cause. Bands played the national anthems of all of the Allied nations represented in the parade by flags, starting with "La Marseillaise," in honor of the visiting French cruiser contingent.

On behalf of the American Legion, William Van Dusen went aloft this morning in an airplane to drop flowers on the Legion plot on Greenwood Memorial Cemetery, and wreaths in the bay in memory of the officers and men of the Navy who gave their lives in the war.

SANTA MONICA

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 11.—One of the largest and most impressive parades ever held in the bay district marked the opening of Santa Monica's Armistice Day program, with American Legionnaires in charge. Sea fighters from the U.S.S. Arizona, anchored in the bay, occupied the spotlight. Refreshments for enlisted men were served at the Elks' Club. At noon Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney was chief speaker of the program at the municipal auditorium. The Red Cross opened its new headquarters in Palisades Park at 2:30 with a program. At 6:30 a stag dinner was given by the Ocean Park business men to Capt. W. T. Tarrant and officers of the Arizona at the Elks' Club. In the evening the enlisted men danced at the Club Chateau, guests of the Legion post. The Army and Navy ball at the Edgewater Club was a large affair. Airplanes dropped flowers on the city during the day.

BEVERLY HILLS

Beverly Hills' participation in the day's events, while simple, was most impressive. The local post of the American Legion arranged the program, which was joined in by Boy Scouts, uniformed police and firemen and the Santa Monica Band. The post's own new bugle and drum corps received a rousing reception all along the line of march.

Forming at Sunset Boulevard and Beverly Drive, the paraders marched amid cheering throngs to the Longyear residence flag pole, where the national colors were lowered and raised again over the tricolor of France. The buglers sounded the salute to the colors, following which the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and then the French national song.

VENICE

VENICE, Nov. 11.—After one minute of silence in deference to the memory of the country's defenders, who died in 1918, Venice launched its Armistice Day celebration today. At 1:30 a military parade started with officers, crew and the band of the U.S.S. Tennessee, anchored off the Venice pier, in line with local patriotic organizations. In the evening Capt. G. L. P. Stone of the battleship and his staff, were entertained with a dinner-dance in the Ship Cafe. The American Legion ball in the Venice ballroom in the evening featured the annual red-headed beauty parade, with Legion posts from points throughout Southern California entering favorites. In the morning Earl W. Porter, Dirk Mooney and John B. Daniel were speakers on a patriotic program at the Venice High School.

REDLANDS

REDLANDS, Nov. 11. — Armistice Dry was a general holiday in Redlands. At 11 o'clock the fire siren blew and people stood at attention. While church chimes rang "The Star Spangled Banner" flags were at half-mast. This afternoon there was a big football game and old grads reunion at the University of Redlands.

FRESNO

FRESNO, Nov. 11.—With United States Senator Johnson as the principal speaker, Fresno today observed Armistice Day with a public program and parade participated in by several hundred members of patriotic organizations and witnessed by several thousand.

A union church service was held tonight as a feature of the Armistice Day observance.

BAKERSFIELD

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 11.—With music and color, festival and frolic, not forgetting a period of solemn tribute to its war dead, Kern county today rededicated November 11 as a day of peace and celebration in an Armistice anniversary program. Inaugurated with the longest parade that ever wended its way through the flag-lined streets of the city, requiring forty-five minutes to pass, the county-wide observance continued until midnight, with fireworks and a football game this afternoon, another parade this evening by the Forty and Eight Society, and a pyrotechnic spectacle, and a dance at Kern County Fairgrounds tonight.

Alexander Heron, State Director of Finance, was the principal speaker of the day.

BREAKFAST CLUB

More than 400 men and women turned out yesterday to help the Breakfast Club celebrate Armistice Day, the program opening with the playing of half a dozen stirring war songs by the twenty-one-man fife and drum corps of Victory Post, American Legion. An oration was delivered by Judge Wilson, representing the American Legion.

There was a world-war note, too, in the introduction of Joseph Diskay, Hungarian tenor, and former captain in the Hungarian army, who was rescued from a Siberian prison by a group of American officers who had heard him sing, and by them brought to America. Mr. Diskay sang yesterday for the first time as an American citizen, having just received his naturalization papers.

GLENDALE

GLENDALE, Nov. 11. — Armistice Day was marked in Glendale by patriotic exercises in which veterans of the World War and children from the local schools were the principal figures. A parade was held through the business section of the city. In an address at Harvard High School, State Senator Weller spoke. Capt. W. H. Richards, commander of the Glendale Legion Post, recounted the events that occurred when the roar of the firing died away on the battle front nine years ago.

REDONDO BEACH

REDONDO BEACH, Nov. 11.—The largest crowd which has ever visited the South Bay district on Armistice Day attended the ceremonies here today and were taken aboard the U.S.S. Mississippi, anchored off the Redondo and Hermosa piers. A parade included men of the Mississippi, the American Legion and other patriotic societies. Capt. Tozer of the Mississippi and Capt. H. E. Insley of Los Angeles were the principal speakers at the rally at the Plaza, and officers of the big battleship were guests of the Lions' Club at luncheon. In the evening officers and their ladies were guests of honor at a dinner-dance at the Elks' home under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

AVALON

AVALON (Catalina Island) Nov. 11. All Catalina joined in the Armistice-Day celebration here under the auspices of Catalina Island Post No. 137, American Legion. A parade included the Avalon police force, the massed colors of the post, the Legion drum and fife corps, Avalon division, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts students and a band comprised of the kindergartnersu nder direction of Miss Ruth Edmiston.

R. V. Baker presided at services at the Greek amphitheater and gave the opening address followed by an address by Brevier Robinson. The annual Legion banquet was held last night at the St. Catherine.

FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Nov. 11.—Armistice Day was celebrated in an unusual manner by the local Board of Supervisors here today, its meeting being conducted 2400 feet above the city. With Mayor Crooke, the City Clerk and members of the Chamber of Commerce, the directors boarded a large airplane and ascended. After reaching an elevation which made Fullerton a mere speck on the terrain, the meeting was called to order and business transacted. Among the matters discussed was improvements for the main highways between Los Angeles and Fullerton.

MONROVIA

MONROVIA, Nov. 11.—While Commander Blain of the G.A.R. was speaking to a throng estimated at 3000 people in Library Park, bombs, fireworks, whistles, auto horns and other noise-makers were set off at 11 o'clock in wild outburst of enthusiasm commemorating the first Armistice Day in 1918.

Judge Stafford of Los Angeles gave the principal address of the Armistice Day program. The program was preceded by a huge parade from Legion Memorial Hall in Recreation Park.

The afternoon feature of the celebration was a football game between Monrovia High School and John Muir High School of Pasadena.

Three hundred men and women closed the celebration tonight at Marigold Gardens on Foothill Boulevard in Duarte, where the fifth annual Armistice night cabaret of Monrovia Legion Post 44 was held.

ONTARIO

ONTARIO, Nov. 11. — Of the 100 floats and decorated automobiles entered in today's Armistice Day parade, first prize was awarded to the Armstrong nursery float, and first prize for decorated automobiles was given to the car entered by the Ontario Woman's Club.

Cucamonga Service Club received second float prize, depicting an Indian Village scene, and the C. U. Creamery's float, the old woman's shoe full of children, was third. Ontario Business Women's Club won second in the decorated cars' division. The most unusual entry in the parade was the Salvation Army floats, "Over There," and "Over Here."

PORTERVILLE

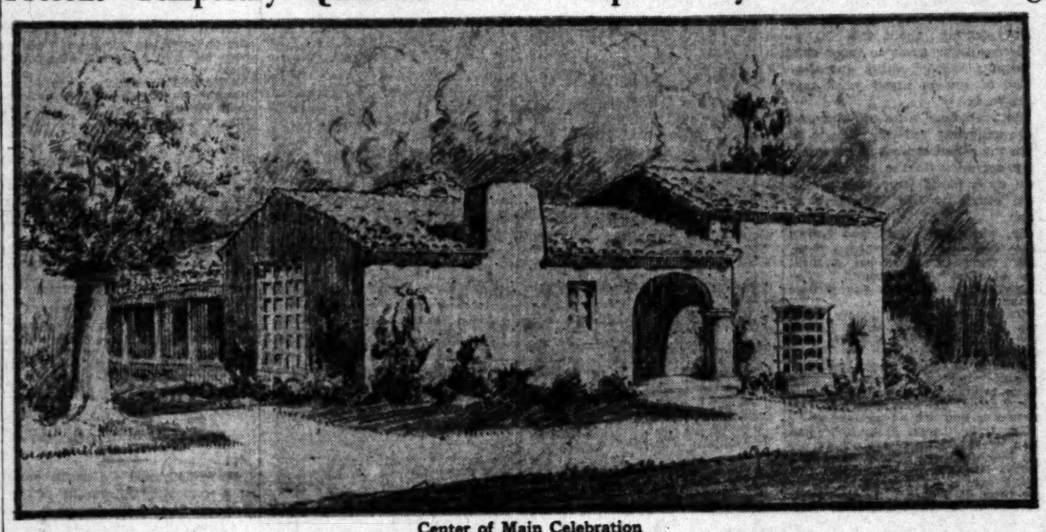
PORTERVILLE, Nov. 11.—Some 20,000 persons crowded the streets of Porterville today participating in the Armistice Day celebration under auspices of Porterville and Lindsay posts of the American Legion. About 100 entries made up the parade requiring an hour to pass a given point.

Headed by Lieut. Henry H. Ogden, round-the-world flyer in 1924, special guest of the Legionnaires, accompanied by Lieut. Lester Lamkin, prominent local aviator, the parade got under way at 10 a.m.

A $1000 fireworks display, carnival attractions, dancing and the giving away of two automobiles were high spots of the evening entertainment.

GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW ALHAMBRA POST HOME

Present Temporary Quarters to be Replaced by Modern Building



Center of Main Celebration

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 11.—As the outstanding feature of Armistice Day observance in Alhambra, ground was broken this morning for the new American Legion Building which is to be erected on the site of the present temporary quarters on North Stoneman avenue. The structure will be 44 feet wide by 100 feet in depth, and of stucco construction. It will be one-story in height and will have an auditorium to seat 250 persons.

Today's ground-breaking ceremony was the culmination of several years' effort on the part of local Legionnaires to secure an adequate structure for their headquarters. The new clubhouse will serve not only as a Legion hall but as a civic and social gathering place.

Construction of the building will start at once and will be completed in about ninety days. The building will cost $10,000.

The celebration of Armistice Day was marked also by a colorful parade, staged by the John Howard Strain Post of the Legion, and in which veterans of the Civil War and Spanish-American War, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops, war nurses, the woman's auxiliary of the Legion, other patriotic organizations and city officials participated. The Legion post's recently formed fife and drum corps and the Alhambra High School Band took part in the march.

Ground was broken for the new clubhouse by City Manager A. E. Stockburger, who spoke briefly of the value of the Legion to the community and expressed the hope that the new home would become a center for the further development of civic welfare.

Chris Campbell, president of the City Commission, was also a speaker, and W. W. Comstock, credited by his comrades of the Legion as being the primary factor in making possible the financing of the enterprise, made a short talk. Patriotic readings were given by Alhambra High School orators.

NATIONAL MONUMENT PLEA

San Bernardino Takes Action to Get Government to Preserve Arrowhead Pictured on Mountain

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 11.—The huge arrowhead emblazoned by nature across the southern face of the San Bernardino Mountains will be preserved as a national monument, if plans launched by the Chamber of Commerce are successful.

Acting on the instructions of the board of directors, Secretary B. H. Mack of the Chamber of Commerce forwarded a complete description of the natural landmark, whose origin for centuries has been a mystery, to Congressman Phil D. Swing at Washington, D. C., who has already stated his belief that the government will make the arrowhead a national monument.

The chamber was influenced in its decision to seek the creation of a national monument by the fact that erosion is threatening to destroy the arrowhead. Several months ago the Kiwanis Club began an investigation with a view to checking the erosion, which already has cut a deep scar across the face of the arrowhead.

Students at the San Bernardino High School also had taken the matter up.

To have a national monument created the chamber must prove that the arrowhead is natural, that it is unique in the United States and that it is worthy of preservation, according to Secretary Mack. This, he believes, will be of little difficulty.

All these facts are pointed out in Mr. Mack's communication to Congressman Swing. He located it seven miles north of San Bernardino, just above Arrowhead Hot Springs, and on a ridge between Waterman and Coldwater canyons.

He spoke of the mention of the arrowhead in 1810 in the diary of Padre Dumeta, of the San Gabriel Mission. In part, Padre Dumetas said: "This valley (the San Bernardino Valley) may easily be located by a large natural mark on the hills above it. The mark is in the form of a large arrowhead, and at its base there is a hot springs, from which issues the hottest water I ever saw coming from the earth."

FRANKISH CASE RENEWED

Ontario Capitalist and Relatives Made Defendants in New Suit by Estranged Wife of Senior

ONTARIO, Nov. 11.—Leonard J. and Hugh H. Frankish, sons, and Emil F. Stroh, son-in-law of Charles Frankish, pioneer Ontario realtor, now touring Europe, were defendants today in the latest suit brought against the Frankishes by Mrs. Sari Frankish, estranged wife of the local realtor, in which she asks $100,000 as balm for the lost affections of the elderly Ontarian.

Mrs. Frankish charges that the two sons and the son-in-law of Charles Frankish maliciously conspired to injure and deprive her of her husband's affections, support and maintenance.

The suit, filed yesterday in Superior Court by Attorneys Swing and Wilson for Mrs. Frankish, marks another in a long series of litigation which started soon after Mr. and Mrs. Frankish were married, four years ago at Santa Barbara.

Earlier this week Mrs. Frankish filed suit for divorce, alleging desertion. She asks $350 monthly alimony. Late last year and early this year, courts heard litigation in which Mrs. Frankish sought to obtain deeds to the old Frankish homestead at Emporia street and Laurel avenue. Losing in Superior Court, she has appealed and that case is still undecided.

In her suit yesterday she charged that Hugh and Leonard Frankish, and Emil Stroh alienated and destroyed Mr. Frankish's affection for her, and because of the persuasions, the elder Frankish deserted her on December 13, 1925, and surreptitiously left the State, going to Europe. Mrs. Frankish charges that the defendants maliciously persuaded her husband to transfer his property, which she values at more than $100,000, out of his name.

MAYORALTY VOTE FIGHT NARROWING

Riverside Politicians Put Hayden Second to Porter in List of Candidates

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 11.—Irwin Hayden, a Harvard graduate who served during the World War as a marine and who for two years was connected with the local Chamber of Commerce, according to the political dopesters tonight looms as the principal opponent to Horace Porter for Mayor of this city.

The election which will be held next Tuesday here, and which is said to be the bitterest fought of any within the past ten years, has brought Porter, Hayden and E. N. Dighton to the front as the three outstanding candidates for Mayor. Mr. Porter has the support of the business men, most of the churches, and on account of his religious activities, most of the women. Mr. Dighton has the backing of the Ku Klux Klan and organized labor and Mr. Hayden is running as an "independent."

Mr. Porter is reported to have the "edge," with Hayden next and Dighton a good third. Service clubs, where Mr. Hayden is well known, give him a clear lead on straw votes over all of the other candidates, while similar votes among the church members and business men show Mr. Porter leading. Mr. Dighton has a lead among the working men.

The race, local politicians say, during the past few days has shifted from Porter and Dighton to Porter and Hayden. Mr. Hayden has had no experience in an official capacity of the kind he seeks, Mr. Porter has served two terms as Mayor and in a long list of other important offices. Mr. Hayden was for two years secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and since that time has devoted his time to the development of a ranch.

Car Stripper and Officer in Race of Speed

UPLAND, Nov. 11.—Apriono Cordono, Mexican, was held in the County Jail today awaiting hearing on charges of stripping a stolen automobile and attempting to elude a police officer.

Cordono was arrested by Traffic Officer George Carpenter after a wild chase down Archibald avenue in which a speed of fifty miles an hour was reached and in which both motor officer and pursued were almost wrecked.

Carpenter came upon Cordono when the latter was in the act of removing tires from an automobile on Archibald avenue. Cordono, who was loading the tires into his car, jumped in and attempted to speed away. Carpenter set out in pursuit and the two raced furiously.

Carpenter charges Cordono sought to force the policeman off the road into the ditch by swerving in front of him. Carpenter finally halted Cordono and placed him under arrest.

The stripped car was found to be the property of N. R. Benson of Rialto who came after his property yesterday.

MAINE SENATOR ON SANTA MONICA VISIT

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 11.—United States Senator A. R. Gould of Maine, and his grand-daughter, Miss Alice Schields, are Santa Monica guests at the home of the Senator's nephew, E. J. Hall, 1258 Chelsea Place. The visitors came here from San Francisco, and are on a sightseeing and pleasure tour. Senator Gould is said to have carried every county in his State at the last election, prior to which he was a member of the State Senate.

PRISONER WALKS OUT

Convicted Man at Ventura Awaiting Sentence Becomes Tired of Delay and Departs

VENTURA, Nov. 11.—Frank Titus, Ventura bootlegger, today is awaiting sentence for battery, following a bit of Courthouse comedy that caused great commotion at midnight last night.

The case arose from an encounter on a city street some days ago in which Freeman Bliss, Ventura business man, was severely handled by Titus and two companions. A jury in Justice Court deliberated for more than five hours, then reported a verdict of guilty.

Judge S. D. Bagnall of Santa Paula, who was presiding in the trial, did not promptly announce the amount of bail for Titus nor remand him to the custody of the Sheriff.

In the courtroom confusion, Titus disappeared. A frenzied search began on the part of the officers, attorneys, courtroom attaches and spectators. Harle Walker, former undersheriff, who happened to be present, saw Titus disappearing down Poli street, gave chase, captured the man and returned with him.

Titus charged that one of his attorneys, B. L. Gregg, advised him to leave. This Gregg emphatically denied. Judge Bagnall ordered Titus into the custody of the Sheriff and set Saturday morning as the date for sentence.

Parent-Teacher War Breaks Out in Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 11. (AP)—Protesting against what she termed "muzzling" and "militaristic propaganda" on the part of State Parent-Teacher Association's program on citizenship, Mrs. C. M. Gidney, patriotic instructor and chairman of citizenship for the Santa Barbara Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, yesterday tendered her resignation at a meeting of the council.

The resignation came as a surprise to members and other officers of the council, who refused to act upon it until further investigation had been made. According to her interpretation of the instructions which she had received from the State association, Mrs. Gidney said she was called upon to support a national program of militarism instead of peace and disarmament, which she favored.

Mrs. W. A. Greenough said that the State association was not in authority over the local organizations and that any form of alleged "muzzling" should not be regarded as legal.

REWARD FOR BROTHER

SAWTELLE, Nov. 11.—A reward of $500 has been posted by Miss Lulu Bell for any information which will locate her brother, William W. Bell, a carpenter, 28 years of age, who disappeared a week ago after drawing $600 from a bank here for purchasing an automobile. He lived at 11926 Dorothy avenue, Brentwood Heights, and police throughout the bay district cities and Southern California are co-operating in the search. Known as a man of sober and industrious habits, Bell's failure to return to his work had led to fear of foul play.

DOG SLAUGHTERS HENS

VENICE, Nov. 11.—A bulldog ran amuck late yesterday at the home of G. J. Holmes, 10561 National Boulevard, and before police could shoot it, slaughtered more than 100 pullets of blooded stock. The bulldog, a heavy-set white animal of the English breed, broke into the chicken yard through a heavy wire fence.

HYGIENE CHIEF PRAISES STATE

Eastern Visitor Cites Health Conditions Here

Says Workmen Sometimes Poisoned at Duties

Tells of Investigations to Banish Cause

If your family complains that you are grouchy when you get home at night, investigate. You may find that your irritability is caused by poisonous fume, an element in the materials used in your office or workshop. Or it may be due to some other easily curable disorder peculiar to your profession or occupation.

This was the advice given in an interview yesterday at the Biltmore by Leland R. Cofer, industrial hygienist and head of the bureau of industrial hygiene of New York State, who is on vacation in California on account of his health. He says that there should be no industrial diseases or deaths here because the climate and abundance of sunshine and fresh air remove the causes common to other States.

The purpose of the bureau founded by Dr. Cofer is to prevent accidents and protect the health of workmen. It is in connection with the latter part of its program, according to Dr. Cofer, that many queer causes of ill health and death have been known, and simple remedies or means of eliminating disorders peculiar to different occupations have been discovered. These have resulted in the saving of millions of dollars annually in the payment of compensation to workmen, loss of wages to families and expenditure of relief funds of communities in New York State, and are the basis for his address, he says.

INSTANCES CITED

"For instance," he said, "workmen in an airplane factory developed nervous disorders. They became irritable and inclined to fight with their fellows and their employers. We studied their homes, but failed to find the cause. After exhaustive tests of an examination of their blood, discovered they were suffering from a poisoning caused by an element in the paste they used.

"In a planing mill we discovered workmen were dying within a few hours after receiving sharp blows in the abdomen. The blows were struck by the tendency of a board to ... back at a workman feeding a ... saw, and a hard knot gave ... resistance to the cutting teeth. ... experimented and found that the ... saw could feed the saw just as ... by standing at one side of it. ... ordinarily would remove the ... cause of the trouble, but the ma... jority of the old employees persisted ... in standing directly behind the saw, ... as they always had done. Motion pictures ... failed to convince many of ... them, but the younger ones learned ... quickly and willingly, and the next ... generation will see no more deaths ... from that peculiarity.

HIS CALIFORNIA BLESSED

"Almost every industry has its peculiar disease and its menace usually can be removed to a large degree by simple mechanisms invented by doctors and engineers have reduced to a minimum the danger of poisoning in more than one industry.

"Dr. Cofer thinks that many States could follow the system used by his bureau in New York to keep the employees of offices and industrial plants healthy. However, he says, there is not so much need for it in California, because of the climate.

"California has a remarkable advantage in its industrial development because of its climate," he said. "Your climate is more of a blessing than you realize, and in future years you will appreciate its value more."

NEW HOTEL CHAIN FORECAST

A. S. Amer, Head of Roosevelt at Phoenix, in City; Stresses Identity of Southwestern Interests

Southern California will be greatly benefited by the large amount of tourist business that is being attracted to Arizona, it was predicted yesterday at the Biltmore by Alfred S. Amer, president of the Pacific Hotels Corporation, which owns and operates the St. Charles Hotel in New Orleans and is now building a new $2,000,000 hotel to be known as the Roosevelt in Phoenix.

Mr. Amer admitted that his corporation has in mind a chain of hotels extending along the southern part of the United States from New Orleans to Los Angeles, but denied that his present visit has any significance in that respect because no plans for further extensions yet have been formulated.

"Whatever benefits any part of the Southwest will be of great value to Los Angeles," said Mr. Amer. "We feel that the constantly increasing numbers of tourists that visit Arizona and will patronize our new hotel will extend their trips to include Los Angeles. This will be especially true of visitors from Eastern States, who will not want to return to their homes without seeing Los Angeles, because it is so famous and such a short distance away."

Mr. Amer pointed out that the relation of the Hawaiian Islands to Los Angeles is much the same as that of Arizona. Greater travel to the islands, he says, is a great benefit to Los Angeles because thousands who go there naturally stop here for a few days. Sectional rivalries and jealousies are being lost sight of because it has been learned that communities within several hundred miles of each other are mutually benefited by the progress of each, he declared.

Rumors are current to the effect that one of the railroads is contemplating the erection of a large hotel near Phoenix, according to Mr. Amer. "We do not feel that this hotel will be in competition to us, but rather will serve as another drawing card for the Southwest and bring us more business," he said.

PAIR LEAVE FOR DARING FILM FEAT

Prepared to assist in one of the most hazardous undertakings ever attempted for the filming of a motion picture, Gilbert E. Gable, vice-president of Bray Pictures Corporation, and Sergt. Edwin Redding, Army radio expert, will leave tonight for the north rim wilderness of the Grand Canyon.

Gable will establish a camp near the rim of the canyon and set up a radio station, by which communication will be maintained with a group of venturesome men who started Wednesday, by boat, in an attempt to make the perilous trip downstream on the Colorado to Lee's Ferry—a voyage that has seldom been accomplished and has proven fatal on many occasions.

The party now contending with the treacherous rapids and whirlpools is headed by E. C. La Rue, ex-chief of the National Geographic Survey, who, with cameramen, experienced boatmen and assistants, is making the trip for the purpose of obtaining film for the motion picture "Menace." At the same time, scientific data is to be obtained for the government through a study of the unexplored region.

The Secretary of War has directed the Army Signal Corps to co-operate in the project and powerful radio equipment has been supplied in order that the outside world might keep in touch with the exploring party.

Anniversary of Desmond's Will be Celebrated

Three hundred employees and executives of Desmond's will gather tonight at the Alexandria, at a banquet and dance given by the management in celebration of Desmond's sixty-fifth anniversary.

John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play, and a man identified with the growth and development of Southern California since the early '80's, will be guest of honor. He will speak on the early history of California, and his early association with Desmond's store. Mr. McGroarty was a close personal friend of the late C. C. Desmond and the late Joseph Desmond.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 11.—A complaint charging petty theft of labor has been filed in the Justice Court of Chriss P. Pann of Huntington Beach against E. L. Blanton of the Blanton Oil Company, and the case has been set for trial the 14th inst. A crew of fifteen men is said to be owed more than $1000. The complaint was signed by A. A. Wooley and J. P. Hayes. Blanton was released on his own recognizance.

ENGINEER OF NATION-WIDE FAME DIES

W. S. Humbert, Builder of Great Eastern Projects, Succumbs to Illness

William Scott Humbert, nationally known engineer, died yesterday at the Pahl Hospital after an illness of three weeks. During his career, Mr. Humbert was identified with some of the biggest construction enterprises in the country.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., he was graduated from the school of mines of Columbia University and became assistant engineer on the construction of the Croton Aqueduct. Later he went to Niagara Falls where he had entire charge of the construction of the power tunnel. In 1918 he removed to Phoenix, Ariz., where he engaged in banking and cattle raising for a number of years. He had been a resident of Los Angeles since 1920. His home here was at 311 South Irving Boulevard.

Mr. Humbert was a member of the California Club, the Los Angeles Country Club, the Engineers' Club of New York, the Buffalo Club of New York, the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Los Angeles, a former vice-president of the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce and a director of the Phoenix National Bank.

Mr. Humbert leaves a widow and one son, William K. Humbert of Phoenix. Plans for funeral services will be announced later.

Course Begins in "Boyology" Monday Night

Conducted on the west coast for the first time, the Knights of Columbus "boyology" course, open to every man more than 18 years of age, will begin Monday night, continuing until the 23rd inst. It is free for men who are interested in obtaining a better understanding of the nature and needs of boys and the measures best adapted to satisfy those needs. The course has met with success in many cities of the East and Midwest.

Besides the Knights of Columbus Boy Life Bureau, under the direction of which the course is given, the following agencies are identified with it: American Red Cross, First Aid and Life Saving Corps, Big Brothers' Federation, Boys' Club of America, Playground and Recreation Association of America, and the Woodcraft League of America. Noted experts representing these agencies will act as the faculty. The work is to begin at 8 p.m. every night during the nine-day period.

HEAVY TRAVEL DUE

Holiday Rates Expected to Cause Thanksgiving Hegira

Thanksgiving travel, for which special reduced rates between all Santa Fe points on the coast lines will be offered, is expected to be heavy, according to announcement by General Passenger Agent Duffy. Where the one-way fare is $30 or less the rate will be on a basis of one and one-third fare for the round trip, and tickets will be sold the 22nd to the 24th inst., inclusive, with return limit on the 28th inst.

An exception in fares has been made for travel between San Diego and the San Francisco Bay cities, which will be $26.75 for the round trip.

BURNS PREVENT ACTOR FROM PLAYING ROLE

Severe burns on the hands, arms and face sustained last week by Ford Sterling, film comedian, will prevent him from playing an important role in Richard Dix's new picture, according to announcement made by Paramount officials yesterday. Sterling was burned when a gas furnace in the basement of his home exploded in his face. Dr. H. J. Strathearn, believes that it will be impossible for Sterling to return to work for at least two weeks. Sterling's face will not be scarred, but the burns on his arms may leave marks.

BANDITS DISTANCE OFFICER

After holding up Mrs. Topoho Yosher in a rooming-house at 250 Alisо street last night and taking $90 and a child's bank full of silver, two bandits ran out the door and almost collided with a uniformed policeman. He gave chase but the bandits escaped.

STATES SEEK DEMAND BASIS

Arizona and Nevada Want X-Ray on Power Costs Before Setting Colorado Tribute

Additional engineering data must be obtained by Arizona and Nevada before they are ready to go into conference with California concerning the amount of royalty accruing to the first-named States from any Federal-owned power plant upon the Colorado River, representatives of those States told W. B. Matthews, California commissioner yesterday.

Therefore, two electrical engineers are to be engaged by F. A. Reid, president of the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association, and Robert Tally, superintendent of the United Verde mine, both advisers to the Arizona commission. These technicians will work with H. W. Crozier and Lester S. Ready, San Francisco consulting electrical engineers, while the tri-State conference defers its formal sessions pending the production of concrete findings by these experts.

The three lower-basin States are agreed that Arizona and Nevada shall receive some revenue from the Federal power plants and that revenue, everyone concedes, must come from Southern California purchasers. It has been broadly intimated that unless this revenue is promised the States their Congressional delegations will fight the Swing-Johnson bill, which contemplates a dam and plants at Boulder Canyon.

Much of the discussion has revolved about the margin of economy between hydroelectric power transmitted here from Boulder Canyon and power generated by steam plants privately owned at the seaboard, it being recognized that the desert State royalties must be held below that margin.

No date for the official conference of the commissions from the three lower-basin States has been set as yet, according to State Engineer Malone of Nevada and President of the Senate Wilsnor of Arizona, and will be delayed until further reports have been received from the engineers.

Mr. Malone said he believed all hands rcognized that the slate, so far as last year's tri-State conferences are concerned, should be wiped clean and the States start all over again on a basis of fair treatment, otherwise Federal plans for control of the Colorado River seriously are jeopardized.

MAYOR BACKS WILSHIRE PLAN

Ordinance of Intention for Widening Signed

Action Permits Protests by Property Owners

Opposition May be Expressed Until Mid-December

Mayor Cryer has signed the ordinance of intention for the widening of Wilshire Boulevard, formerly Orange street, from Advarado street to Figueroa street. The action clears the way for filing of legal protests by property owners in the assessment district which will pay an estimated expense of $2,000,000 for the widening.

The ordinance of intention will be published legally next week, and then the district will be posted with notices and post cards will be mailed to property owners informing them of the action taken and the method of protest if they do not desire the widening. It is probable that the time for filing protests will expire about the middle of December.

Councilman Hall of the Eleventh District, in which the proposed widening is located, consistently has opposed the widening at this time, until the voters have decided whether they desire Westlake Park bridged to connect the two ends of Wilshire Boulevard and have authorized a bond issue for that purpose. Until the park bridge question is settled, Councilman Hall said, the widening of the east end of Wilshire Boulevard, with stub endings at Alvarado street and Figueroa street, will not be worth the great expense.

The Councilman said that if the present widening proceedings go through, then the same property owners later will have a much greater expense for the cutting down of the grade of the street, which includes a forty-foot cut at St. Paul street.

he advocated become incorporated into the law of the land.

In Los Angeles, for the last twenty-seven years, Col. Sobieski had kept up his fight against intemperance and against all evil and injustice wherever he found it. February 10, last, he left his bed, to which he had been confined for several days, and went to the Proximo Club to defend the memories of Washington and Lincoln, whose names, at that time, were being defamed by certain writers.

Col. Sobieski was keenly interested in every form of progress, was a popular member of the Golden State Lodge, F. and A. M., and a member of the Temple Baptist Church.

Col. Sobieski leaves his daughter, Mrs. L. S. Gilhousen, and her son, John, who has adopted the name of John Gilhousen Sobieski.

It was Col. Sobieski's last request that the Stars and Stripes be displayed at his funeral and that "The Star Spangled Banner" be sung. Funeral arrangements will be made today.

VETERANS TO GATHER

Roosevelt Camp to Have Fun at Gathering Monday

Veterans of the Spanish American War are invited to attend the get together meeting and entertainment to be given next Monday evening by Roosevelt Camp No. 9, United Spanish War Veterans, at Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street. Lieut.-Gov. Fitts will be the chief speaker.

A number of vaudeville features have been arranged. The drum corps of the camp which took first prize at the national encampment of the veterans at Des Moines, last year, and at Detroit, this year, will play. Roosevelt Camp is said to be the largest camp of Spanish-American War veterans.

FINAL ORDINANCE VOTED

The final ordinance for the paving of Beverly Drive from the south city boundary to Pico street has been adopted by the City Council. The next step will be the awarding of the contract by the Board of Public Works.

LIGHT PROTESTS DENIED

Protests against the ornamental lighting of Pasadena avenue from Avenue 26 to Avenue 34 have been denied by the City Council, but the presentation of the final ordinance for the improvement has been ordered withheld by the Council until further notice.

DITCH CLEANING URGED

Councilman Rice-Wray of the Sixth District has requested the City Council to order the storm drain ditch extending from Vernon avenue around the base of the Baldwin Hills cleaned so that the ditch will carry off storm waters this winter.

PAVING PLANS REVEALED

The City Council has announced its intention of ordering the paving of One Hundred and Seventh street from Figueroa street to Vermont avenue.

STREET WORK ORDERED

"MENTAL TRAINING" A FETISH

Formal discipline flourishes among us. This is the technical name for the belief that such a study as geometry is valuable because it "trains the reason." The total value of any program of studies is covered by the statement that it has "trained the mind."

Perhaps no doctrine in the history of education has done so much mischief, nor has any been more thoroughly discredited by analysis and by experiment; yet it persists, and it is significant that it flourishes most in America, where secondary schools, being unable to accomplish results of any importance in the actual achievement of knowledge, outlook, standards of taste or judgment, or methods of work, fall back on the esoteric claim that their teaching "disciplines the faculties."

The effects of any such belief are disastrous, for the disciplinarian forgets the true aims and values of his subject and uses it merely as a pedagogical club or as a set of intellectual dumb bells or chest weights. Its delights, the point of view to which it leads, what it means, and its relations to other subjects—all these values are set aside as of minor importance.

And our teachers are tempted to accept the doctrine of formal discipline because they cannot see the transforming effect of any satisfactory progress in their several subjects.—[Henry W. Holmes in the Atlantic Monthly.

PAPERS PILE UP FOR POST HOME

Contribution Swamps Highland Park Legionnaires

Bundles of Encouragement

NEWSPAPERS in automobiles, little red wagons hauled by youthful owners, bundles on bicycles pedaled by small boys and heaped on trucks and push-carts, rolled into American Legion headquarters of the Highland Park Post No. 206 at York Boulevard and Pasadena avenue yesterday to swell the post's building fund.

More than a week ago advertisements were run in community newspapers and flashed on theater screens that Armistice Day was to be old newspaper day for Highland Park Post. Boy Scouts of Troop 91 were pressed into service, going from door to door with their appeal.

Yesterday morning the bundles began to arrive. Legionnaires were swamped by the prompt response and estimated that more than fifty tons of old papers were collected.

Ten additional members were added to the post and Commander G. A. Terhune and Vice-Commander L. W. Burrell were enthusiastic over the results of the drive, and believe that when the drive is over the post will have enough to complete the purchase of a lot. Assistant Scoutmaster Howard Sens spent the day with his boys and promises future help.

BODY TO BE SENT EAST

Mrs. Nettie Grace Farr Will be Given Burial at Old Iowa Home

The body of Mrs. Nettie Grace Farr, of 632 West Forty-ninth Place, who died Tuesday following an illness of several years, will be taken by her sister to her former home in Sac City, Iowa, for burial.

Mrs. Farr, who was 44 years of age, was the wife of George W. Farr, for ten years an employee in the circulation department of The Times.

HOME-MAKING IDEAS SPREAD BY MOVIES

A great deal of the credit for the improved appearance of American home interiors should be given to the movies, maintains Vyvyan Donner in an article in Liberty. Recalling the ugliness of early movies, she tells how they slowly improved. And as they improved, says the writer:

"People who never had a chance to see other interiors than those of their intimate friends, in their own class and circle, got a peek into other homes by means of the cinema. They saw how other homes were furnished. They saw rooms without a clutter of ornaments and knicknacks. They saw mantels with but one bowl and clock on them, or but a pair of candlesticks. And twin beds. And they desired all these things. And began to get them. And they saw bathrooms. Believe it or not, it's the plumbers that have the movies to thank for showing people how beautiful and attractive bathrooms can be built."

"FIGHTIN' FIFTH" A JOKE

All China is laughing at the disclosure that the Fifth Regiment of Soochow—known as the "Fighting Fifth"—has never soiled its brilliant uniform in unseemly battle.

The "Fighting Fifth" is a venerable corps, organized far back in the Chinese empire days, 344 years ago. In the three and a half centuries it has never participated in a battle, though opportunity has often presented itself.

The present glorious "free-for-all" scrimmage raging in China may break the record of this peace-loving regiment, but residents of Soochow are willing to bet that the Fifth will never submit to putting the stain of gunpowder on its escutcheon.

Curiously enough, the regiment has changed uniforms so often that the men themselves have arguments about the actual number of times, says the Referee. With the coming of each new command the Fifth valiantly changes uniforms, always with an eye to increased radiance, and shouts "Hooray for our side." Troops may come and troops may go, but Soochow's "Fighting Fifth" stays forever.—[Siam Observer.

BRIDAL SHOWER GIFTS

Hints on selecting gifts for autumnal bridal "showers" are given by Ethel Somers in an article in Liberty. "The selection of the various bridal gifts is even more important than the refreshments," the writer points out. "This is especially true if the party is to be a kitchen shower. Gifts carelessly chosen may prove a lasting handicap rather than a boon to the bride-to-be.

"If we take it upon ourselves to help our guest of honor select her kitchen necessities," the writer continues, "we should not fail to take into consideration the fact that the investment will in all probability be a permanent one. Buying just pans or knives or bowls does not suffice. We must buy her real tools for service. They should be well built and durable, fitted with comfortable handles which turn without strain. They should be easily cleaned, light to handle and convenient to use. Tools of superior quality need not be expensive. Many of them may be purchased for $1 or less."

Transportation Expert Heads Tours Company

The election of Gerrit Fort as president of the Raymond & Whitcomb Company travel agency, succeeding Charles H. Wilson, was announced by officials of the concern yesterday. Mr. Wilson now becomes chairman of the executive committee.

GERRIT FORT © Bachrach

Mr. Fort has a background of transportation experience accumulated through successive appointments in the passenger department of New York Central, secretary of the Central Passenger Association, assistant general passenger agent of the Union Pacific, assistant vice-president and general passenger agent of New York Central, and Union Pacific traffic manager.

He served as assistant director of the United States Railroad Administration during the war and in 1920 was elected vice-president of the Boston and Maine line in charge of traffic. His exceptional experience is expected to be an invaluable asset to the Raymond & Whitcomb organization in the further establishing of its land cruises in America and in carrying on the development of American travel fields in which the company made its beginning nearly half a century ago.

ALBERT E. WEBB DIES

Came from Canada Where His Father Served in Parliament

Albert Edward Webb, 60 years of age, son of the late W. W. Webb, member of Parliament from Brighton, Can., died yesterday at his home, 636 South Serrano avenue. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Mr. Webb came to this city from Toronto sixteen years ago. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Alix Webb, and three sons, Albert McDonald, Norman Earnest and Reginald Seward.

NEW IDEA IN MARRIAGES HELD PERIL

Rabbi Declares Failure of Divorce Laws Causes Wedlock Tinkering

"The reason for all these proposals of companionate marriage, term marriage and so on is that the judges couldn't evolve a divorce law which is satisfactory and so they have started in to change marriage instead," declared Rabbi Meyer Winkler last night at Temple Sinai in a lecture on recent proposals for changes in marriage.

"We are neglecting part of the education that we should give our young people," he said. "Our schools are developing their intellect, but not their spiritual nature. Religious education is as necessary as any other sort. Civilization begins with marriage and the minute you end the marriage which has been evolved by centuries of civilization you deal a death blow to that civilization itself.

"We believe that marriage is not only a physical, but a spiritual union. One big trouble with these judges and their new marriage ideas is that they completely ignore the spiritual side and act on the false assumption that the only marriage relation is a physical one."

Rabbi Winkler also declared that Judge Lindsey was entirely wrong in his statements regarding relations between the sexes of modern youth. "Ninety-eight per cent of our boys are clean morally and physically," he stated.

ADMIRAL TO BE HOST TO CONSULAR CORPS

Consular representatives of thirty nations will be received tomorrow by Admiral Wiley, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, aboard the flagship, U.S.S. Texas, now at anchor in Los Angeles Harbor. Prior to the reception a luncheon will be served to the Consular Corps at the California Yacht Club. A tour of the city has been arranged for the visitors by the Harbor Board.

LASSOES LIONS FOR PASTIME

Then He Shoots 'Em if They Cut Up

Andy Booth and His Trophy

FIRST he lassoes 'em, then he shoots 'em. This, in at least one instance, appears to be the tactics of Andy Booth, scout for William H. Hoegee Company.

Booth has just returned from an expedition in the Kaibab forest in Arizona, bringing with him the carcass of a lion measuring seven feet from tip to tip. Booth ran across the beast one morning breakfasting on a deer while hunting deer himself. Returning to camp, he enlisted the aid of a couple of cowboys and a pack of hounds and with them succeeded in treeing the lion. It was his intention to take it alive but after lassoing it the lion's antics obliged his captors to shoot.

Booth said it is estimated a full-grown lion will destroy at least two deer a month. The specimen, which weighs 200 pounds, will be mounted.

TEST OF LIGHT SPEED DELAYED

Dr. Michelson Unable to Complete Experiments

Smoke Haze Too Dense Over Mt. Wilson Area

Work Will be Renewed Next Spring or Summer

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Nov. 11.—Haze and smoke overhanging the mountains north of Pasadena have forced Dr. Albert A. Michelson, world-famous scientist of the University of Chicago, to abandon his present attempt to complete two important experiments dealing with light, toward which scientific attention the world over has been directed.

Dr. Michelson will leave Pasadena for Chicago tomorrow, bitterly disappointed after two months of futile waiting for clear weather in the upper reaches of the mountains. He had hoped to bring his work to completion by the end of this month, but now he plans to return and try again in the spring or summer, he said today.

SOUGHT FINAL CHECK

For the last half-dozen years at the Mt. Wilson Observatory, Dr. Michelson has been conducting experiments which have given him a more accurate figure for the speed at which light travels than any other man has ever attained. The purpose of this last trip was to make a final check on these figures, and to repeat the famous Michelson-Morley experiment, which gave rise to the Einstein theory of relativity some thirty years ago.

In 1925, the original results of the Michelson-Morley experiment were contested by Dr. Dayton C. Miller of Cleveland after he made a series of similar investigations at Mt. Wilson. By repeating his experiment this fall, it was considered that Dr. Michelson would either vindicate or discredit the Einstein theory, but now that will have to wait.

Dr. Michelson's light measurements were made by throwing beams back and forth from Mt. Wilson to Mt. San Antonio. This fall he planned to send the rays from Mt. Wilson to Mt. San Jacinto, four times as far, but his present experience has shown that the atmosphere between these two peaks is not clear enough to carry the beam of light, although the arc light used is the most powerful on earth.

TO MOVE APPARATUS

Dr. Michelson said today he expects his apparatus on Mt. San Jacinto to be dismantled and moved to another peak northwest of Mt. Wilson, in the hope that clearer atmospheric conditions will prevail in that direction, when he returns next year.

He will resume his work as head of the department of physics at the University of Chicago in the meantime. He has held this post since 1892, and will be 75 years of age next month. He was the first American physicist to win the Nobel prize and is recognized as one of the greatest scientists of modern times.

Because of the importance of these two experiments, which he now is forced to postpone, and because of Dr. Michelson's eminence, his projected work at Mt. Wilson this fall had attracted international scientific attention and will continue to do so until he finally completes them, because he is regarded as the one man in the world who can do the work best.

Actress Wins Beauty Prize

Gloria Stratton was awarded the prize for the girl with the most beautiful auburn hair; Kathleene Sturgiff for the most beautiful bobbed hair and Hildegard Juch for the most beautiful long hair. The personality prize was awarded Lola Brannon.

OPERATION ORDERED

Clive Brook Will Have His Tonsils Taken Out Monday

Clive Brook, film player, is to go to the Good Samaritan Hospital Monday for an operation, it was announced yesterday at the Paramount studio.

He has been suffering from tonsilitis for some time, and the operation was advised. His physician is Dr. E. C. Montgomery.

Brook is an English actor and has gained considerable favor because of his work in recent productions.

CLASSES ANNOUNCED

Two courses in the theory and practice of advertising under the auspices of the extension division of the University of California are to open soon in the Hillstreet Building, Eighth and Hill streets. New students in the beginners' class must register by Monday night, advanced pupils being given until Friday evening to sign up. John A. Ford, of the firm of Hoag & Ford, will be instructor for both classes.
